TRIM BUDGET; BALK MAYOR

BRITISH DEMAND MINIMUM FLEET OF 50 CRUISERS

Offer to Slash 20 from Old Quota.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Great Britain is prepared to reduce its minimum number of cruisers from 70 to 50, a figure which, it is declared, also represents her absolute peace time requirements. This pronouncement, the first definite statement to be made regarding Great Britain's policy at the forthcoming five power naval disarmament conference, came from the lips of A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, in an address at Sheffield this evening.

Mr. Alexander, who for many years was a Baptist lay preacher, said the Kellogg anti-war pact had so altered the situation that the admiralty felt justified in making such a reduction, provided the other powers agree to adequate limitation of projected building programs.

The figure mentioned, Mr. Alexander emphasized, is the lowest the British feel can be fixed to meet even peace conditions in present world circumstances. He said the figure would be operative until a conference and a revision in 1936, which he hoped would confirm and extend the present agreement.

Mr. Alexander's speech was in the nature of a rebuke to the Tory press, which is conducting a campaign against the conference.

Text of Speech.

Following is the text of Mr. Alexander's address:

"I want to acknowledge that up to the present the press in this country has maintained an attitude of great friendliness and helpfulness with regard to the forthcoming five power conference. But with the emergence of some of the main problems to be considered, and particularly the problem of cruiser strength, I have observed a tendency for the press to ask 'What is the attitude of the admiralty with regard to fixing the minimum requirements of cruiser strength for the British empire at fifty ships instead of the seventy ships asked for in 1927?'

"Let me say at the outset that in decisions of policy on matters of this kind it is the government which is responsible and which must answer to the nation. But in view of the nature of certain questions which have been put in the press I think it would be opportune for me, as first lord of the admiralty, to explain the admiralty's views.

One-Power Naval Standard.

"Our estimate of the defense requirements of the British empire has been summed up in the policy of successive governments to his majesty and in the dominions, a one-power naval standard.

"In the matter of capital ships this has been very simply expressed in the form of parity with the greatest other naval power. This was the main achievement of the Washington conference.

"In the matter of cruisers it is not so simple, and this was the crux of the Geneva conference of three powers, which failed to reach an agreement.

Must Consider Defense Needs.

"One of the most important aims of the London conference will be to reconcile our defense needs in the matter of cruisers with the requirements of an international agreement.

"After the Washington conference, at which the question of cruiser strength was only to a limited extent touched upon, the board of admiralty advised the government of the day of their views of the needs of the British empire in cruiser strength.

"The number, which is based on the needs of defense for our world-wide vital sea communications, was fixed at seventy. That was the number for which we held out at Geneva. That is the number which, had conditions remained the same, would be our requirement today.

"But today we have to take account of the new situation which has arisen through the signature of the pact of Paris outlawing war by most of the nations of the world.

"With such powerful support for peace we feel justified in looking forward to a period in which armed conflicts need not be expected.

"The board of admiralty, therefore, having regard to all the circumstances of today and especially to the pact of Paris and to improved world political relationships, are prepared to agree to fifty cruisers as the minimum needs of the empire up to the date for a

COUNCIL BUMPS THOMPSON ON POLITICAL FAT

Night Session Cuts Off $300,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Thompson was given another bump on his corporate budget at three sessions of the city council yesterday. The battle over a proposed overloaded budget started last Wednesday—the mayor and his friends for it and a majority of the council against it. At that time the mayor mustered 19 votes.

In the battles yesterday the mayor lost Ald. Cepak and Landmesser, cutting his strength to 17 votes. The opposition gained this pair and an absentee of Wednesday, boosting their force to 29 councilmen.

This number is five votes short of enough to override the mayor's veto of the appropriations for police, fire, health, street lighting and cleaning. The mayor desired $4,625,000 added to the appropriations for these departments. The council declined to increase these appropriations more than its estimated savings of $300,000 resulting from cuts in other departments effected at 2:30 o'clock this morning. At that hour the aldermen were still in session, debating savings in automobile maintenance. They decided to save $28,000 by taking away auto maintenance from fifty-one police captains.

Act to Eliminate Fat.

At 10 o'clock last night the council adopted the resolution of Ald. Albert and Meyering requesting Mayor Thompson to veto all of the $55,272,205 budget which he did not veto last Wednesday when he disapproved of items totaling $37,425,000. The $17,847,000 items which were not vetoed include the "nonessentials," "less essentials" and "political fat." The purpose of the council sessions yesterday was to trim down these items and add the savings to the important departments of police, fire, health, street light and street cleaning.

A committee, consisting of Ald. Massen, Eaton and Albert, was appointed to present the request embodied in the Albert-Meyering resolution to the mayor. They took the resolution to the mayor's office, and were met by First Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen, who escorted them into the mayor's inner office, according to Albert.

"When we entered the mayor arose," Albert reported to the council later. "He took the resolution, laid it on the table, and said he would consider it later. He added: 'It is now 10:30 o'clock. What are you fellows doing?' The committee withdrew.

"In the room with the mayor were Corporation Counsel Ettelson, Robert Perbohner of the board of local improvements, and H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education."

Cut Out Own Autos.

To perform the task of trimming out the political fat, for which the council met, the aldermen resolved themselves into a committee of the whole yesterday morning, but did not get started on the job until the Massen-Eaton-Albert committee had returned from the mayor's office last night.

The first "soft spot" eliminated was $35,280 for autos of 49 aldermen and $1,600 for the auto of the chairman of the finance committee. Then followed a cut of $14,000 in the allotment for the zoning board, $50,000 from the department of public service, and $26,000 from the department of public welfare.

At this point Ald. Arvey suggested a compromise, which in effect was a proposal that the council discontinue an attempt to trim the less essential departments further. This came after midnight, but the council struggled along for two hours more. Ald. McDonough insisted that a large part of the $307,000 for maintenance of autos of other officials and employés be eliminated. Ald. Clark thought that $100,000 might be saved in that way.

Asks $300,000 Legal Cut.

Then they started on the law department. Ald. Albert proposed a cut of $300,000.

"We would be better off if the department were abolished and we hired a reputable firm to do the city's law work," Albert argued. "You can get any kind of advice you want from that department if its suits the city administration."

The proposed cut of $300,000 failed, and then Albert moved a cut of $180,000. Chairman Clark of the finance committee told the council that the law department's allowance is $180,000 more than in the last year of the de-

THINKS HOLDUP JOKE; MAY DIE FROM WOUND

Leo Weiskopf, 44 years old, 2031 Pierce avenue, a restaurant owner, was shot and wounded fatally last night when he mistook two youthful bandits for jokers and pushed one of them aside. He was taken to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital with a bullet wound in his abdomen.

Weiskopf, who is part owner of a restaurant at 18 South Clark street, was on his way from his home to the home of his brother-in-law, Sol Bergman, 2110 Crystal street, to escort his daughter, Lillian, 16, home from a party. In front of 1356 North Hoyne avenue the two robbers stopped him and one of them covered him with a revolver, ordering him to throw up his hands. Weiskopf raised his hands for an instant and then, thinking that it was a joke because the two youths were neatly dressed and did not resemble criminals, he lowered his hands.

"Aw, go on," he said, pushing the gunman. The bandit fired one shot at close range and then both fled. Neighbors who heard the shot called the West North avenue police who removed Weiskopf to the hospital.

AIR MAIL PILOT BURNS TO DEATH IN PLANE CRASH

Sidney, Neb., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Fog and snow conspired tonight to cause the death of Charles (Chuck) Kenwood, 28, pilot for the Boeing Air Transport company, who was burned to death when his plane crashed on a farm ten miles west of here.

Kenwood apparently was attempting an emergency landing when his plane crashed on the farm of Ben Couch, who rushed to the assistance of the youthful pilot and succeeded in extricating him from the flaming wreckage, but he died in Couch's arms a few moments later.

The plane and most of the mail was consumed. A large number of business checks were found scattered from the pouches.

Cadet Pilot Killed.

Santa Maria, Cal., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Lawrence W. Lake, 25, of Los Angeles, a cadet at the Hancock Foundation of College Aeronautics, was killed today when his plane dived.

Italian Volcano, Thought Extinct, Again Spouts Fire

Disease Borne by Parrots Is Fatal to Eight

[By the Associated Press.]

Two deaths were reported in the United States yesterday from psittacosis, a rare disease contracted through the handling of parrots, and eleven persons were believed to be ill of the disease.

In Germany six deaths were attributed to the parrot disease and 15 or more persons were ill with the malady, the symptoms of which are similar to those of pneumonia and typhoid fever.

Toledo, O., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Toledo's first death from psittacosis, the rare ailment called the parrot disease, was recorded here today at Mercy hospital.

Toledo specialists after a thorough examination have announced that the death of Mrs. Percy O. Williams was brought on by this disease. Her husband is in the hospital seriously ill with the disease. When he returned here three weeks ago, after spending two months in Cuba, he brought two parrots home. One of the birds died three days after he arrived here.

Baltimore Woman Dies.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Schaeffer died today from what hospital physicians said they believed to be psittacosis, or parrot fever.

Mrs. Schaeffer was taken to the hospital on Monday with symptoms of pneumonia, though her condition failed to respond to treatment for that malady.

It was learned by health officials that Mrs. Schaeffer had been in contact with a parrot several days before she became ill and an autopsy has been performed under the direction of the department of pathology of the University of Maryland.

Seven other cases, believed to be psittacosis, in Maryland were at a standstill. Four employés of a pet shop in Baltimore where a parrot which is believed to have communicated the disease to an Annapolis family was purchased are ill, and physicians said they believed the disease from which they are suffering is parrot fever.

Home Is Quarantined.

Warren, O., Jan. 10.—(AP)—City authorities today sought information from state health officials about parrot fever, from which three Warren people are believed to be suffering.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McEntire, and their daughter, Miss Clody McEntire, became ill a few days after they had bought a parrot which died soon after it was purchased.

City health authorities quarantined the home.

GERMANY WANTS NO MORE.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The recent outbreak of psittacosis that has already taken some human lives has caused the government to advise various state authorities to prohibit the importation of parrots and parrakeets.

Twenty cases of psittacosis were reported from Berlin, thirteen from Hamburg, and six from Altona. Of these six were fatal.

In its communique to the state authorities the reich stated that the epidemic was caused by diseased birds imported from Argentina, where psittachosis had spread widely, especially in the vicinity of Buenos Aires.

One Case Reported in Poland.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A workingman named Fucha, living in a village near Morawska Ostrava, today was reported to be suffering from psittacosis, "or "parrots' disease," which has recently made its appearance in Europe.

First 1930 Bomb Damages Cleaning and Dyeing Shop

The first bomb of the new year was exploded early this morning in the doorway of the Live Wire Cleaners and Dyers shop at 2641 West North avenue. The explosion blew out several windows in the two story brick building, causing damage estimated at $200. The police were seeking the owners of the business in an effort to determine the motive for the attack.

The High Point in the Career of George Hunt

George Hunt, 18 years old, three letter high school athlete at El Paso, Ill., and the town hero, lies at the University of Illinois Research hospital here wondering why luck never gave him a break.

Surgeons, who have had the boy in their care, say he probably can live only three months. He is suffering from a dislocated vertebra, sustained on Oct. 18 when, despite a previous injury to his back, the urge to win sent him into an important football game between his school and Pontiac High.

In the Cook county jail, held under $10,000 bail on a manslaughter charge, is Harry Massey, victim of the same brand of ill luck that has put George Hunt at death's door. Massey, a cousin who has given Hunt a home since the latter was 11 years old, came to Chicago last week to see the boy.

Cousins Are Poor.

Money isn't plentiful in the Massey household. Massey is a carpenter. Mrs. Massey runs a small restaurant. Hunt himself, whose father died when he was 11, and whose mother is an invalid, helped to lighten Massey's burden. The youth worked before and after school in the general store and the pool hall, and on week-ends conducted a shoe shining business that occasionally netted him as much as $6.

To cut down the expense of the journey to visit the injured athlete, Massey rode from Peoria to Chicago in a cartage truck. In Ogden avenue at Lincoln street the truck brought death to a surface lines supervisor who fell after leaping on the snow covered running board to order the driver off the tracks. The driver, his assistant and Massey were placed under arrest. An inquest will be held today.

Massey hopes to be cleared so that tomorrow he can take Hunt back to Pontiac—probably to die.

Sat on Sidelines.

Hunt received his first serious injury early in October. On the day of the big game, Oct. 18, the game that meant the high school conference lead for either El Paso Township or Pontiac, Hunt sat on the sidelines, unable to turn his head to the front. The teams were evenly matched, and Hunt pleaded to be given a chance, but the coach refused to consent.

In the third quarter Coach Harry Clark told Hunt he could take his old place at quarter back. The score was then 6 to 6. Forgetting his injury, Hunt called his own signal on four successive plays. In those four plays he charged from his own 40 yard mark to Pontiac's ten yard zone.

Hunt wasn't through. He called on himself a fifth time. The play sent a formidable interference sweeping out over the left end of the line. Hunt, carrying the ball, raced around the opposite end. Beyond the line of scrimmage he plunged headlong into a Pontiac back. Hunt crumpled to the ground and when the players tried to assist him he told them he couldn't get up.

Carried Off Field.

The boy was placed on a blanket and carried off the pitch. The game ended with the score still tied, 6 to 6. Hunt was taken to a hospital, where examination revealed a dislocation of a vertebra. He remained at the hospital for treatment, but he failed to show improvement. Early in December it was decided to send him to Chicago.

Meanwhile El Paso folks talked of nothing but the injury of their hero. They responded with money just as they had responded to his athletic feats. Benefits were arranged. A the-

WICKERSHAM'S REPORT REFERS TO THE DRY ACT

Says Enforcement Is Inadequate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—President Hoover today decided that he will transmit to congress next Monday the recommendations of the Wickersham law enforcement commission dealing with its program for a countrywide tightening up of the federal machinery for enforcing the prohibition laws.

This announcement from the White House stood out as the most significant of a half dozen developments during the day as the capitol's prohibition war moved swiftly toward a climax. Other incidents included the following:

1. The Wickersham commission, in a preliminary summary of its activities, designated prohibition as one of the causes which has rendered criminal law enforcement "eptirely inadequate."

Deny Break with Hoover.

2. President Hoover yielded to demands of leaders in the house of representatives that the plan for a joint congressional prohibition committee be abandoned while the house spokesmen indignantly denied any "break" with the administration.

3. Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] in a house speech branded prohibition as "utterly un-Christian" and denounced hypocritical activities of preachers in politics."

4. Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] demanded an investigation of "government lawlessness."

5. Eugene Jackson, Washington dry agent, who shot a citizen during a raid without a search warrant, was freed by a coroner's jury on the ground that he fired in self-defense.

Near Showdown in Congress.

With the foregoing events following one another in rapid succession, it became increasingly apparent that the prohibition controversy, which has been raging for three weeks, soon will come to a showdown upon specific legislation in the two houses. The Wickersham commission report, backed by the administration, is expected to furnish the gage of battle.

However, the advance quotations from the report indicate that it simply reports progress, with the conclusions and recommendations still to come.

The White House statement that the report will go to the capitol on Monday was interpreted as evidence that the President is opposed to further delay on his enforcement program, while his willingness to drop the joint committee plan indicated that he will overlook technicalities.

Lax Law Enforcement.

"A preliminary examination by the commission," the Wickersham statement asserted, "demonstrates unquestionably that the criminal law enforcement machinery of the country is entirely inadequate; that prohibition, automobile theft, white slave traffic, immigration, and other criminal laws of the federal government have overtaxed the capacity and effectiveness of the national machinery for enforcement."

Explaining that its study on prohibition has dealt with law violations, the unification of enforcement agencies, relief of court congestion, and codification of the various laws, the statement continued:

"A considerable portion of the activities of the prohibition committee of the commission has been given to development of proposals for action on the most urgent questions.

Congestion in Court.

"The question of the better centralization of responsibility and coordination of federal agencies has been given careful examination, together with measures for relief of congestion in the courts. Special attention is being given to the administration of the law with respect to the manufacture and sale of industrial alcohol."

President Hoover's decision to allow the commission's recommendations on prohibition to go to the regular committees in congress rather than to a

The White House view had been that the whole question in its present tangled form could be expedited if handled by one group and the resolution for its creation passed the senate. It died in the house yesterday when Speaker Nicholas Longworth made it known that the house leaders, jealous of the rights of the regular committees, did not agree with the supercommittee idea and that the resolution could not pass.

Insist There Is No Split.

The house leaders today, however, rushed to the front with statements objecting vehemently to interpretation of the difference on procedure as a split with the administration, and Representative Tilson said:

"There has been no objection raised, so far as I have learned, to carrying out the wishes of the President."

The house wets, however, saw the differences in a different light. Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] asserting that the confusion in the dry ranks has now been officially demonstrated. "No further investigation is necessary to show the complete breakdown of enforcement and the failure of prohibition," La Guardia said.

Schafer Quotes From Bible.

Representative Schafer in his address entitled "Prohibition and Christianity" delivered what was at once characterized as "a wet sermon."

Quoting from the Bible, Schafer drew the conclusions that "our present prohibition laws are in direct conflict with the teachings of Jesus Christ," and that "to save Christianity prohibition must be destroyed."

"Christianity is the only religion that recognizes the dignity and sovereignty of the individual, inherent in the principle of personal liberty," he declared. "This is the secret of its popularity.

"And yet, if the divine Christ were to appear on earth today and attend a wedding feast in the nation's capital and again perform his miracle of transforming water into wine, some fanatical prohibition demagogue from a state where the tall corn grows and the strong booze blows, clothing himself in the robes of righteousness, would no doubt appear before a grand jury two years later and demand that the Savior be indicted on no other evidence than a keen sense of smell and laboratory experience."

Applause From Galleries.

This sally at Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], who recently told a grand jury about the famous Willard hotel drinking party, drew a burst of applause and laughter from the galleries.

Turning his guns on the churches which lend their support to the prohibition movement, Schafer said he would "challenge any member of the church in action—rather, the church in politics—to defend the principle of prohibition as Christian in character."

The churches, he charged, "have traded the cross for a policeman's club."

"I appeal to the sincere men and women who profess the Christian religion," he continued. "Many, having been deceived by dry preachers, honestly believe prohibition to be a Christian proposition.

"Today practically all the evangelical churches are allied with the Anti-Saloon league in defense of the prohibition heresy. With few exceptions, the other churches and their members are submissive, indifferent and silent."

La Follette On the Problem.

While Schafer was lambasting the drys in the house, Senator La Follette was denouncing them for their attempt to dictate the report of the law enforcement commission. Declaring that the commission should give no heed to outside interference, La Follette held that it is the commission's responsibility to deal with the wisdom of laws as well as their enforcement.

"Prohibition, of course, is a part of the problem," La Follette said. "To what extent, if any, it has encouraged lawlessness and destroyed respect for the law is for the commission to form its judgment upon the ascertained facts.

"Besides individual lawlessness, the commission must direct its attention to governmental lawlessness. One of the most serious phases of the crime wave is the use of violent and illegal methods by the government officers who are themselves charged with the enforcement of the law."

3 Couples Visit Waukegan in Taxi to Be Married

Justice of the Peace Henry F. Wallenwein presided at a triple midnight wedding last night in his home in Waukegan. The three couples, all claiming to be of Evanston, alighted from a taxi at the home of Deputy County Clerk Florence Effinger at 11:45 p. m., procured licenses, and proceeded to the home of the justice for the ceremony. The couples identified themselves as George Jasper, 21, and Fern Hilton, 18 years old; Edward Murphy, 25, and Laura Hilterahin, 21 years old, and William Depp Jr., 22, and Evelyn Wood, 18 years old.

Wickersham Outlines First Report Drafted by Hoover Law Enforcement Commission

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10. — [Special.] — Chairman Wickersham of the Hoover commission on law enforcement tonight made public the following statement—first to indicate the progress made in the inquiry since the commission took it up early last summer:

"The national commission on law observance and enforcement, organized some seven months ago, has held during the present week its ninth regular meeting. The broad purpose of the commission being a searching examination of criminal law enforcement including prohibition, the organization of its work naturally falls into the conduct of police, prosecution, courts and judicial procedure, the management of penal institutions, and the causes of crime; the objective of all of which is to determine postive measures of reform which will secure more prompt and effective justice.

Law Machinery Clogged.

"A preliminary examination by the commission demonstrated unquestionably that the criminal law enforcement machinery of the country is entirely inadequate; that prohibition, automobile theft, white slave traffic, immigration, and other criminal laws of the federal government have overtaxed the capacity and effectiveness of the national machinery for enforcement. The relations of the state agencies of law enforcement have also to be considered.

"Under direction of eleven committees organized in the commission, exhaustive examination of the situation has been initiated through wide correspondence, conferences by members of the commission with scores of leading men and officials, and by the appointment of qualified research experts, of whom some fourteen have been engaged to date, and by coöperation with crime commissions and similar agencies throughout the country.

Tells of Vollmer's Work.

"The following summary of the work of the various subcommittees may be given:

"POLICE—The first point of contact between the law and the offender is through the police and no thorough study of conditions of law enforcement could be made which did not involve a very careful examination of the subject of police organization and administration. The commission secured for the month of September last the services of August Vollmer, then chief of police of Berkeley, Cal., now a professor at the University of Chicago, and admittedly one of the leaders in the field of police organization and administration. Mr. Vollmer completed and furnished the commission with a preliminary report early in October, but has been prevented by other duties from following it up with the larger work of application which the commission has desired him to complete.

"A further staff is being recruited. The commission has made arrangements for the gathering of information in leading scientific police laboratories in foreign countries relating to the most modern developments in the methods for detecting crime.

"COURTS—The question of courts has presented many difficult problems. Most important is the question of the general organization of the federal judiciary, the jurisdiction of the federal courts and procedure therein. At the request of the commission Judge Francis G. Caffey of the U. S. District court in New York and Benjamin A. Matthews of the New York bar undertook the study of the courts of that district.

"In addition to these reports, a special study of the federal district courts was undertaken for the commission by Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., United States district judge of Houston, Tex., for the purpose chiefly of determining the extent to which congestion exists in the federal courts and the methods which might be adopted for relief.

"PROSECUTION—Immediately following the contact between the police and the offender comes the question of prosecution. Early in its work the commission secured the services of Alfred Bettman, who has had large experience in the preparation of the Cleveland crime survey of 1921, and also more recently with the Boston crime survey, to undertake a study and report on the methods of prosecution, the offices of prosecutors, and other enforcement personnel, and the general considerations incident to the prosecution of offenders. Mr. Bettman has been continuously engaged in this work with a staff of assistants and his report is expected within a reasonably short time.

"The commission concluded from these preliminary studies that a far more thorough study of the whole matter should be undertaken, and that such an inquiry could be best carried on through the coöperative efforts of the law schools of the country. This work has been assigned to a committee comprising Charles E. Clark, dean of the law school of Yale university; Owen J. Roberts, Prof. E. M. Morgan of the law school of Harvard university; Dr. O. K. McMurray of the University of California, and President Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

"PENAL INSTITUTIONS, PROBATION AND PAROLE—After a preliminary examination of a large amount of material bearing upon these subjects and conferences with officials and others engaged in these fields the commission set up a committee under Dr. Hastings H. Hart of the Russell Sage Foundation to make an exhaustive inquiry into the subject.

"PROHIBITION—The work of the committee on prohibition naturally divides itself into, first, the consideration of violation of the present laws by importation and manufacture, and by diversion of industrial alcohol; the machinery for the administration of the law, involving the personnel of the enforcement agencies, their coördination and supervision; the coöperation of federal and state governments, and the coördination of administrative and prosecuting officials, and the judicial machinery of enforcement, involving necessary changes in judicial organization and improvement in criminal procedure; codification of existing statutes, recommendation of additional legislation, and provisions for the relief of existing congestion in federal courts.

"A considerable portion of the activities of the committee has been given to development of proposals for action on most urgent questions. The question of better centralization of responsibility and coördination of federal agencies has been given careful examination, together with measures for relief of congestion in the courts.

"Aside from the coöperation of the various government agencies the committee has had the benefit of the services of Mr. A. W. Woodcock, United States attorney for the district of Maryland, who has been given leave by the department of justice for this purpose; Albert E. Sawyer, E. E. Lindberg and other members of the staff. Special attention is being given to the administration of the law with respect to the manufacture and sale of industrial alcohol.

"CAUSES OF CRIME—A preliminary report on the psychiatric aspects of crime has been prepared for the commission by Dr. Herman Adler, state criminologist of Illinois, and Miss Mary Van Kleeck of the Russell Sage Foundation has undertaken a study of the economic and industrial factors bearing on criminal conduct. A number of conferences also have been held with outstanding psychiatrists and psychologists and much material assembled for use upon this important topic.

"JUVENILE DELINQUENCY—A preliminary report has been prepared by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau, department of labor, and Miss Lenroot, her assistant. The commission also has secured the services of Miss Miriam Van Waters, referee of the Juvenile court of Los Angeles, Cal., and president of the National Conference of Social Workers, to make an exhaustive inquiry, the expenses of which are borne from other sources than the commission's funds.

"CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND THE FOREIGN BORN—Dean Abbott of the University of Chicago has undertaken a study of this subject and is pursuing investigations in California, Texas, New Orleans, Chicago, and New York, having at present working under her Prof. Handman of the University of Texas, Prof. Horak of Tiffin, O.; Jackson Chance of Los Angeles, Prof. Taylor of Berkeley, Cal.; Prof. Steiner of Tulane university, New Orleans; Paul Wærnshuis, and others of Chicago, and C. W. King of New York.

"COST OF CRIME—One of the important factors in emphasizing the need of reform is the cost of crime to the people of the United States; the expense of maintaining police and detection agencies, courts, prisons, and all the personnel and paraphernalia of law enforcement, as well as the indirect cost shown by the expense of extralegal protection against crime. This inquiry is in charge of Goldthwaite H. Dorr, assisted by Sydney P. Simpson, both of the city of New York.

"ABUSES IN ENFORCEMENT—The study of this subject has been undertaken by Walter H. Pollack of the New York bar and Prof. Zechariah Chafee of the Harvard law school.

"The facts which are being collected in this branch of the inquiry include those relating to the use of the third degree, intimidation and other improper actions by some police prosecutors and judicial officers as well as of the administrative and enforcing officials.

"STATISTICS—Early in its work the commission was troubled with the fact that the statistics with respect to crime and criminal conditions were so inadequate as to require study and recommendation of administrative or legislative action. The services of Prof. Sam Bass Warner of Harvard university were secured to investigate this problem with a view to the formulation of recommendations for proper production and collection of statistics upon crime and criminal enforcement. In addition to this fundamental necessity, the commission is collecting current statistics with a view to the assistance of survey divisions of the commission in their conclusions.

"Inasmuch as the members of the commission are serving without compensation, and as eleven out of the 14 experts in charge of different investigations are also serving without compensation and are assisted by many others, some of whom are likewise giving their services in the national interest, the expenditure of the commission up to the present time has amounted only to about $70,000."

OVERRIDE MAYOR, ACT TO CUT FAT OUT OF BUDGET

Aldermen Vote to Trim Political Jobs.

partment under Francis X. Busch. This second motion of Albert failed. Ald. Maypole made the next motion for a law department cut of $100,000. This was approved.

Aldermen Near Fist Fight.

The fireworks of the day came at the morning session. The battle became so bitter that a fist fight between Ald. James B. Bowler and Oscar F. Nelson was prevented only by holding the belligerents.

It had been demonstrated twice that the mayor's forces were in a minority just before the council resolved itself into a committee of the whole. The galleries were packed with employés who had been eliminated from the pay roll. The rules require a clearing of the gallery. Ald. Toman suggested that the rule be violated. Nelson, the mayor's floor leader, took up the fight. He charged that Bowler in 1927 had asked him to sustain the rule.

"You're a liar," retorted Nelson.

Later the aldermen at the solicitation of friends agreed to shake hands, but not all of the ill feeling was dissipated. Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee, charged that an effort had been made to "incite the gallery to riot."

Mayor in Losing Battle.

The mayor's forces did their best to prevent the council from going into a committee of the whole. On the two test roll calls they lost. Also the administration forces presented an opinion by Corporation Counsel Ettelson holding that the council had no power to amend the unvetoed $7,847,000 of the budget. This opinion was addressed to Clark, but he asserted he never had asked for it.

That matter of legality was discussed all afternoon, with the result that a majority of the council decided that Ettelson was wrong. Ald. Clark said he had consulted two former heads of the city law department, William H. Sexton and Frances X. Busch. He said both asserted that the council had the power to amend the budget under the present circumstances.

In addition, Clark said he had the opinion of a third prominent lawyer who held that the council can both amend and repeal the budget.

Ald. Arvey took up every corporate budget back to 1918 and showed that each had been amended, and that the subsequent tax levy on each appropriation had not been questioned.

Warning from Bankers.

Silas H. Strawn, head of the citizens' committee, added his support to the council's effort to keep the budget within the estimated revenues. He phoned Chairman Clark of the finance committee that tax anticipation warrants based upon an overloaded budget would not be saleable.

The council had demonstrated that it had the votes to make a balanced budget, and had decided it had the authority and had received this advice and warning from Mr. Strawn.

The aldermen favoring a balanced budget took several hours to consider the form of their amendments to the budget. They expect that Mayor Thompson will veto any cuts made in the "less essential" appropriations, but he will approve increases recommended for the departments of health, police, fire, street lighting and cleaning.

Aldermen Proceed Carefully.

Ald. Massen, Guernsey, Eaton, Maypole, Arvey and McDonough conferred at length on the amendment procedure. Ald. Massen suggested that the amendments trim the "less essential" appropriations and do nothing more. At the same time, however, he would have the council announce that in its supplemental budget it will add the savings to the major departments if the mayor does not veto on the savings.

"If we trim the less important departments," he explained, "we will have all the money saved, which we can appropriate any time before July 1. If the mayor prohibits us from making the savings by vetoing our action, then we will have nothing to appropriate to the major departments. If the mayor does not veto our action we will have more funds for the departments."

TRAINS TIED UP AS SIGNAL MAN DIES IN TOWER

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Trains of the Interboro in both directions on the Second and Third avenue elevated lines were stopped for from fifteen to thirty minutes between 8 and 9 o'clock today when Joseph Rice, on duty in the tower of the Franklin square station, died of a heart attack. The congestion on the elevated lines was relieved by diverting four Second avenue South ferry trains to city hall, but it was more than an hour before normal traffic was reëstablished. Rice was 54 years old and lived at 2144 Lexington avenue.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 10.—As a protest against the increased parking tax levied on its members by the municipal council, the taxi drivers' union ordered a strike for today. The prefecture of police said only 83 of the 6,890 cabs left the garages this morning. The tax increase was voted at the same time the municipal council authorized an increase in taxi mileage rates, and the drivers must share it with the owners of cabs.

Several hundred individual owners driving their own cabs are not participating in the strike, as most of them do not belong to the union. They reaped a rich harvest during the evening rush hour.

Meanwhile protests pour in on the municipal council because of increases in the tramway, auto bus and subway fares which were voted at the same time and became effective Jan. 1. Now, apparently, taxi drivers do not want increased rates, if increased taxes go with them.

ORDERS RETURN OF BRITISH SHIP AND RUM CARGO

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Federal Judge Lake Jones today ordered the British vessel Billy and Betty, seized by the coast guard off the Florida coast last fall, returned to her owners, together with a cargo of 1,000 cases of liquor.

Seize $150,000 Wines.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 10.—(AP)—United States customs officers today seized a sealed shipment of 420 cases of French wines, liqueurs, and Scotch whisky in a Cleveland railroad yard.

The shipment, valued at $150,000, was said by customs officers to represent the largest seizure ever made in the interior. Customs Agent Frank E. Jewell was in charge.

The boxes of wines, liqueurs, and whisky were labeled "roofing insulating cement."

Three More Guards Guilty.

New London, Conn., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Three more coast guard sailors pleaded guilty today to charges of intoxication before the general court martial which is hearing the thirty-nine cases arising from the drinking escapade at the state pier on Dec. 29.

R. O. T. C. SAVED IN $85,449,000 SCHOOL BUDGET

$2,000,000 and 559 Jobs Are Eliminated.

The school board's finance committee last night completed the work of reducing the 1930 budget in an effort to make it fit the revenues. They tried to trim some $7,000,000 off the total of $87,481,483, but made only a net reduction of approximately $2,000,000. In response to vigorous demands, the committee voted a small appropriation to restore the high school R. O. T. C. which had been wiped out the day before.

Unofficial figures place the net reductions made by the committee at $2,032,308. Accurate figures are not available because the revisions have not been tabulated by the auditor.

With these figures the revised budget is $85,449,175. To this must be added last year's deficit of about $1,000,000. This raises the total amount that must be appropriated to approximately $93,500,000, or almost $9,000,000 more than last year's budget.

It is estimated that $1,200,000 of the total reductions have been made in the educational fund. These will reduce this appropriation to about $60,000,000. The available educational fund revenues are estimated at about $53,900,000.

The building, playground, text book, and pension funds have been budgeted within available revenues. Therefore, if the board approves the recommendation of the finance committee, it must pass a budget which is about $6,000,000 more than the available revenues.

A plan to relieve the prospective cash shortage in the educational appropriation has been suggested to the trustees. It provides for the transfer of various expenses, now charged to the educational fund, to other funds. This will reduce the fund another $1,000,000, but will not reduce the total budget.

559 More Lose Jobs.

Yesterday's reductions, all of which were made in the educational fund, totaled $1,478,635, and $151,232 was added, making a net trim for the day of $1,327,403. From yesterday's net reduction must be subtracted about $125,000 which had been added to the fund at previous sessions. The committee lopped 569 more off the pay rolls, bringing the total reduction in personnel to 678.

The following reductions were made yesterday:

Department—	Reduction.
Architect	$269,345
Repairs	546,125
Maintenance	503,000
School clerks	40,000
Auto maintenance	82,665
Normal college	37,500

The bureau of repairs was cut almost 25 per cent letting out 140 employés. Three hundred assistant engineers and janitors also will be discharged on Jan. 31.

Fourteen teachers at the Chicago Normal college were dismissed, but according to Butler Laughlin, president of the college, the teaching staff will not be materially crippled.

An item of $40,000 for contingent expenses of the board members was not reduced. The trustees said they needed part of that money to go to Springfield when Gov. Emmerson calls the legislature together in special session to consider relieving Cook county's tax spending agencies. The board has requested a special session but the governor as yet, has not recognized the request.

When the committee members assembled in the board rooms yesterday morning they were greeted by more than 100 representatives of patriotic societies, American Legion posts, and other civic organizations who had come to plead for restoration of the R. O. T. C. appropriation.

The trustees immediately went into conference and shortly emerged to announce that they had reconsidered and would provide $12,732 for this purpose. This is $6,000 less than had been set up, originally. The abolition of the R. O. T. C. would have involved the loss of $525,000 provided for the student military training by the federal government.

RESTS IN SANCTUARY

TRAPPED BY DRY AGENTS, BELLBOY IS FINED ONLY $10

Jacob Lesky, 21 years old, a bellhop at the Astor hotel, 172 North Clark street, received what is believed to be one of the smallest fines on record for liquor violation yesterday when Federal Judge Carpenter assessed him $5 each on two charges. Lesky pleaded guilty on both charges, maintaining a public nuisance and selling liquor.

Lesky, according to his attorney, Leo Klein, was trapped into getting two pints of gin for Prohibition Agents Ewing and Maynard when they registered at the hotel last June. The agents, he said, treated Lesky to highballs with liquor they had brought to the hotel, sending him out for more when their supply ran out. They arrested him the next day.

Assistant United States Attorney Eugene Tappy agreed with the defense story as to what happened. The agents were not in court yesterday.

BLIND WAR VET ASKS AID.

Leo G. Kuch, R. F. D. No. 2, Robinsdale, Minn., a blind war veteran, yesterday asked the Chicago police to assist him in his search for men with whom he served on the U. S. S. Ohio during the war to obtain affidavits which will enable him to collect compensation.

BIG BELLS TOLL AT FUNERAL FOR EDWARD W. BOK

Editor Buried at Base of Florida Tower.

Lake Wales, Fla., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—A requiem mass was tolled here today for Edward W. Bok by the great bells he placed on top of iron mountain and tonight he lies in his long sleep in a sepulchre at the base of the stone tower, erected as a monument to the beauties of nature.

Mr. Bok, for thirty years editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, died yesterday at his Mountain lake home after an illness of four days with heart trouble.

Dutch Hymn Played.

The bells tolled a dirge for him this afternoon, the piece being his favorite hymn, a Dutch folk piece, "God's Hand," arranged by Joseph Hoffman.

Two thousand persons pressed close to the ropes surrounding the tower lawn and rose in silence as Mrs. Bok entered the tower lawn through an iron gate at the side over a moat. She was accompanied by her two sons, William Curtis and Cary William Bok, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

Bells Cease Tolling.

Through the door of the tower the family passed slowly, led by the Rev. Samuel D. McConnell of Philadelphia, who officiated. The bells ceased their slow tolling and blended into the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," as the services were begun inside. Silence again, and then the folk song, "God's Hand." As the casket was brought out through the door to its vault the bells chimed Chopin's funeral march.

Cleans Out 46 Poor Boxes; Laundry Holdup Jails Him

Thomas C. Jetke, 21 years old, who confessed when arrested that he had rifled poor boxes in forty-six churches, was convicted of robbing a laundry driver yesterday in Judge William N. Gemmill's court and was sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary. None of the churches would prosecute.

ENDEAVOR SOCIETY IS TURNED OUT OF CHURCH IN JERSEY

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Conflict between the younger members of the Greenville Heights Baptist church at Jersey City and the more conservative element headed by the pastor, the Rev. James B. Carpenter, which has centered around activities of the Christian Endeavor society, was revealed today.

It was learned that the society had been dispossessed by the majority vote of a meeting attended by 22 members of the congregation of 130.

Mr. Carpenter is said to have charged that the young people had become lax in their church duties and had not conformed to rules laid down by him. A resolution adopted deprived the Christian Endeavor society of the use of the church building and requested the officers and members of that body to leave the congregation.

That all the congregation did not approve this drastic move of the pastor became apparent today when several members of the congregation offered their homes as meeting places for the society.

TRUCK OF BOOZE AND ARMED GANG SEIZED BY DRYS

A truck containing 75 cases of whisky, a new $4,000 car which was acting as convoy, and four men were seized last night by squads commanded by Alexander G. Jamie, chief of special prohibition agents, and Dan Vaccarelli, his assistant. The dry agents pursued the touring car and truck through the near south and west sides.

The captured men are Frankie Foster and Sam Karpen—known as Bugs Moran's lieutenants—and Will Parsh and Dennis Hickey. Hickey was the truck driver. He was captured when the agents overhauled him at Morgan and Lake streets. The other three were caught on State street south of Roosevelt road when a pursuing squad of agents forced their car to the curb.

The agents, informed that the rum runners were receiving a shipment from Detroit, waited while the whisky was unloaded from a Wabash side track near the Dearborn street station. The truck convoy started north on Clark street. At Polk street the pursuit started when the automobile turned east and the truck continued north and west.

Karpen, when arrested, was wearing a badge [illegible]d "Mayor's Safety Commission," and the dry agents said he told them he was a political power and that they could not arrest him. A pistol was found in the car.

NEW LOW FARES FOR AIR TRAVEL ARE ANNOUNCED

48 Hour Rail and Plane Service Across U. S.

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The most drastic cut in air travel rates in the brief history of trans-continental passenger flying was announced today by C. M. Keys, president of Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux Air Lines, the company which in conjunction with the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads provides 48 hour service between New York and Los Angeles.

The new rate, Mr. Keys said, is lower than that on the extra fare trains, with Pullman, across the country.

The new fare to Los Angeles from New York is $159.92, a reduction of $107.51 over the former rate and less than half of the tariff charged when the service was first opened last July.

FORMING AIR PILOTS' UNION.

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Coincidental with the announcement today of drastic cuts in air pilots' pay by at least two operating companies it was learned there is a movement throughout the country for the organization of pilots' unions with the cooperation of the American Federation of Labor.

About thirty pilots from Roosevelt and the Curtiss airport at Valley Stream met tonight to discuss the pay situation.

The new wage schedule varies from $2,500 to $3,600 a year with extra pay for actual flying time.

L. E. Bernheimer, Writer, Killed in Fall from Hotel

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Louis E. Bernheimer, New York, magazine and screen story writer, was killed in a plunge from a window of Hotel Astor here tonight. Clippings showed Bernheimer had been a speaker at a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial protest meeting in Boston in August, 1929. An unsent telegram was addressed to Lillian Cooper, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer movie studio. Other documents indicated that Bernheimer had been involved in the recent stock market slump.

Wreaths Are Placed Upon Alexander Hamilton Tomb

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Two hundred persons attended a brief ceremony today at the grave of Alexander Hamilton in Trinity church yard. Tomorrow is the 173d anniversary of the birth of the first secretary of the treasury. Wreaths were placed by Columbia university and several patriotic societies. Alexander Hamilton, great great grandson of Secretary Hamilton, extended the thanks of the descendants for the celebration. Richard W. Lawrence, president of the National Republican club, paid tribute on behalf of his organization.

DAUGHTER OF MORGAN PARTNER ENTERS OPERA

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Eleanor Steele, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele of Westbury, L. I., is out to carve herself a career in opera. She will make her debut Jan. 16 in Brooklyn's Little Theater Opera company's presentation, "The Magic Flute." Miss Steele, whose father is one of the partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., returned home this fall for a visit with her family, after having lived in Paris for years.

WOMAN BEATS LOBBY CRITICS AT THEIR OWN GAME

Defies and Derides Crack Senate Inquisitors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Scores of accomplished lobbyists have squirmed uncomfortably on the lobby investigating committee's grill, but it remained for a pretty young woman to build a fire under the senators themselves today.

Mrs. Gladys Moon Jones, attractive blonde of 30, modishly garbed in blue from smart little turban to shoes, not only defied the committee to compel her to disclose cocktail party confidences, but also openly accused the senators of playing politics with the inquiry, of whitewashing favored high sugar tariff lobbyists and of violating constitutional guaranties when her correspondence files were seized without warrant.

Brands Inquiry Propaganda.

Her opening blast was a formal statement denouncing the committee's activities as "a propaganda scheme at the expense of the taxpayers conducted under the guise of an investigation for the good of the people," and for two and one-half hours, until they wearily excused her, she traded thrusts with such finished witness baiters as Senators T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] and T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.].

Twice during the morning Mrs. Jones flatly refused to answer questions addressed to her by Senator Walsh, the first time when the Montana senator sought to learn who she had in mind when she suggested in her prepared statement that "instead of wasting time in ridiculing those who wrote unguardedly and kept their letters, the committee might look into activities of those whose years of lobbying experience have caused them to replace fireproof filing cases with modern incinerators."

She Knows How to Keep Secrets.

"I heard a man," Mrs. Jones declared, "the head of a sugar company, say, laughing at the committee, that for years he had carried on correspondence where the rule was to keep letters only 48 hours."

"Who is that man?" demanded Senator Walsh.

"I will not say who he is," responded Mrs. Jones.

"I say," she answered when both Walsh and Caraway insisted on an answer, "if a personal friend tells me something at a dinner party do you think I am coming up here to tell it to you?"

"Listen, senator," said Mrs. Jones, removing her turban and throwing it on the table before her, to become very serious. "I know a whole lot of things told me after a man has had a few drinks. When a man tells me something after he has had a few cocktails, do you think I should tell it to you? Well, I won't do it."

$1,333 a Month Salary Lost.

Again, Mrs. Jones refused to say whether she meant to include Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.], the one regular Republican member of the lobby committee, with the other committee members in her charge that one of the chief purposes of the investigators seemed to be to create "political difficulties for President Hoover."

When Walsh insisted upon an answer she declared he was seeking to make "political propaganda" out of her testimony.

The fireworks began soon after Mrs. Jones related how she accepted employment as a publicity agent for the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba and the United States Sugar association, producers and refiners of Cuban sugar. The Chamber of Commerce, she said, paid her $1,333.33 a month until a few weeks ago, when the contract was canceled because of the chamber's fear of the lobby inquiry. The sugar association has been paying her a total of $700 a month to finance a campaign for lower duties on sugar and, she added with a toss of her head, she intends to continue the campaign, inquiry or no inquiry.

Caraway Sidesteps the Issue.

"So far as I can see, there is not the slightest objection to it," observed Senator Walsh.

"Get that," said Mrs. Jones, turning to the newspaper men; "it's important."

Senator Caraway exhibited a letter written by Mrs. Jones to H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company, asking her if she wrote it.

"Yes, I wrote it," she answered, "but I want to ask you what right you have to have it?"

"Well," retorted Caraway, "we seem to have it."

"How did you get it?" demanded Mrs. Jones. "By what right have you my personal letter in your hands?"

"We will argue that some other time," said Caraway.

A few minutes later Senator Walsh aroused Mrs. Jones' ire when he read from one of her letters that Diaz De Medina, a son of the Bolivian minister, had been employed for several weeks in her offices as a special writer.

"I maintain that you have no right," continued Mrs. Jones," under the fourth amendment to the constitution, to have those letters in your hands at all."

"Mention of that was made in your statement this morning and I will take that up in a minute," said Senator Walsh.

"I want to take it up with some one," persisted Mrs. Jones. "I am interested in the principles of these things."

She Makes Crowd Laugh.

In another letter read by Caraway, Mrs. Jones suggested to her employers that the fact that D. R. Barbee, a Washington "free lance" writer, had written some articles for her service be kept confidential.

"There are a lot of people actually idealistic enough to work for a principle," said Mrs. Jones, defending Barber's request for secrecy.

"Yes," said Caraway, "but it seems they don't want it to be known."

"Well," argued Mrs. Jones, "it's not because they don't want it to be known, but because nobody else will believe it. Nobody will believe you are working for a principle."

"Why," she said, as the senators and hearing room crowd, remembering her testimony of more than $2,000 a month income, roared with laughter, "everybody believes I am doing this for money."

"Well, I naturally inferred that," Senator Caraway observed dryly.

Puts Question to Caraway.

"Do you know that Cuba has, over a period of five years, paid one-quarter of the entire customs duties collected by this country?" she asked Caraway during one of her exchanges with him.

"No, I do not know that," Caraway said.

"It is a good idea for you to keep in touch with my office," she told him. "If you come to my office, you will find it out. That is my business."

"Pardon me, just a minute. Why don't you put me on your mailing list?"

"I did, and what did you do? You very pridefully said, 'I throw them in the waste basket.'"

"Yes——"

"Look what you were throwing in the waste basket."

"I did not know it was from you, though."

"No. Do you know that Cuba is our second largest export market for the textile industry and that the textile industry——"

"The next time you write mark it personal and I will get it," Caraway told her.

Exasperated by the senator's prodding at items on her office expense account and their demands for trivial details of her agreements with the special writers employed from time to time, Mrs. Jones finally blurted out:

"I say, you are wasting so much time and so much of the taxpayers' money here asking me silly questions like that, and then you tell me that I am paid too much for trying to tell the country about Cuban sugar!"

Wrote Speech for Mrs. Pratt.

Mrs. Jones admitted having written the eloquent appeal for low sugar duties delivered by Representative Ruth Pratt [Rep., N. Y.] in the house last May. She also admitted, rather ruefully, that after making the speech Mrs. Pratt voted for the house bill increasing the rates.

Another letter disclosed that Mrs. Jones furnished Drew Pearson, a Washington correspondent, with material for a series of tariff articles he wrote for the Nation, which periodical Mrs. Jones described in the letter as "a medium through which we can give our most drastic opinions."

When Mrs. Jones reiterated her complaint that the committee had failed to treat both sides of the sugar tariff controversy impartially, Walsh challenged her to indicate some line of inquiry which could be profitably pursued. She suggested that the Inter-Ocean syndicate of Chicago and the Mayer Publicity bureau of New York, both of which were retained by the Domestic Sugar Producers' association, should be thoroughly investigated.

Timberlake, Smoot, Waterman.

"And," continued Mrs. Jones, "I think it is fair to bring out that they elect their lobbyists to the senate."

"What is that?" asked Walsh, seemingly horrified. "What does that mean?"

"It means," said Mrs. Jones, "that Timberlake, who said on the floor of the house that he was a beet grower and comes from Colorado, in the heart of the Great Western Sugar company district, was chairman of the subcommittee on sugar, and it means that Senator Smoot was chairman of the finance committee and chairman of the subcommittee on sugar. It means that Senator Waterman, who was the Great Western Sugar company counsel for a number of years, was elected to the senate from Colorado and that sort of thing, and it means that the Cuban people——"

"Would you have us inquire into the election of Mr. Timberlake and the election of Senator Waterman and the election of Senator Smoot?" asked Walsh.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Opposition to any increase in duties on sugar was expressed today by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] in the senate, following arguments by Senators Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] and E. S. Broussard [Dem., La.] for increased rates. Senator Smoot favored the finance committee amendment, while Senator Broussard supported the higher rates of the house bill.

Senator La Follette stated that domestic production of sugar never would equal demand in this country.

"We are not justified in placing an enormous increase upon the consumers of sugar in this country when it is apparent that the intended beneficiaries of the duty will not find this industry on a sound footing," said Senator La Follette.

"If we could hope to make our sugar crop one self-sufficient for the needs of this country a stronger argument might be made on behalf of a higher duty on sugar. But even the representatives of the domestic sugar interests have admitted that we cannot hope to substantially increase our proportion of domestically grown sugar."

Condemns Both Lobbies.

Senator La Follette said that the activity of the tariff lobbies on sugar should not affect the consideration of the matter.

"No one will deny that there has been employed by both the high duty lobby and the lower duty lobby tactics which cannot be defended," said Senator La Follette.

"I condemn the methods which have been used to influence action upon the sugar tariff. I stand ready to support legislation to prevent the pernicious activities of lobbies and lobbyists, but I contend that it is the responsibility of the senate to weigh the facts concerning sugar and to fix the duty based upon the facts without regard to the activities of interested parties on both sides of this controversy."

Smoot Assails Bank.

Senator Smoot assailed American interests advocating reduction in the sugar duties. He was particularly severe in his references to the National City bank, which, he said, was willing to destroy the domestic industry in the United States, in order to protect its investments in Cuba.

"It is greatly to the advantage of the National City bank that we have no adequate protection for sugar, and in the same degree it is detrimental to the producers of domestic sugar," said Senator Smoot. "We must not be misled by the false arguments advanced by an institution which, a few years ago, attempted to levy tribute on the American people by taking advantage of unduly high prices."

Senator Broussard served notice that he would offer an amendment to restrict duty free importations of Cuban sugar to 300,000 tons annually.

17 PERSONS DIE IN SOUTHWEST BLIZZARD BELT

Cold Grips Wide Area in Wake of Snow.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Somewhat cheered by general predictions for slightly warmer weather, the southwest, still shivering in zero and subzero temperatures, tonight continued to battle record breaking snowdrifts.

The season's worst blizzard, which has taken a toll of 17 lives, seemed seemed reluctant to release its icy grip. Snow flurries continued to fall here and there.

Highways generally were open, however, and trains and buses were running on nearly normal schedule.

Although the mercury was expected to tumble downward again before morning, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and northern Texas were promised some relief later in the day.

Many temperate records have been broken by subzero readings. Hays, Kas., laid claim to being the coldest spot in Kansas with a mark of 11 degrees below zero.

The blizzard's most recent victim was reported from Miltonvale, where Russell Felt, 17, a schoolboy, was killed by a railroad train at a crossing.

Ice Jam Threatens Bridge.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The sudden rise of the Illinois river today swung the Ponton bridge between Lacon and Sparland, Ill., disrupting communications between those two cities. An ice jam was forming about the center span and county officials were making plans to dynamite the jam. Unofficial measurements placed the rise of the river at two feet today.

Wabash at Flood Stage.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Although the rainfall had stopped today, the Wabash river continued to rise and stood at a little over 23 feet today, 4 feet above flood stage. The weather bureau forecast a crest of 25 to 26 feet.

Practically all bottom lands in this area are flooded. Stock and residents had been moved to higher ground. Much corn was lost in the flood.

Large Area Flooded.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The flood menace continued today in southern Indiana where thousands of acres already are flooded. The Wabash and White rivers and many smaller streams continued to rise.

North and central Indiana, visited Thursday by one of the most damaging sleet and ice storms ever experienced in the state, was faced with a problem of restoring wire service and interurban transportation. Thousands of emergency workmen were busy repairing wires.

Seek Farmer Lost in Storm.

Centerville, Ia., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Posses were searching today for Arthur Newell, 55, a farmer living near Unionville, Mo., who disappeared in a blinding snowstorm yesterday morning.

Snow Clogs California Roads.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Snow today mantled the orange orchards near Redlands and other communities of southern California, furnishing a sight that even the pioneers had not seen. Many roads in the vicinity of Los Angeles were clogged with snow and were closed officially.

The San Diego region also had roads blocked by snow.

WARMER WEATHER DUE; SNOW CLEARED FROM TRAFFIC PATHS

Sunshine broke through the clouds yesterday afternoon, dispelling the last flurries of the 48 hour storm which had sifted eight inches of snow upon Chicago and a much deeper winter covering over other sections in the central states.

There were snow flurries all forenoon in Chicago as the temperature rose from a minimum of 15 degrees at 7 a. m. to a maximum of 24 degrees at noon. About 2 o'clock the wind shifted from northeast to northwest and sunbeams gleamed on the snowbanks after three days of murky weather.

The thermometer reading was 20 degrees at 6 p. m. and declined slowly thereafter.

The weather man, C. A. Donnel, predicted slightly higher temperatures for today, with unsettled weather today and tomorrow. Snow flurries are probable tomorrow, he said.

Chicago motorists found driving comparatively easy yesterday. Street car and bus companies had cleaned many thoroughfares, while the park boards had cleared their boulevards. The city department of streets confined its snow removal operations to the loop.

MOTHERS APPEAL TO COUNTY AFTER PENSION DELAY

Switchboards at the county bureau of public welfare were kept busy yesterday answering complaints from about half the 1,642 mothers on the county mothers' pension list, who did not receive their semi-monthly checks because of the county's depleted finances. All were told that the checks had been delayed.

Meanwhile mothers, some with as many as eight dependent children, were wondering how hungry mouths would be fed and homes heated if checks are delayed more than a few days.

This is the first time mothers' pensions have been delayed, according to Joseph L. Moss, commissioner of public welfare. He could give no estimate of the length of the delay, but hoped it would be only a few days.

In case the mailing of mothers' pensions, totaling about $45,000, is delayed indefinitely, one alternative, it was explained, might be the abandonment of the department's policy of not supplementing mothers' pensions. If this plan were adopted emergency relief could be given in the form of fuel and food. The assistance of private charities might also be asked in appealing to the public in behalf of the 1,642 needy families.

THOUSANDS DIE; CHINA IN GRIP OF SUBZERO WAVE

Famine Area Hardest Hit in Record Cold.

PEIPING, China, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Half of China for days has been experiencing the severest cold in 60 years with the dead numbered in the thousands and with tens of thousands suffering cruelly from lack of shelter. Undernourished populations in the districts where famine had followed crop failures last summer were hard hit and many died in the hovels into which they crawled in vain search of warmth.

The greatest mortality from the wintry blasts was in the Suiyuan district of northern Shansi and inner Mongolia where it was estimated that 15,000 undernourished persons, most of them aged and children, were dead from exposure. In the town of Fengchen in Shansi, 2,500 were frozen to death; in Sahsien another 2,000 died, while in Paotienchen 800 succumbed to the cold.

Ice Blocks Crush Junks.

Honan province reported the coldest weather since 1870 with below zero temperatures reported in the three Wuhan cities in Hupeh province. The Han river was filled with blocks of ice which had crushed thousands of junks and drowned hundreds of persons.

The Rengo News agency said 700 soldiers were frozen during the movement of the second army. Bodies were sent back to Hankow on freight trains where soldiers and relatives were summoned by the beating of gongs to come to the railroad yards and take charge of the dead.

In Peiping the police reported 167 men and 41 women found dead since Monday, while in Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang 100 persons had died within two days.

Snow Blankets Madrid.

MADRID, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Extreme cold prevailed over all Spain today. Madrid for the first time this year was covered with a blanket of snow. The thermometer was one degree above zero, centigrade, or about 33 Fahrenheit. Suffering in the cities from the unusual cold was intense.

FORMER CONVICT CAPTURED AS HE PLANS ROBBERY

Loitering at Monroe and Halsted streets, where he shot a man ten years ago, Frank Benner, 30 years old, 1037 Madison street, was arrested with a pistol in his pocket last night.

Benner, who served eight years in Joliet prison for shooting Harry Philman in a dispute, told the Des Plaines street police that he had held up twelve Madison street lodging houses since his release and was preparing to enter the thirteenth when seized by Detectives P. J. Dwyer and Frank Schultz.

Bare Big Sums Paid to Police in East Chicago Liquor Trial

Huge sums, representing the amounts East Chicago bootleggers claimed they were forced to pay for police protection, were bandied about in federal court at Hammond yesterday in the most complete picture the government has yet presented of the general breakdown of law and order that the prohibition amendment effected in the northern Indiana city.

Testimony concerning the money payments came from witnesses summoned in the attempt to prove Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, Chief of Police James W. Regan and twenty-six others guilty of conspiring against the dry law. Yesterday was the fourth day of the trial before Judge Thomas W. Slick.

Highlights in the day's session included the remark from the witness stand of East Chicago's city judge that he "wasn't much interested" when told by bootleggers that they were paying $250 a week for protection, a statement attributed to a Negro vice lord that for a time he paid out $100 a day for like services, and finally the testimony of a bootlegger convict who said he had paid Chief Regan $500 to fix a liquor case, only to find the chief the principal witness against him a few months later.

Many Charges Are Made.

Not less astounding was the testimony of a constable who quoted a gangster, now dead, as saying, "I paid 'sixty grand' [$60,000] for my gambling franchise!"

Judge Michael Havern of the East Chicago City court was the first witness. Answering United States Attorney Loomis, he told of calling three Negro bootleggers into his office before primary election last spring for the ostensible reason of soliciting their political support. The bootleggers, Grice Chandler, Sanford Overall and Eldridge White, all defendants, told him they were being "bled," Chandler adding that he had paid $250 per day for protection.

"You didn't go into this?" inquired Mr. Loomis.

"I wasn't much interested in it," Judge Havern replied.

Also quoting Chandler, Department of Justice Agent Leon Tourrou testified the Negro told him he paid $100 per day for a time but "couldn't stand that" so he arranged with Phillip Collenger of the syndicate, an alleged Capone henchman, also on trial, to pay $250 per week. Later, Tourrou said, Chandler told him he had managed to be arrested by secret service men on a charge of counterfeiting, saying he would rather be in jail, because he feared being taken for a ride. Ex-prohibition Agent Horace quoted Overall as saying he had paid $125 per week to Mayor Hale and Chief Regan for permission to keep his saloon open.

Double Crossed by Mayor.

Nick Marovich, whose brother, Urosh, was slain in a bootleg war near Hammond almost two years ago, was called to the stand late in the day. He is now serving a term in Leavenworth for white slavery, he said, and launched into a story of having been arrested for possessing two ounces of whisky. On the advice of Sergt. Martin Zarkovich, a defendant, he talked to Regan, he said, and eventually paid the chief $500, in two payments being assured that the case would be forgotten. That matter was forgotten, he said, but a few months later Regan prosecuted him on another charge, he claimed.

Lieut. Glen Boyd of the Winnetka police department testified that he had gone to East Chicago with a party one evening and was taken to half a dozen liquor parlors by Sergt. Walter Conroy of the East Chicago force, another defendant. They had many drinks, he said, and in most places Conroy's presence resulted in free service. His testimony was corroborated by Miss Mary Spencer of Green Bay, Wis., a member of the party, who also quoted Conroy as saying he was a friend of Al Capone and could join the Capone mob "any day he wished."

Chauffer Hit by Auto Dies; Motorist Is Held

Raymond Kaufman, 30 years old, chauffeur for Attorney A. S. Trude, father of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, died in the Chicago hospital yesterday of injuries incurred when he was struck by an automobile while shoveling snow in front of the Trude home at 4960 Drexel boulevard on Thursday. The driver, George Suggett, 517 East 16th street, told the police he was unable to see Kaufman in the snowstorm. Suggett was held.

Slugging of Watchman Costs 3 Robbers $2,000

A tactical error cost three young safe robbers $2,000 in loot last night. Their first move upon entering the Albert Lurie department store at 1414 Blue Island avenue, was to beat the watchman, John Lilla, unconscious. They had knocked the combination off the safe and were prying at the inner strong box when one of them realized it was time for the watchman to make his hourly report. They shook him and drenched his face with water, but the canny Lilla remained comatose until they fled empty-handed.

STEGE BATTLES WITH DEFENSE AT DORR TRIAL

Judge to Rule Today on Widow's Confession.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Randolph Samuel and Earl Glass, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

H. Mullarkey, murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Morris Goldman, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

George Chambers, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Peter Pratt, contributing to delinquency, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $200; Yvone Texado, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; David McIntire, receiving stolen property, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry Fisher.

Whether Genevieve O'Brien through her signed statement made to the police will play an important part in the state's fight to convict Howard Dorr, her paramour, of the murder of her husband, William J. O'Brien, will be revealed at 10 o'clock this morning.

At that time Judge Harry B. Miller, he announced late yesterday, will give his ruling as to admissibility of the alleged confession of Mrs. O'Brien at Dorr's trial. It is against her statements that Dorr's counsel, Barratt O'Hara and Arthur Caristen, are making their strongest battle. Likewise it is to Mrs. O'Brien's statement that Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler are looking for the evidence that will prove their charge of a murder plot.

Crowd Jams Courtroom.

A packed courtroom, which began to fill shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning, listened eagerly to yesterday's testimony. The highlights of the day were the reading to the jury of O'Brien's dying statement, in which he accused Dorr of shooting him, and the description of the shooting by Deputy Police Commissioner Stege.

Standing before a chart of the O'Brien flat at 7328 South Maplewood avenue, which is above that of the Dorrs, Deputy Commissioner Stege followed with a pointer the steps of Dorr and Mrs. O'Brien as they entered the flat by the rear door the night before the murder and went into the living room to chat, later retiring in her bedroom. That was the night of Nov. 19. O'Brien was shot early the next morning and died on Nov. 21.

Stege described the couple's reenactment of the shooting and the events leading up to it. Throughout his recital Dorr sat on the edge of his chair, tense and aggressive.

Trace Couple's Course.

"Dorr and Genevieve came in the rear door and put some groceries on a table," Stege said, tracing their progress with his pointer. "The groceries were there when we were in the flat —a loaf of bread and some sausage she bought at the delicatessen where she said she always bought her things."

He traced on the chart their actions the next morning preceding the shooting.

"I asked Dorr where he got the gun," Stege testified, "and he said from the shelf in Bill's [O'Brien's] closet. 'No, Howard,' Genevieve said, 'you got the gun off the shelf in my closet.' I asked him whose it was, and he said he believed it had belonged to his brother for a number of years."

Then Stege pictured Dorr in hiding in the clothes closet of O'Brien's bedroom, standing on a pile of soiled linen, from which he had fired the first shot. He identified police photographs of Dorr standing, pointing the gun from the clothes closet. Stege then traced the course of the two men as Dorr pursued O'Brien through the flat, shooting.

A bit of humor which a tense courtroom welcomed with relief came when Deputy Commissioner Stege told of taking a door jamb marked with certain marks from O'Brien's closet door and Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne presented to him solemnly a long piece of wood.

"Have you ever seen this before, commissioner?" Ditchburne asked.

"Yes, that is the door jamb we removed from the closet from which Dorr fired the first shot."

"And do you recognize the distinguishing marks you saw on it then?"

Stege Hunts for Marks.

A tense silence ensued while Stege hunted for the marks, supposedly powder burns which later are to be identified by a coroner's chemist.

"I don't see them," he remarked at last. "Here's what's left of them."

"Sustained," said Judge Miller.

Both assistant state's attorneys rushed forward.

"O, here they are," said Deputy Commissioner Stege.

"I object to the assistant state's attorneys' finding the marks," Attorney O'Hara said, but was overruled.

The prosecutors explained later that the chemist had scratched off some of the marks. It was by those powder marks that the police recognized that Mrs. O'Brien, who first took the blame for the shooting could not have fired the shot from the closet, as the marks were at too high a point for her to shoot from.

Stege Tilts with O'Hara.

During cross-examination by Attorney O'Hara several spirited skirmishes occurred between Deputy Commissioner Stege and the lawyer. Defense counsel attempted to show that Dorr's alleged confession was gained by letting him believe his wife and children were in the custody of police. Stege had said he questioned Mrs. Dorr.

Q.—For what purpose did you take a statement from her? A.—I have that statement here [placing paper on the rail of the witness stand].

Q.—Put the statement back in your pocket. We don't care for that now. You haven't anything else in your pocket you want to show us, have you, commissioner? A.—No.

Q.—Did Mr. Ditchburne tell you to do that if you were cross-examined? A.—No.

Q.—You've been in court a good many times, haven't you, commissioner, and you know it is not proper—

At that point the state objected, and the court interrupted a heated argument to sustain the objection.

Asked About Dorr's Sleep.

At another point in the cross-examination O'Hara asked Stege if he knew whether the defendant had been given any chance to sleep since the time of his arrest early on Nov. 20 up to the time he made his statement concerning the shooting, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Nov. 21.

"Yes, sir, he was the only one of us who did have the chance," Stege replied.

When Attorney O'Hara asked what Dorr said when shown Mrs. O'Brien's statement, the commissioner replied that Dorr said it was "true with one exception," that he had not had illicit relations with her in her apartment.

"Isn't it true that this defendant said that if Mrs. O'Brien said there had ever been illicit relations between them it was not true?"

"No, sir," Deputy Commissioner Stege answered.

Dorr Informed of Rights.

During the cross-examination Stege said that Dorr was informed of his constitutional rights before he made his statement, but that he was not informed before Mrs. O'Brien's statement was read to him.

"As a conscientious police officer you never seek to take advantage of any one in your custody, Commissioner?" Attorney O'Hara asked.

An objection was sustained by the court, but the commissioner, fiery of countenance but soft of voice, insisted on replying, "No, sir."

Q.—When you took the defendant to the scene for the reenactment did you let him see his wife? A.—She wouldn't let us in.

Q.—Did you see her? A.—Through the window.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you had some of your men go down and take her from the front of the flat to the rear? A.—No, but I understand it was done, because Mrs. O'Brien wouldn't go in the house so long as Mrs. Dorr was there. She didn't want to see her.

Deathbed Statement Read.

When the dying statement of O'Brien was read to the jury before the noon recess by Assistant State's Attorney Butler, Mrs. Don O'Brien, mother of the slain man, wept, and Mrs. Rose Dorr, faithful wife of the defendant, also held a handkerchief to her eyes.

"I went to the clothes closet in my bedroom," O'Brien's statement said. "I opened the door of the closet and Howard Dorr was in there. He pointed a gun at me and shot. It missed. I turned around and ran through the dining room, and he shot at me again and hit me on the forehead. I ran into the hall, hollered for the doctor. Howard followed me and shot at me again, while I was lying in the hall. I asked him why he shot me. Then my wife, who came out of her bedroom, said she shot me, not Howard."

The state will not close its case before Monday, possibly later, according to Prosecutor Butler. It is expected that Dorr will take the stand in his own defense early next week.

Frank J. Beran Convicted of Accepting Slot Bribes

Frank J. Beran, suspended police custodian, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Otto Kerner's court of accepting bribes from the so-called slot machine syndicate for the return of confiscated slot machines. He faces a sentence of 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary in the event that his motion for a new trial is overruled on Jan. 18.

The success of Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers in the prosecution of Beran started rumors in the prosecutor's office that the slot machine cases in which Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson political lieutenant, and six police captains were defendants, might be revived in the near future. The state nol prossed the conspiracy cases against these men and other defendants because David C. Rockola, one of the alleged leaders of the syndicate refused to testify.

Rockola Changes Positions.

Rockola, who was sentenced to six months in jail for refusal to answer questions at the previous trial, assumed a different attitude in the Beran case. He declared that he was tired of being the "goat," and he took the stand and testified.

The case against Reid and the police captains was nolle prossed with the consent of the defendants and by some legal authorities this is held not to be jeopardy. At the time of the trial Attorney Benedict Short, representing the captains, wanted his clients to insist on going through with the case to a not guilty verdict so as to be forever free from future prosecution. They refused, however, and accepted the nolle prosequi offered by the prosecutor. As a result, court attaches said, they may now face a new prosecution.

Bribery Case Called Possible.

A bribery case against the involved captains, who have all been restored to their police positions, could be formulated irrespective of the conspiracy case, it was pointed out. Rockola in his grand jury testimony, which he later refused to repeat on the stand, is alleged to have said that he bribed the captains.

James [High Pockets] O'Brien, head of the syndicate, is to be the next man to face a jury. He is also charged with bribery and receiving stolen property. It is believed that Rockola will testify against him.

DEMOCRATS OPEN FIRE ON TAXES AND PROHIBITION

BY PARKE BROWN.

With little advance warning that hostilities were to open, the Cook county Democratic organization took to the war path yesterday, delivering a double barreled attack against prohibition and taxation.

The cause of the wets was championed in an indorsement of James Hamilton Lewis for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. High taxes were hit in a resolution condemning the recent increase of 30 per cent in the state tax rate ordered by Gov. Emmerson, State Treasurer Custer and State Auditor Nelson, all Republicans.

Igoe Rips Into Dry Law.

State Representative Michael L. Igoe said there should be one exception to the rule concerning the suppression of names. He proposed immediate action on the senatorship.

"The greatest evil in modern American life," he said, "is prohibition.

"That issue is more alive today than ever. It is tying up congress at a critical time because its apostles are quarreling among themselves. Under these circumstances we ought to indorse for the United States senate a man about whose position on this issue there can be no doubt.

"I have in mind James Hamilton Lewis. He was a member of the senate when the question of prohibition was up and he voted against it steadfastly."

Tax Rate Boost Under Fire.

Boetius H. Sullivan presented the tax resolution condemning the increase in the state tax rate from 30 to 39 cents as unnecessarily imposing an additional annual burden of $4,500,000 on the taxpayers of Cook county.

The resolution asserted that, according to the statement of the men voting for the increase, it "was due principally to a desire to increase the surplus in the state treasury." It also protested against the increase as "calculated to result in a continuation of the waste and extravagance of the state government."

As forecast, the meeting indorsed Benjamin F. Lindheimer for election as south park commissioner by the Circuit judges next month.

CIGARET STARTS FIRE IN GARAGE; DAMAGE $25,000

A cigaret stub, dropped on the floor of the washroom of the Southland garage, 7425 Exchange avenue, last evening, started a fire which destroyed the garage office and damaged 125 automobiles to the extent of $25,000.

Attempting to fight the blaze with a chemical extinguisher, Harry Heath, 23 years old, a garage attendant of 7538 Kingston avenue, was overcome by smoke. Fuel tanks on several of the stored cars exploded and spread the flames before fire companies arrived.

A 2-11 alarm was sounded. Illinois Central suburban trains were delayed 15 minutes by hose lines stretched across the tracks. O. F. Davidson, 8133 Clyde avenue, owner of the garage, estimated the loss to the building and cars at $25,000.

Falling asleep while smoking a cigaret, Irvin R. Schultz, 29 years old, started a blaze which caused an estimated $3,000 damage in his apartment at 120 South Maple avenue, Oak Park. Tenants in 17 other apartments were routed by smoke.

TEACHER DIES BY GAS.

Miss Lena Highland, 34 years old, a former school teacher, was found asphyxiated yesterday in the kitchen of the home of her brother-in-law, David Victor, at 2801 Harrison street, Evanston. Six burners on the gas stove were open.

WINS LUNCHEON

[Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

Justice of the Peace John P. Russ and Policemen E. E. Higley and A. J. Hagel of Evanston, all married men, have an engagement for luncheon next week with Miss Betty Clark, 20 years old, 7113 North Paulina street, a co-ed at Northwestern University. Miss Clark was arrested yesterday by the two policemen for parking her automobile across a sidewalk near the campus and was fined $3.

She had no money with her but returned later to pay the fine, explaining to the judge that she had no money left to buy her lunches next week, and asking what she should do.

"We'll fix that," the judge replied. "I'll take you to lunch Monday, and the policemen will take you on the other days."

FRENCH WIN GOLD LEADERSHIP; ADD TO HUGE HOARD

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 10.—(AP)—With the arrival aboard the Cunard liner Berengaria of 216,000,000 francs in gold (approximately $43,200,000), France today took the lead of all the nations in the world in the gold ratio per capita.

Every Frenchman — man, woman, and child — now theoretically may boast of possessing $40 in the vaults of the Bank of France.

French records place the United States second, with $37.50 for each of its citizens.

Ex-Convict Seized as Suspect in Gary Killing

"Spud" Davis, 26 years old, of Gary, who was released from the Indiana state reformatory at Pendleton shortly before Christmas, was arrested by the Gary police early this morning as a suspect in the slaying of Adolph Mata, 29 years old, 1328 Jackon street, Gary. Mata was shot to death on Christmas eve by an intoxicated gunman who bumped into him at 13th and Monroe streets in Gary as Mata was on his way to a grocery store with his two children.

LINCOLN PARK BOARD TO PUSH OUTER DRIVE JOB

New Commission Holds Its First Meeting.

Extension of the outer drive northward along the lake shore will be the general plan of the new board of commissioners of Lincoln park, it appeared yesterday when the new appointees of Gov. Emmerson held their first board meeting.

The immediate aim of the board is to finish the outer drive bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river. Warren Wright, elected president of the board at yesterday's meeting, in accordance with the governor's expressed wishes, already had familiarized himself with the status of the bridge project, and declared he wanted it built without a day's unnecessary delay.

Sheldon Clark was elected vice president of the board and Edwin L. Read, auditor. The other commissioners are George W. Blomgren, George W. Dixon, Thomas W. Gilmore, and Oscar A. Reum. George Woodruff was reelected treasurer of the board.

Eager for Extension.

"We are anxious to see Lincoln park extended," Mr. Wright said after the meeting. "Bond moneys authorized by the voters will be spent for completing the outer drive to Devon avenue, so that this vitally necessary traffic artery may be put in use quickly. We also are setting about repairs of the outer drive through the park, which was destroyed by successive lake storms, and we want to repair it so the damage will not recur.

"The governor has given us a free hand to maintain the highest standard of service among our employés. In the awarding of contracts we shall receive bids in open board meetings, the bidding will be open to every one, and we shall see to it that for every dollar of public moneys spent we shall give the public a dollar's worth."

Finances in Good Shape.

Mr. Wright and Mr. Woodruff declared at the meeting that the finances of the board are in "miraculously good condition," considering that no taxes have been received. Not only have current expenses been met, through the sale of tax anticipation warrants, but a $1,100,000 bond issue coming due has been taken up by the treasury in lieu of tax moneys, Mr. Woodruff said.

NEW AMERICANS TOLD THEIR ROLE IN U. S. FUTURE

Judge Outlines Duties as 100 Become Citizens.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

JUDGE WOODWARD. (Hostitler Photo.)

Speaking from the bench, Judge Woodward looked earnestly into the faces of more than a hundred men and women who had just taken the oath of allegiance to the United States. His gaze, at once searching and kindly, his subdued but clear tone and the grave courtesy of his welcome instantly commanded the attention of those new, eager Americans who, until they took the oath on Thursday, were the subjects of five European states.

He brushed aside platitudes and went straight to the matter of most moment to the community of which the people from France, Belgium, Switzerland, Poland, and Rumania standing before him had now become a functioning part.

Appeals to New Citizens.

"We need," he said, "your activity and interest in governmental affairs.

"Many of our citizens by birth, and heirs to the traditions of many decades, are too indifferent to matters of public concern.

"Inefficient administration, if not worse, is a result of that indifference."

At those words the skull-capped Jewish rabbi from Ochotnica in Galicia, who stood in the front row of the Polish group of one hundred, nodded grave acquiescence, and the three Swiss glanced comprehendingly at one another. In the French group a young woman was silently repeating the judge's words as he uttered them.

"You are not only augmenting our numbers," he continued, "but you are also bringing a fresh, vigorous and hopeful ideal to enrich our public affairs.

"By public affairs I do not refer wholly, or even principally, to national affairs. You are not only citizens of the United States, but also of the state, county, city, village or township in which you live.

Depends on Local Rule.

"As you study more thoroughly the principles of our government you will be impressed more deeply with the truth that the safety and perpetuity of our institutions rest upon a strong, clean, wholesome and vigorous local government.

"It is your local government—state, county, city and township—which affects you more intimately than does your national government. A glance at your tax bills, and, of course, all of you should pay taxes, will persuade you that your contributions to the smaller governmental units are the greater.

"I sometimes think that it is more important to have a good alderman or a good supervisor than it is to have a good President. Perhaps I am exaggerating.

"But the point is that good citizenship lies in an active interest and participation in local affairs as well as in national affairs."

Discusses Constitution.

He talked to them—these silent, intent people who made not one restless movement while the equable, friendly voice filled the marble room—of the constitution which they had sworn to "support and defend against all enemies," and talking to them of that he asked them not idly to sentimentalize about it.

"Patriotism," he said, "does not mean an intellectual or sentimental attachment to the principles of our constitution. It means that these principles must be translated into action.

"The constitution is nothing in itself.

"It must have the earnest, active support, aid and assistance of the great body of citizens if the government which it created is to be preserved and perpetuated."

He gave them this solemn phrase:

You have dedicated yourselves to America.

That phrase he emphasized, saying: "You have adopted a new country and have consecrated yourselves to a new ideal."

Urges Active Citizenship.

One thought he wished to leave with them—that they become "active citizens."

After the words, "You may now retire," he rose and bowed to the assemblage. That salutation was returned—and in no perfunctory manner. Decorously the people went their ways, some talking softly of the welcome they had received—a Belgian beamingly quoting Judge Woodward's words, "It is my honor and privilege to welcome you."

This ceremony of the taking of the oath of the allegiance to the republic is frequently reduced to ignoble routine. As conducted by Judge Woodward and his aids it becomes a ceremony worth seeing and hearing—and worth reporting. Andrew Jordan, examiner for the naturalization department, was master of ceremonies. Charles M. Bates, chief clerk of the United States District court, imparted the stately phrases of the oath of allegiance to the people with such natural dignity of manner and diction that there was no touch of pomposity. Clerk Albert E. Van Alystyne and venerable Bailiff William J. Robertson, the strictest master of deportment in the federal building, courteously escorted the new citizens to their places.

Never once was there any such indecency as the hustling and the "Here, you, stand over here!" which recently aroused the eminent Konrad Bercovici's shocked comment in a New York publication.

An Impressive Ceremony.

With us all was impressive, sympathetic and memorable. None—either citizen born or citizen by naturalization—could leave the presence of the judge and of the flag that commanded the scene without a consciousness of the dignity and responsibility of his citizenship.

To me it seemed a real deprivation that the people could not have Judge Woodward's address in leaflet form to keep always.

STEGE LAUNCHES DRIVE TO CLEAR CITY OF HOBOES

Blaming an influx of hoboes, attracted to Chicago by news of the reduction in the size of the police force, for the increase in the number of petty robberies within the last week, Deputy Police Commissioner Stege last night started a campaign to drive "floaters" out of the city. Detective squads visited lodging houses and poolrooms in South State street and West Madison street and took into custody about 100 men who were unable to show any means of livelihood. Those who cannot account for their presence in the city will be ordered to leave.

GOES TO JAIL FOR BAD CHECKS.

Howard T. Egan, 45 years old, was sentenced to one year in the bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph W. Schulman in the South State street court on a charge of passing eight worthless checks for a total of $178.06.

U. S. WILL SIFT AIR PROFANITY CHARGE BY DILL

Radio Announcer Swears, Senator Declares.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Whether station KWKH at Shreveport, La., has broadcast profanity—as charged by Senator Dill of Washington—is to be investigated by the radio commission.

Chairman Robinson of the federal commission, vested with authority over the air by the act fathered by the Democratic senator from Washington, made a promise to that effect while testifying today before the senate interstate commerce committee on the Couzens communications bill.

It was the third time in as many days that the controversy over KWKH, which is operated by W. K. Henderson, had been the subject of senatorial comment. On each occasion Senator Dill was the complainant.

"On Carpet" Before.

The radio chairman explained that Henderson had been "on the carpet" within the last year but that he had proved an audience of 160,000 wanted to continue to listen to him. He also said two senators and several representatives had testified that no profanity had been used.

Dill observed that perhaps the language used then was not as distasteful as it was now, adding that it had been "getting worse lately."

Answering that, Robinson questioned whether "hell" and "damn" were profane in the light of present day usage.

"I thought so several years ago," he said, as the committee members smiled.

Seeks to Bar Utilities.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa said he was considering action to bar all utilities from broadcasting. His proposal was broached as the committee heard a discussion by Robinson of a recent court decision in which station WENR at Chicago was given the right to broadcast on a cleared channel with station WLS, at Chicago, sharing time.

"Some of us believe," the Iowan said, "that public utilities have no business on the air."

WENR is a new station operated by the Commonwealth Edison company, an Insull subsidiary, and WLS, operated by the Prairie Farmer, is a pioneer broadcaster. Robinson had told the committee that prior to the decision WENR had two-sevenths of the time given to the two stations.

MOTHER FAILS TO WIN SON IN COURT BATTLE

Neither maternal love nor maternal tears sufficed yesterday to win back her twelve year old son to Mrs. Francis Anderson of St. Louis. The boy's father, Raymond Klassen Sr. of 1019 North Dearborn street was arraigned before Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Chicago avenue court on the charge of his divorced wife, Mrs. Anderson, that he had kidnaped the boy. But young Raymond told the judge that he had left St. Louis of his own accord because his mother and stepfather mistreated him.

"Buddy," remonstrated his mother, "you know we were always nice to you."

"Those words were put in his mouth by his father," sobbed Mrs. Anderson.

"Is your father detaining you now?" an assistant state's attorney asked Robert.

"No."

"What does detain mean?" pursued the attorney.

"Being kept against your will," Robert answered promptly.

101 YEARS OLD

William Warren Church, Aurora's oldest resident, yesterday celebrated his 101st birthday anniversary at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. S. Leath of Aurora, greeting more than forty friends who called to visit him during the day. There was no formal celebration, Mr. Church spending most of the day reminiscing of early days. Despite his years, Mr. Church is still strong and active and showed no fatigue at the end of the day.

He was born at St. Johns, New Brunswick, on Jan. 10, 1829, a descendant of the Canning family of England, of which George Canning, former prime minister, was the most famous member. Mr. Church's grandfather was governor of County Derry, Ireland, but his father emigrated to Canada and later moved to the United States when Mr. Church was 12 years old. The latter was apprenticed to a wagon maker, and after learning the trade he settled in Monmouth. He moved to Aurora several years ago.

Last year Mr. Church was the guest of honor at a banquet in Monmouth celebrating his 100th anniversary. He made the 150 mile trip there unaccompanied.

SMALLER MOVIES GIVE OPERATORS $5 A WEEK RAISE

Chicago motion picture operators late yesterday concluded all wage negotiations for two years, when the Illinois Independent Theaters owners agreed to give them an increase of $2.50 a week this year and a similar one in 1931. On Thursday night the larger motion picture exhibitors agreed to a similar pay raise.

Tom Maloy supervised negotiations for the operators' union and his committee consisted of Thomas Reynolds, Hal Johnstone, Robert Burns, Frank Clifford, and Ralph O'Hara. Edward Donovan represented the film delivery truck drivers.

The Chicago operators are classed as the highest paid group of theatrical workers in the world. Their hourly rate is said to be between $2.50 and $3.50 per hour.

S. S. LUCKENBACH ON ROCKS; HULL RENT AMIDSHIPS

Block Island, R. I., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The freighter Edward Luckenbach piled up on treacherous Southwest point early today in a dense fog and tonight rested in a rocky bed, her hull rent from bow to engine room, amidships.

The crews of coast guard craft which were standing by, and resident mariners, who recalled similar marine casualties on the point, said they believed the vessel would be a total loss.

LEGION LEADER SAYS DEFENSE IS CUT TOO MUCH

Demands Protection for Nation's Wealth.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The apparent tendency of the Hoover administration to follow the Harding-Coolidge policy of constantly whittling away at the size of the military establishment is viewed with alarm by the American Legion, Maj. O. L. Bodenheimer, national commander of the veterans' organization, asserted tonight.

In an address before a local organization, the American Legion commander pointed out that since the passage of the national defense act in 1920, the strength of American military forces has been gradually reduced, until, today, it is less than half that set down in that law as the minimum consistent with future safety.

False Economy Feared.

"As we get farther away from the world war," Maj. Bodenheimer said, "we view with some alarm the gradual tearing down of one of the first principles which the Legion caused to be embodied into the basic law of our land for adequate national defense. Since the passage of the national defense act, there has been a gradual reduction in the strength of our military forces.

"That tendency continues today on the plea of economy, but it is likely to prove false economy and political expediency."

Maj. Bodenheimer did not specifically mention the President's analysis of government expenditures which purported to show that 72 per cent of every dollar of federal government appropriations is required to pay for past wars and preparations for future ones. But he did produce figures showing that the cost of army and navy protection for each $100 of American wealth is estimated at 18 cents.

Much Wealth to Be Guarded.

"It must be remembered," Maj. Bodenheimer said, in discussing the Hoover statement that current expenditures on strictly military affairs constitute the largest military budget of any nation of the world, "that this money protects a wealth and a material value three times that of the next richest country in the world.

"The population of the United States is estimated at 120 million people. The wealth of the United States is estimated at something like $3,000 per capita. The cost of protection by the army and navy for each $100 of American wealth is estimated at 18 cents."

"It has been estimated that $2,700,000,000 will be the cost for the year 1933 of all past and future wars, and that $1,800,000,000 of this amount would represent the cost for that year of the world war, as such. This $1,800,000,000, of course, must be divided into three parts, one which is applied on the principal of the war debt, one which is paid for interest, and one which covers veterans' relief.

"This large expenditure for past and future wars, therefore, is not a cost of national defense, as such, but rather, the cost and penalty of an unpreparedness which is partially responsible for our having been drawn into the world war."

Stimson Refuses to Comment on French Rebuff to Italy

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—[By Radio.]—Secretary of State Stimson, leading the American delegation to the five power naval conference in London, declined to comment tonight on the announcement that France has refused to accept Italy's claims to naval parity. He said he is without official advice on the subject.

The failure of Italy to obtain parity with France, it is believed, is not likely to cause Premier Mussolini to refuse to sign a naval agreement in London. France already has served notice that it will not sign a definitive naval limitation agreement, but only one that will be advisory to the league of nations in its undertaking to reduce sea, land, and air defense.

Names Japanese "Contact."

Mr. Stimson announced today the assignment of Lieut. Col. Charles Burnett to duty with the American delegation by the war department. Lieut. Col. Burnett for 16 years was American military attaché at Tokio. He received his assignment just in time to get aboard the George Washington and is to aid the delegation in contracts with the Japanese delegation. He and his wife, who accompanies him, speak Japanese fluently.

Mr. Stimson has received thousands of letters and radio messages from American organizations and individuals expressing confidence in the delegation and wishing it success. Church organizations have sent a large proportion of these messages. Hundreds are worded in identical language, indicating organized propaganda.

Mussolini Sees Chief Delegate.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 10.—Premier Mussolini summoned Foreign Secretary Dino Grandi this morning for a conference over matters coming up at the league of nations council at Geneva and at the London naval conference, at which Sig. Grandi will head the Italian delegations. They particularly discussed the French reply to the latest Italian note, which, it is understood, flatly rejects the Italian claims to parity with France.

Sig. Grandi will leave Rome tomorrow night for Geneva. From there he will go to London, where he is due Saturday. The other Italian negotiators are Admiral Guiseppe Siriani, minister of marine, and Admiral Action, chief of the Italian admiralty. They will leave here the middle of next week, accompanied by other members of the Italian delegation and secretaries.

The Italian hopes are dashed by the French rejection of their claims to parity, but in reality there has been little chance at any time that the preliminary negotiations between Rome and Paris would result in a direct understanding between the two countries.

JUDGE DEMANDS DRINKERS TELL ON BOOTLEGGERS

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—In an effort to uncover liquor sources in the city, Charles J. Eichel, Evansville's youthful city judge, has announced he will mete out stiffer sentences to persons haled into court on drunkenness charges who refuse to tell where they got the liquor. Two men who refused to reveal their bootlegger's name today were given 90 day sentences.

FILLING STATION IS ROBBED.

U. S. TO DEMAND 21 BIG CRUISERS IF BRITAIN ASKS 50

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Unless the British government is prepared to cut the number of its cruisers below the fifty set as its minimum requirement today by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, naval advisers on the American delegation will insist on twenty-one big cruisers for this country.

This was disclosed today when it was learned that at least one of the delegates and the leading naval technical advisers consider that twenty-one 10,000 ton cruisers represent the minimum needs of this country if Great Britain is to have fifty ships and a tonnage of 339,000.

President Hoover would like to hold down the American cruiser tonnage to about 285,000 and would accept this figure if a proportionate cut were made by Great Britain.

To give this country parity, based on 339,000 tons for the British, the administration has asked for twenty-one 8 inch gun ships, and a total tonnage in all cruiser types of 315,000.

PAIR HOLD UP STORE OWNER.

Max Rubin, owner of a candy store at 1020 Loomis street, reported to the police late yesterday that he had been robbed of $25 by two armed men.

BRITISH DEMAND MINIMUM FLEET OF 50 CRUISERS

conference and a revision, which we expect to be near 1936.

"I must emphasize that this figure is the lowest we feel can be fixed to meet even peace conditions in present world circumstances.

"The responsibility of the British commonwealth both imperially and internationally, including large commitments to the league of nations, is enormous, and the navy is required again and again—as illustrated in the recent Palestine disturbances—to take both precautionary and effective action in carrying out our obligations to keep the peace in some parts of the world even when the major powers of the world are at peace.

"But" and "If."

"But if, unhappily, the international horizon should become in the future less unclouded than it is today, it will be upon the board of admiralty to review their position and to make further proposals to his majesty's government.

"The proposed reduction in the number of cruisers to fifty is, of course, dependent on agreement at the forthcoming conference on adequate limitation of projected building programs being made by the other powers.

"Our aim is to reduce existing commitments and to stabilize our position by mutual agreement with others, avoiding competitive building and the expenditure of excessive sums of money.

Takes Up Capital Ships.

"The naval conference upon which we are entering will probably be the greatest of its kind ever held in the history of the world, and no delegates of the British nation can afford not to be impressed with the importance and the responsibility of the occasion.

"In 1921 and 1922, at Washington, we achieved an agreement with regard to capital ships and, on the assumption that we had adopted a one power standard, we then conceded to America parity with regard to capital ships. That agreement still runs and ultimately our strength of capital ships will be reduced to 15.

"But, so far as we are concerned, we should very much like to see, if replacements are to take place as they must take place, a capital ship which would be less expensive to build and to maintain than the ship involved in the maximum tonnage laid down in the Washington treaty.

Points Out Difficulties.

"There has never been an agreement with regard to the ratios of cruisers and destroyers. We said to America we were prepared to concede full and friendly parity between this country and theirs in naval strength in all the categories, in addition to those agreed upon in 1921 and 1922.

"At whatever point we think requirements will allow us to come down to, we should be quite willing for the other great English speaking nation to take parity with us, ship for ship and ton for ton, but the difficulty has been that after you have agreed on the general principle of parity there has not been any agreement as to how the total tonnage covered by the parity should be allocated and as to what size a ship should be built inside that tonnage.

"The difficulty up to the present has been to get agreement as to what should be the proper equation of the effective parity between us and the United States."

"There are two other main categories, destroyers and submarines, which must come under review. The extent to which you can get very substantial reductions in destroyer provision depends upon the measure of success you can get in regard to reduction in submarines."

HUNT FOR LOST $1,000 HELPS TO CLEAN SNOW OFF TOWN'S STREETS

One hundred men shoveled and hauled snow away from several streets in North Chicago yesterday without compensation to help out Andro Pucin, owner of a clothing store. Mr. Pucin dropped $1,000 in bills from his pocket while walking the mile from the Lake County State bank to his store. The money was not found but the town benefited, as many streets were cleared by the volunteer workers.

Saturday Style Notes Point the Way to Spring

Flares and fitted hiplines rule the day—in almost every type of frock.

Here are three distinctly different outfits, each of which utilizes the low-placed flare in its own individual way. It seems to be one mode adaptable enough to meet every demand smartly.

Lace Jabots Finish This Silk Crepe Frock, $17.50

Fine lace is used for the dainty little jabots on the blouse of this frock and for the tiny cuffs.

It lends a feminine note to a delightful simply styled frock, long and slim over the hips that breaks into fullness in low-set godets.

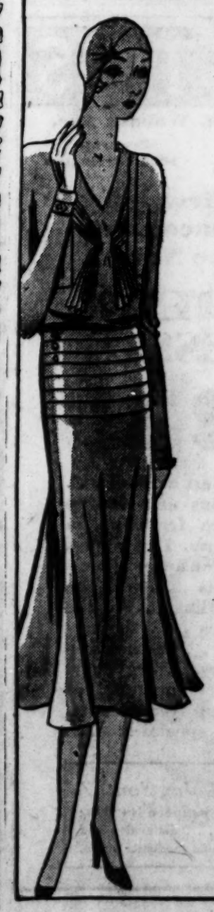
Fourth Floor, Wabash.

Jersey Blouse, $9.50 Flannel Skirt, $11.50

Laced trimly up to a round neckline, this jersey blouse confronts the world with a swagger air. Tan, gray, capucine, black, wine and white.

Slender as to hipline, the flannel skirt has its fling in a low-placed buttoned flare. White, tan, chartreuse, maize.

Fourth Floor, East.



Narrow Bands Form a Hipline Frock, $29.50

They accent the curves, these hiplines, but also they maintain a slender line. And, of course, this one is all the smarter because it's just above a soft flare. A finely pleated jabot is another of those indispensable feminine touches. Pastel shades and red, green, copen, beige, brown, black, dahlia, capucine.

Fourth Floor, South, State.

"Now . . . I can stand the Public Gaze" . . . Can You?

Moments that matter:

. . . . when you raise your arms to pin back a stray lock—and your dress is sleeveless . . . When you cross your knees and realize, suddenly, that your sheer hose are so transparent . . . When you poise your cigarette for a light and the flame-tip of his lighter shines full on your fore-arm . . .

You can meet such moments with nonchalance, if you use Del-a-tone . . . the first and only white cream hair-remover. Actually removes hair in 3 minutes or less.

Easy to apply as cold cream

Swift . . . safe . . . daintily fragrant . . . Del-a-tone Cream is the most pleasant modern way to remove hair from legs, under-arm, fore-arm, back of neck and face. A favorite of fastidious women everywhere, because it leaves the skin so petal-smooth. Send coupon for trial tube today.

ACQUIT BOOK DEALER; REVEAL YARROW TACTICS

Reformer Fails to Get Share of Fine.

Disclosures of the methods used by the Rev. Philip Yarrow in conducting campaigns for the Illinois Vigilance association won acquittal yesterday for a book dealer whom Mr. Yarrow had charged with selling obscene literature. The defendant's attorney scored with a quotation from the Lord's prayer.

Walter Shaver, elderly and bespectacled proprietor of the Rent-a-Book club, 4703 Sheridan road, was on trial before Judge Freeman L. Fairbank and a jury. There was undisputed evidence that Shaver had procured from the publisher a copy of "A Night in a Moorish Harem" at request of the society's scout, George Brown, and was selling it to Brown when the reverend inquisitor entered with a policeman.

Didn't Know Book's Contents.

While admitting the sale, Shaver testified he had no knowledge of the contents of the book. He was a business man, not a student of pornography, Shaver said. His attorney, Cameron Latter, summoned Mr. Yarrow to the stand. The colloquy was as follows:

Q.—You are a duly ordained minister? A.—Not exactly. I am a graduate of Princeton and I formerly held a pastorate, but I haven't been ordained. My title is by courtesy.

Q.—Your vigilance association is a corporation? A.—Yes, but we are organized not for profit.

Q.—Then where do your funds come from? A.—We get $16,000 yearly in contributions. And we split with the state on fines collected in cases we instigate.

Argue Over His Salary.

Q.—What's your salary?

Yarrow mumbled something about a nominal salary and, when pressed for a definite answer, glared at the lawyer. The judge instructed him to answer.

"Well," he snapped, "it should be $6,000 a year, but I don't get that much."

Q.—What provoked you to launch this campaign against book dealers—arrears in salary? A.—We had complaints from several sources.

Attorney Latter asked Yarrow to name the sources of complaint. He finally admitted there had been no specific complaint against Shaver's shop.

No Authority on Books.

Q.—Your agent, Brown, is he familiar with literature. A.—No, he's a former federal investigator. He came to us well recommended.

Q.—Then how does he know what books to seize? A.—O, I supply him with lists. The lists come to me from the Watch and Ward Society of Boston and the Association for Suppression of Vice in New York.

Q.—Was it from the Watch and Ward society that you got this idea of tempting dealers to sell you books which they did not carry in stock? A.—We don't do anything of the sort.

Mentions Lord's Prayer.

"Rev. Yarrow, have you ever read the phrase in the Lord's prayer that says: 'Lead us not into temptation?' Does that not apply to your Illinois Vigilance association?"

The jury retired and returned twenty minutes later with a verdict of not guilty. Yarrow refused comment except to express hope that in two other cases now pending the society would be able to split the $100 fines usually imposed in the event of conviction.

REVEAL RECORD IN BUILDING FOR INDUSTRIES HERE

Chicago's industrial building record for 1929 was featured by an unusually large number of plants built at a cost under $100,000, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Records show there were 281 projects of this kind erected last year, which is said to be about three times the number of previous years.

Chicago's construction program along the industrial line included ten buildings costing $1,000,000 and more. In this class are listed the Western Electric plant, the new Lever Brothers plant at Hammond, the Pines Winterfront plant, and the Illinois Anthracite corporation.

Statisticians show there were fourteen projects erected in the city and immediate districts that cost from $500,000 to $1,000,000; twenty-nine in the class that cost from $250,000 to $500,000, and thirty-nine in the group which cost between $100,000 and $250,000. They point out that 373 industrial projects were constructed during 1929.

Cost of construction of these buildings is placed at $50,330,576, a figure said to be less than in 1928, but considerably in excess of the 1927 total. The association declares the industrial construction during 1930 should equal if not exceed the 1929 record.

I. C. TO PROVIDE WATER ST. EXIT WITHIN A WEEK

Officials of the Illinois Central railroad, responding to the demand for an exit on South Water street from the new suburban platforms north of Randolph street, announced that the exits would be provided within a week.

Thirty-seven Illinois Central suburban trains, in addition to all trains of the South Shore Electric, discharge passengers from the new platforms. The Illinois Central trains include 17 locals from Hyde Park, 6 trains from South Chicago, 3 from Kensington, 5 from Matteson, and 6 from Blue Island. Passengers on these trains will be able to go to North Michigan boulevard destinations without going back to Randolph street.

The announcement from the office of Lawrence Downs, president of the road, also stated that plans for the building of the Randolph street viaduct over the Illinois Central will be complete within three weeks, and if approval by the Illinois commerce commission has been given by then work will be started at once.

ROCKEFELLERS WIN 20 YEAR FIGHT FOR REMOVAL OF TRACKS

Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The Rockefeller family, it was learned today, have at last won the fight which they have been carrying on for 20 years against the branch of the New York Central railroad which runs through Pocantico Hills. The victory has cost the Rockefellers, father and son, $5,000,000.

News of it came today in an announcement by the railroad management that it had awarded a contract to the Walsh Construction company of Davenport, Ia., to relocate the section of the Putnam division which now runs through the 800 acre Rockefeller estate between East View and Briarcliff. The new road will run along the Sawmill river, to the west of Pocantico Hills.

Under the terms of the agreement between the railroad and the Rockefellers the latter provide the three mile right of way through the new territory and the railroad assumes the cost of construction. The Rockefellers also will receive the strip of land 50 feet wide and six miles long which constitutes the present right of way from East View through Tarrytown, Tarrytown Heights, Tower Hills, and Pocantico Hills.

150 MILLIONS MAY BE ADDED FOR WATERWAYS

Committee in House Begins Hearings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—New authorizations to be carried in a rivers and harbors bill may reach an aggregate of as much as 150 million dollars, it was indicated today when hearings were commenced before the house committee on rivers and harbors.

The opening witness was Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, assistant chief of engineers, who reviewed the present status of projects included in the rivers and harbors bill which failed of action in the last congress.

It was agreed by the committee that no move would be made to increase in the pending army appropriation bill the appropriation of $55,000,000 for the rivers and harbors bill. An effort will be made, however, to obtain an increased allotment in a deficiency bill after a new rivers and harbors bill is passed.

The Illinois waterway project came up for only incidental mention during today's hearing. Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], indicated that he is favorable to a project for the deepening of the Erie canal which Representative S. W. Dempsey [Rep., N. Y.], chairman of the committee, is particularly interested in. It is expected that Mr. Dempsey will support the proposal for the use of federal funds to complete the Illinois state waterway.

The Erie canal project drew criticism from Representative Grant M. Hudson [Rep., Mich.], who is an advocate of the St. Lawrence waterway. The project has failed thus far to receive the approval of army engineers. Mr. Hudson expressed fear that the Erie canal project might be related to the all-American seaway route which is proposed as a substitute for the St. Lawrence seaway. That the two were connected was denied by Mr. Dempsey.

One of the projects affecting the lake states which was in the old bill, and which will receive new consideration is an authorization for the deepening of the lake channels to a depth of 24 feet. Representative W. W. Chalmers [Rep., O.], favors increasing the depth to 27 feet, but it is unlikely that this will be done.

25,000 CALUMET OWNERS TO FILE TAX COMPLAINTS

Attorney Otto F. Reich, president of the Calumet Township Citizens' association, yesterday announced that 25,000 property owners in the town of Calumet will file complaints against their real estate valuations under the reassessment. The hearing of this number of complaints will bring a six months' delay in collecting taxes, with a resulting burden on tax spending bodies in interest charges, it was estimated.

Attorney Reich told the board of assessors that valuations in Calumet have been doubled by the reassessment and in many instances trebled. Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, answered that in the past the complaining property owners had an average assessment of 18.2 per cent of the full value of their property and that under the reassessment they have been brought to equality with other sections of the county to 37 per cent of the full value.

ARCTIC PATROL END FIRST LEG OF TEST FLIGHT

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Completing the first leg of the 3,500 mile test flight from Mount Clemons, Mich., to Spokane, Wash., in fast time, 18 army planes arrived on St. Louis bay in Duluth at 3:30 p. m., today.

Two transport planes scheduled to leave Selfridge field at Mount Clemons this morning with the "arctic patrol" stopped at Munising, Mich., and the radio plane remained at St. Ignace, Mich., for the night.

Robber Threatens Doctor and Nurse in Automobile

The South Chicago police yesterday were seeking a drunken bandit who, after robbing Dr. Clarence S. Duner, 6759 Constance avenue, threatened the physician and Miss Olga Ward, 8120 Crandon avenue, superintendent of nurses of the South Shore hospital. The bandit thrust a revolver in the doctor's face when he and the nurse were sitting in a car in front of her home. Dr. Duner lost a watch and $80.

FALL ON ICE IS FATAL.

STANDARD OIL'S 60TH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

John D. Greetings Sent in Talkie.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 10.—(AP)—More than 200 outstanding leaders in the oil industries of the United States celebrated here tonight the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Standard Oil company by John D. Rockefeller Sr. and his former associates.

Mr. Rockefeller, spending the winter at Ormond Beach, Fla., was unable to be present, but a talking picture of him conveyed a personal greeting to those assembled.

It was the founding of the Standard Oil company 60 years ago that was the beginning of the high attainments of the present oil industry and the stroke that made Rockefeller at one time the richest man in the country. From that fortune he is known to have given more than $750,000,000 to science and charity to further the world's fight for a better and healthier race.

Many Join in Tribute.

Joining in the tribute to Rockefeller the "oil king" tonight were representatives from all of the Standard Oil companies which have grown out of the original firm, and from many of their large competitors. The celebration was arranged by W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio.

Although now past 90 years old, Mr. Rockefeller as shown in the special talking picture, appeared to be in excellent health. He was shown walking in front of his Ormond Beach home, and then reading a letter addressed to Mr. Holliday, conveying his greetings to tonight's gathering.

In conclusion, the first great figure of the oil world smiled happily and waved cheerfully toward the camera.

Rockefeller's beginnings in the infant oil industry were commonly discussed at the meeting. He was among the first to realize the potentialities of oil after the first oil well was drilled in 1859 near Titusville, Pa. Taking $17,000 profits out of a commission business in Cleveland, Rockefeller invested it with an equal amount from his partner, Maurice B. Clark, in a "cheese-box" refinery here, in 1862. Three years later, when he was 26 years old, he bought out Clark for $72,500. Ten years before he had been an office boy at $15 a month.

Bought Out Competitors.

Samuel Andrews and Henry M. Flagler later became interested with Rockefeller and Flagler gave him a contract with Stephen V. Harkness, then Cleveland's richest man. Harkness provided unlimited credit and a partnership of "Rockefeller, Andrews, and Flagler" was formed and bought out many competitors.

The next step in Rockefeller's industrial structure was the founding of the Standard Oil company. The incorporation papers were signed Jan. 10, 1870, bearing the names of Rockefeller, Andrews, Flagler, Harkness and William Rockefeller, a brother. All of these except "John. D." have died while he hopes to reach 100.

An elaborate entertainment was on the celebration program including many vaudeville and grand opera stars.

Prize on Novel British Girl's Wedding Gift

'None So Pretty' Is Title; It's Historical.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—A very curious and pleasant incident has marked the conclusion of a historical novel competition lately held in this city; when the publishers, all unconscious that they were playing so romantic a rôle, wrote to Miss Margaret Irwin to tell her she had won the prize with her novel, "None So Pretty," and discovered that the news had reached her as a wedding present!

R. M. MOTTRAM.

The judges in the competition were E. M. Forster, R. M. Mottram, and Prof. George Gordon. One of the runners-up, who will be given second prize, is Mrs. Daphne Muir, the author of a much admired novel of South African life called "A Virtuous Woman." It is to Mrs. Muir that Miss Phoebe Fenwick Gaye, the author of "Vivandière," acts as secretary.

Mr. Mottram, one of the judges, as mentioned above, has a new novel about Skene, the hero of "The Spanish Farm," appearing soon. It is entitled "Europa's Beast." And Mr. H. W. Freeman, whose first novel, "Joseph and His Brethren," was a Book of the Month club choice, with a preface by Mr. Mottram, whose friend the author is, has written a new story called "Down in the Valley."

This story has its scene in a village in Suffolk, and it is more of a romance than its forerunner. It shows how dangerously a man may live who, while he loves one woman, feels called on to pity and befriend another.

Another book which should have association interest for some American readers is one called "Rhododendron Pie," by Margery Sharp. This is a first novel, and Miss Sharp was one of that small band of English women graduates who toured the United States last year debating with students at American universities.

Hugh Walpole is to have a play, "The Young Diana," produced in London during the next few months. It is said to be his first play, as he did not himself dramatize "Portrait of a Man with Red Hair," but I am under the impression that a romantic play by Mr. Walpole was performed some years ago by the Liverpool Repertory company. All Mr. Walpole's admirers, however, will certainly rally to "The Young Diana" while they are waiting for the first volume of the trilogy of historical novels which Mr. Walpole is now engaged in writing.

The collectors will have a new piece of sport over Robert Graves' book, for all the copies of "Good-by to All That" containing Mr. Siegfried Sassoon's poetic letter to the author have been called in. In spite of this fact, noncollectors are clamoring for the book, which continues to sell steadily, and will so continue for several months to come. It is one of the best pictures of the war on the western front that I have read, and it will not soon be forgotten.

Two More Books About Career of Ambrose Bierce

Ambrose Bierce had the unique distinction of being hailed as dead when he was living and the even more mysterious history of being thought alive when he indubitably was dead. There still are many people who think he is alive, just as there were many who could never be convinced that Oscar Wilde was dead.

Ambrose Bierce was one of those men who is destined to be mysterious to his fellow men and to be misunderstood by them.

A life of Ambrose Bierce by Walter Neale, the publisher of his collected works, and, I believe, a friend of Bierce's, is published by Mr. Neale himself, and another one, just out, by Carey McWilliams, is published by A. and C. Boni.

Tells How Indian Life Colors Mexico of Today

"Idols Behind Altars," by Anita Brenner [Payson & Clarke], is a book about Mexico, but not a travel book in any sense of the word, although it is full of word pictures about that country. It is rather an interpretation of a race than a record of either place or time. Anita Brenner was born in Mexico and educated at the National university. That university assisted in the collection of material for the book. Most of the material is absolutely new—gained from the exploration of old colonial missions and the craft centers of the Indians.

A new Bower ranch story filled with mystery, thrills and humor

FOOL'S GOAL

By B. M. BOWER

In this vigorous story, Dale Emery, son of a Chicago cattleman, takes most of his inheritance in cash and starts West with it to buy a ranch. In some unknown manner his secret leaks out and he becomes the object of repeated attempts at robbery. Then he goes to work on a ranch and tries to solve the mystery of his attackers who remain unknown and unseen. Along with the game of hide-and-seek, described with true Bower humor, runs the love story of Dale and Cynthy Burnett.

Here's Story of News People, So Many Plan

But Katharine Brush Has Done Job Well.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Young Man of Manhattan," by Katharine Brush (Farrar & Rinehart).

A newspaper man is one of the most often massacred heroes in modern American fiction. Not that there are so many books published about newspaper men, but the number that are written is said to equal approximately [and in comparison] the sands of the well known sea.

The reason so few get published is because there are so many ex-newspaper men in editorial jobs in publishing houses; set one of them to catch one of them!

I remember years and years ago when Sinclair Lewis was an editorial man for George Doran and I was the veriest lowliest beginner on a newspaper. He wrote me about this thing and that, and the principal "that" was the spate of novels that were about a girl on a newspaper who [1] makes terrifically good, [2] yearns for a bigger and better life—including a Rolls or two, and [3] by her cleverness and her sympathy AND her beauty lands a billionaire and sends the son of the night elevator man [who always had left his stool and opened the door for her when she, trembling with fatigue, left about midnight] to Paris to become a great artist.

Or the "that" was a newspaper man who drank too much, never had any money, because he was always lending it to somebody whose wife and kids were sick, fell in love with a girl, married her and made her a rotter of a husband whom she loved, through it all, better than she loved . . . but you know it, you've been told it many times. If you're a newspaper man or related to one, or anything like that you've probably planned on doing some such novel yourself some day.

No use. It has been done, thoroughly, by Katharine Brush. "Young Man of Manhattan" is the same story of the same newspaper man [he's a sports writer in this case] and everything happens to him and to his girl that you had planned on putting into your story. Also in the end he makes good and . . . but it would spoil the story to tell exactly how everything comes out. The point about "Young Man of Manhattan" IS that it is the usual story, but told with such skill and such reality, such sympathy, such gayety of spirit that it immediately assumes the position of being the only authentic story of a young man of the Manhattan press.

The hero has all of the faults of everybody else's hero, but he is just that much more human for them, and she has not made him either a sentimental caricature or "an 'orrible example." Her heroine writes about the movies for another paper. She is slightly, just slightly, too popular and too succulent for the taste of this reviewer. The relations between the hero and the heroine in, one might add, a very hectic wedlock, are modern and quick rhythmed, but they are —like all other records of love from the beginning of time—the story of devotion and misunderstanding and making up and never having things quite so effulgent and pain and bliss. In other words, "Young Man of Manhattan" is, primarily, a love story. The fact that it is the love story of two "hard boiled" newspaper people only makes its semblance to all of the other love stories in the world more intriguing.

There is nothing false, nothing freakish about "Young Man of Manhattan." Two young people, terribly in love with one another, marry and try to get along together and they nearly wreck their lives and their happiness in the trial. It's the same old story from every angle—characters, plot. But it's a shiny new, gay one in Katharine Brush's hands.

"Young Man of Manhattan" was the second most popular serial that ever ran in the weekly magazine which printed it. [The most popular ever printed there was "The Bellamy Trial."]

There is a tradition to the effect that serialization in that particular magazine kills the sale of a book, because so many people already have read the story. It will be an interesting thing to learn of the popularity of this story in book form. It has started out being the best seller in Chicago.

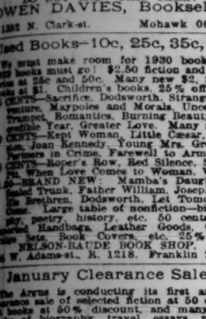
The Brief Record of Man Who Founded a University

"Johns Hopkins, a Silhouette," by Helen Hopkins Thom [Johns Hopkins Press], gathers the slight material on record about that gentleman whose chief historical record remains in the excellent university which bears his name. The librarian of that university says in an introduction, "to the writing . . . the author . . . brings the interest of kinship and personal recollection as well as a lifelong loyalty to the institutions which he founded." The book is dedicated by the author "To my father, Joseph S. Hopkins, whose personal reminiscences of his uncle have made this book possible."



He rowed the Panama Canal—
He lived with the convicts on Devil's Island—
He relived the life of Robinson Crusoe.

Etcher's Nature Dynamic as His Pictures.

BY KATE BREWSTER.

"The Life and Letters of Joseph Pennell," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell (Little, Brown & Co.).

Wives of great men frequently remind us that close association with the great makes Jill a dull girl. They fail, through wifely devotion, to recognize their husband's more salient qualities and refuse to admit those endearing peculiarities that make even the great interesting.

Not so Mrs. Pennell. She celebrates her Joseph's quips, condones his cranks, and, while admitting his peculiarities, loves and reasonably explains them. That he was short tempered, "rich in his supply of invectives," intolerant, and always ready for a fight to the finish she never denies, but all these manifestations were to her the steam of a sensitive, striving spirit buried deep for self-protection.

Into the book is written much more than it seems to tell. It is crowded from beginning to end with Pennell. Everybody, everything is set forth in relation to him, overshadowed by his personality, molded to his nature. There are no assertions of his greatness, few of his genius; yet belief in both runs through every phrase and page. The whole book is a pæan, not an apologia; but not once does Mrs. Pennell ignore the criticisms that were heaped upon her husband throughout his life. She meets them all squarely and tenderly, but truthfully explains just how they came about and why, if you knew and understood him, you could not for one moment believe they were just.

His manner invited them, yes; his quality deserved them, never. There are few glorifying words, but a sentence here, an anecdote there, a funny little explanation of one of his more vigorous outbreaks shows up this notoriously crusty individual as kindly, oversensitive, and shy underneath.

It is a driving book, as Mrs. Pennell has written it, full of Pennell's unflagging vitality and eagerness for work. You drive, too, from chapter to chapter as he drove from job to job, wishing he wouldn't work so hard, that he didn't have so many plans ahead, that he'd get a secretary, that his associates weren't such bunglers, that he didn't always have such hard luck, that he would use a little tact and avoid the row that is just ahead. But you know that he never will, that he is the inevitably busy man who glories in making a fuss, but would be perfectly miserable if one job, one complication, one secretaryship, one row, were denied him.

In choosing letters for publication Mrs. Pennell has been as honest as in the rest of the book. She never edits, but leaves form and substance exactly as Pennell set it down. In them are set forth all his sharp dislikes and his sharper expression of them, and his enthusiasms are no less trenchantly expressed.

They are used to augment the text, and sometimes are a little upsetting to Mrs. Pennell's gentle interpretation. What he said about Chicago, about women, about William Morris, and about Americans, about accepted traditions, things and people in general, proves that his sensitive spirit suffered—perhaps—but not in silence.

There is little in the book about any one but Pennell. Whistler, even, is subordinate; friends, associates, collaborators, and critics (not to mention antagonists) flicker in and out of the pages only as they illumine Pennell. In fact, to read the book with consuming interest requires a background of knowledge of Pennell's work, his immense achievements, his circle, and his controversies. It is for people with this interest that the book is written to record and comment, not to introduce.

But the most charming phase of this biography is the autobiography it is not meant to be—of the perfect wife, the devoted companion.

Herself is mentioned as incidentally as all the others that Pennell liked, esteemed, or abhorred; but her adoring presence, ceaseless care, and enthusiastic admiration were his rod and his staff. What she is and what she was to him shine through her words and make the book memorable no less than the straightforward picture of a great artist.

New York Teas Are Flavored with Gossip About Authors

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Have you considered tea parties a specifically feminine diversion? Not so in New York. Men outnumber the women at all literary teas—not only, as you might think, at those given by publishers who have a reputation for "best cellars."

At Mr. and Mrs. John Farrar's on Friday, they were ranked six deep, all facing one way with the absorbed attention usually bestowed on baseball score boards or market quotations.

"What's the attraction?" we asked a handsome young man hovering respectfully on the fringe of the crowd. "My wife," replied Katharine Brush's new husband with a grin.

Tearing Du Bois Heyward away from the guest of honor, we learned that he and Dorothy had got back from a European holiday in time to build themselves a new house in Hendersonville, N. C., this summer and have just come to town. Lean, brown, with the modulated voice of a scholar, he confesses to detective stories and musical revues as his pastimes when at work. He's now in the midst of a new play written as such from the ground up—more thematic, more tragic, more technically compact than "Porgy," which the author describes as a "staged novel," rather than a drama.

John Dos Passos and his bride, who was Miss Kate Smith of Chicago, have sailed away for Paris, thence they go to Munich and Berlin. There he will see his play, "Airways, Inc.," produced. He left behind the manuscript of his next book, "The 42nd Parallel" —it's "out" some time in February.

Alfred Kreymborg, who wears glasses and a long pipe, is not only a poet, an anthologist and lecturer, and co-editor with Lewis Mumford and Paul Rosenfeld of "The American Caravan," he and Mrs. Kreymborg, who is an artist, have a puppet show entirely their own work—scenery, costumes, marionettes, and repertory of plays.

This month they are taking it to Chicago. There they will present at the Wednesday Fortnightly two plays, "When the Willow Nods" and "Lima Beans." In February Mr. Kreymborg appears in lecture incarnation for the Drama league. Anthologically, he is now at work on a volume which will supplement his history of American poetry, "Singing Strength."

Youngest of the American poets receiving Mr. Kreymborg's attention in "Singing Strength" is Nathalia Crane, whose first novel, "An Alien from Heaven," is her sixth book. It has been translated into German and is soon to go into French. Rabindranath Tagore has put her poems into the schools of India. Our niece, Sally, not to be outdone by the heathen, told us she has them at school in U. S. A.

A sweet, shy, young girl is Nathalia, quite unscathed—because of her inborn sensitiveness and also the wisdom she exercised in the selection of her parents—by her success and the glare of publicity which has been her lot since childhood. She is small for her 16 years and very slender. Heart shaped face; clear ivory skin; dark auburn curly hair gathered in at the neck . . . big golden eyes, innocent and eager.

Story of Sun Yat Sen and His China Is Well Told

"The Legacy of Sun Yat Sen," by Gustav Amann [Carrier], is a complete but popular history of the anti-dynastic revolution in China, a picture of the political and economic factors which brought it about in the foreground with the spiritual background from which these events arose as an inevitable development.

It is a biography of the greatest of modern Chinese statesmen, and a graphic portrayal of what history will probably call the most disturbed period of his country's history. The translation is made by Frederick Philip Grove.

Meetings and Lectures

Llewellyn Jones will lecture on "Theodore Dreiser" at a dinner of the Seven Arts club this evening at 7 o'clock at 631 North Michigan avenue.

"The Criminal in Human Nature" will be the subject of a discussion tomorrow afternoon at the Chicago Forum, Adelphi theater, by Dr. Fritz Wittels of Vienna, author of "A Critique of Love."

A. Herbert Gray of London, author of "Men, Women, and God," will be the speaker tomorrow evening at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. His subject will be "What Makes Real Life?"

On Monday evening, at the Emil G. Hirsch center, Dr. Samuel D. Schmalhausen, author of "Why We Misbehave" and "Humanizing Education," will talk on "American Literature Comes of Age."

Mary Austin, one of the best known American writers on the American Indian (as well as many other topics), will speak at the Oak Park club on Wednesday.

How Yankees Won and Lost Command of Merchant Shipping

"Our Sea Saga—the Wood Wind Ships" is an interesting history of the great days of the packets and clippers, their builders and their masters, compiled and edited by E. O. Sawyer Jr. and published by him.

In a foreword he says, "The purpose of this volume is to bring together under one cover original articles on the American merchant marine which have long been out of print." He includes articles on how wooden ships are built, biographies of old Salem sea captains, the builders of wooden ships at New York, slavers and the taking of the last slave ship, the cruise of the Alabama, a chapter on sailor songs and assorted other material full of interest.

The author hopes by retelling the story of the days of glory of the United States on the sea an interest may be revived in America's sea commerce. He says it cost England only 15 millions [the amount of the Alabama claim payment] to wipe American commerce off the seas, and America has been kept off for 50 years by various means.

Flyers Form Minority in New Aviation Industry

"Opportunities in Aviation" by Walter Hinton [Norton] is an exposition by the man who piloted the NC-4 on the first trans-Atlantic flight. "It is no more necessary that a man be a pilot to be a success in the field of aviation," he says, "than that he be a locomotive engineer to achieve success in the railroad industry. Of the thousands of men and women who are at work in this new industry, less than five per cent are actual flyers." He presents the unlimited opportunities of that industry to his readers.

New Yorker: "A fine start for the new year. A first-rate novel of pageantry which shows the migrations of Aristocracy across the map of Europe and over the sea to Chicago."
Julia Peterkin: "Mr. Komroff's Coronet amazes me. I congratulate him."
Harry Hansen: "This big, sweeping historical novel is very likely to affect and color the books of the next 18 months."
Philadelphia Inquirer: "Shows great brilliance."

THE PEOPLE AND THE WORLD COURT.

It is a Washington report that the delay in submitting the world court proposal again to the senate may be explained in part by the reluctance of some senators to have it sent in before the primaries in their states. They are said to have put their case to Mr. Hoover and to have asked for a period of grace in which they can defer offending their constituents or at least in which they can avoid raising a controversial issue which might be used against them. The feelings of senators who must go into an election and who doubt that their people will sustain a vote on the world court can be understood, but such a situation is also a natural challenge of the policy of undertaking this association with Europe.

There has been no evidence of consent from the American electorate. The record is all to the contrary, but it has not guided any of the last four Presidents.

THE DEGRADATION OF THE COAST GUARD.

The degradation of the coast guard as a result of its association with prohibition enforcement is continually and increasingly in evidence. Liquor seized in the capture of rum runners has in some instances been sold by members of the guard and in others has been guzzled. Thirty-nine members of the guard, in the words of Representative La Guardia, have been found purloining parts of the seized cargoes. Many other guardsmen have been court-martialed for drunkenness on duty. The guard posted on the Black Duck after the killing of the crew was blind drunk, according to eyewitnesses. He brandished a gun, and when he staggered and fell a bottle in his pocket was shattered. When the crews which had taken part in the capture of the Flor del Mar returned to port a half dozen were tossed into the brig for intoxication. Liquor was found hidden in various parts of the coast guard destroyers which took part in the capture.

Fifteen years ago the coast guard was a corps d'élite. Formerly it was charged with protecting human life off our coasts and enforcing laws which found support in the common conscience of the American people. Today its chief function is enforcing a law which has relatively little support in the common conscience. The profits from the sale of captured liquor are large, and vast numbers of high-minded citizens, including, of course, many guardsmen, have no slightest prick of conscience when they violate the law. The two facts work together to undermine the morale of the organization.

The same result is bound to occur in the department of justice, as Mr. La Guardia observes, if the expected recommendation of the President's law enforcement commission for concentration of the enforcement services in that department is adopted. The treasury department will be the better off for having no more to do with liquor, but the department of justice will suffer. It has suffered already from its limited contact with enforcement, as no less an authority than Mabel Willebrandt has testified. Whatever department of government is charged with enforcing the dry laws will be riddled with graft and corruption, and its inefficiency in prohibition enforcement will be reflected in inefficiency in other branches of the public service. Not even the bureau of standards, under similar temptation, would be immune to the contamination.

THE PROBLEM OF THE RADICALS.

The Republican committee on committees in the senate has voted to assign Senator La Follette to one of the vacancies on the finance committee, as he desired. It was in Senator Smoot's power to let the Wisconsin senator in or keep him out. His vote would decide, and after hesitating he made it yes.

It is a proper objection to Mr. La Follette that he does not qualify as a Republican by reasonable tests of political performance, although he is in the senate as one. He and such others as Norris, Frazier, Nye, Brookhart, etc., are generally a part of the opposition to the Republican organization and program. They sit as Republicans and vote as Democrats. Sometimes they transfer the control of the senate from the majority to the minority party. When they do this party responsibility disappears. The elections provided for one result, and the shifting radicals produce another. The government is supposed to be Republican, but it hasn't the votes. In the British organization of government this might put the ministry out in the street almost any day, but the American government keeps going on whether it can carry its points or not.

Heflin, the Alabama Democrat, has been read out of his party in his home state for political heresy, but Heflin as a Democrat is more orthodox than La Follette as a Republican. It is at least doubtful that the radicals who are called Republicans could be elected in their states as members of the national party with which they coöperate in the senate. At least they do not try it, and the presumption is that they realize the importance of the Republican label.

The Republicans of a state cannot be told that they must select a Republican of a certain type or none at all. In some of the states the general disposition of the party vote is all to the good in theory. We have seen the Republican party management get hard boiled from time to time, and frequently it needs the correction of liberalism. The trouble is that the liberal theory so often gets irresponsible or immoderate banner carriers.

It is a problem in American government because it is tending to do away with party responsibility. A campaign gives one result and congress arrives at another. It may easily affect a serious issue some day. It is worse than a divided government with the administration of one party and the legislature of another. It points toward the disorganization with which many European states are familiar. Americans have had little experience with it, and consequently are likely to make a worse mess of it if it is what they are about to get.

SPEAKING OF ISLANDS.

John Steele of THE TRIBUNE London office says the British admiralty has information that Italy is making a mine base on the island of Pantellaria, half way between Sicily and the coast of Tunis. Furthermore that islands between the Italian coast and Corsica are being fortified and that Sicily has been prepared as an air base within easy bombing distance of the British base at Malta.

It is thought that these matters will be brought to the attention of the naval conference by both France and Great Britain. If so it will be an excellent opening for the United States in turn to call the attention of both France and Great Britain to their own island possessions off the American coast and trade routes. The question is one with which such a conference is properly concerned.

THE CASE OF DR. MAC INTOSH.

Douglas C. MacIntosh, professor of theology at Yale, has been denied citizenship by the decision of the United States District court, and, it is understood, will appeal to the Circuit court and if necessary probably to the United States Supreme court. Dr. MacIntosh was born in Scotland, studied at the University of Chicago, received his doctor's degree there, became a member of the Yale faculty, was in the war as a chaplain and obviously is a man who could be welcomed to American citizenship.

What disqualifies him is regarded by the courts as a fundamental, although in his case it is purely academic. Dr. MacIntosh in examination said that he could not promise unreservedly to bear arms in defense of the country. He put first his allegiance to the will of God and would serve only if his conscience sustained the war as morally justified. The court held that this reservation is contrary to the principles of the constitution to which Dr. MacIntosh wishes to swear.

The chances are all against the applicant even being allowed to bear arms, much less being asked or required to do so, but he is a man of character, education, high moral principles and ability. He gives as a reasoned statement of his position a doctrine which could not be adopted generally, which is not recognized as national principle. He asked to become a citizen upon certain terms which were his own and not the terms upon which the country admits aliens to citizenship. It does not seem possible to concede that such theory could be allowed as an exception. It would destroy equality. Reservations as to allegiance cannot be admitted when the oath of allegiance is being taken. Dr. MacIntosh should be able to sacrifice his chances of citizenship to his conscience without protest and without regret.

LAKES-TO-GULF AND CONGRESS.

[New Orleans Times-Picayune.]

The recent findings and recommendations of Special Master Hughes in the Chicago drainage canal case emphasize the necessity of congressional action specifically authorizing the lakes-to-gulf waterway and such diversion of lake waters as may be necessary to maintain its navigable depths. Judge Hughes suggests that the annual average diversion be limited to 5,000 second feet or thereabouts. But his recommendation stipulates that, "in the absence of competent action by congress in relation to navigation lawfully imposing a different requirement," the diversion be ultimately restricted to an annual average of 1,500 second feet.

Congress has never given formal authorization to the lakes-to-gulf channel, and for that reason the United States Supreme court declined to rule in the Chicago canal case upon the question of water diversion for navigation purposes. Some of the representatives of the states which are fighting the diversion have demanded complete stoppage thereof, regardless of lakes-to-gulf navigation needs. Not all of them maintain that attitude, however. Attorney General Bettman of Ohio, in comment upon Judge Hughes' findings, recently declared, on the contrary, that "the lake states stand ready to give such water from Lake Michigan as is necessary for a bona fide waterway between the great lakes and the Mississippi. In so doing," he added, "they will not prejudice themselves by lowering water levels in the great lakes, because it is an engineering fact that the amount of water necessary for a ship canal or for lockage purposes in a bona fide waterway will not adversely affect lake levels."

The Ohio law officer's frank acknowledgment of an "engineering fact" which other opponents of the Chicago diversion have steadily ignored, and his promise to consent to the diversion of water necessary for a bona fide waterway between the great lakes and the Mississippi, encourages the hope of a working agreement permitting early completion and operation of the lakes-to-gulf channel. Representative Rainey of Illinois expresses confidence that such an agreement will be reached. Formal authorization of the lakes-to-gulf project by congress seems to be a necessity. This new year should record without fail the congressional validation of that essential unit in the "Mississippi system" of inland waterways as defined and advocated by President Hoover.

ANEMIA AND EATING LIVER.

If a person be anemic the best method of treatment is to eat a diet which is rich in blood-making qualities. This is true of secondary anemias as well as of pernicious anemia, though when we come to details the statement must be modified somewhat.

Mrs. Robschelt-Robbins ranks the effectiveness of certain diets in the following scale:

Beef liver stands first with a rank of 95; beef liver and bread, 80; chicken liver and bread, 80; chicken gizzard and bread, 80; kidney and bread, 70; apricots and bread, 48; eggs and bread, 45; lean hog meat and bread, 30; raisins and bread, 25; lean beef and bread, 17; spinach and bread, 15; butter and bread, 15; fish and bread, 13; cream and bread, 10; asparagus and bread, 9; raspberries and bread, 5; milk and bread, 3; bread, 3.

Extract of liver was effective in feeding people with pernicious anemia and anemia due to sprue, but was not satisfactory in other forms of anemia. Kidney ranked very close to liver in all forms of anemia. Tripe or stomach wall also ranked very high. Bone marrow and spleen did not rank in the same class as the three above given in the studies cited. Brain and pancreas likewise ranked well below liver, kidney, stomach, gizzard, and heart.

The lean meats Mrs. Robschelt-Robbins ranks in the following order: Chicken gizzard, lean pork, heart muscle of pigs and cattle, cattle stomach or tripe, and beef meat. Whole fish was more effective than fish liver alone, though neither fish nor fish liver of any kind ranked with cow and hog meats and liver. Fats had some capacity for blood regeneration, but not enough to measure up to their reputations. Cream and, better still, butter were superior to skim milk and to cheese, but at that they fell far below lean meats. Of the various vegetable products the fruits ranked much higher than the vegetables. Among the fruits apricots, peaches, and prunes ranked very high. This applied to dried, preserved, and canned fruits as well as to the fresh article. Apples, raisins, and grapes were about on a level with each other but below apricots and peaches. Raspberries did not supply much iron. Mrs. Robschelt-Robbins says vegetables enjoy a better reputation than they deserve. Leafy vegetables such as spinach and beet greens have some value; lettuce has less. Milk is almost worthless as a blood regenerator; butter and cream are somewhat better.

SIGNATURE OF HEIRS.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man dies leaving a will disposing of his personal property and real estate. Several of the heirs were loaned certain sums of money and as this amounted to more than the others would inherit from the estate, these heirs were mentioned in the will as not sharing in the estate for that reason. 1. Will you kindly advise if, when disposing of the real estate, it is necessary to have the signatures of all the heirs, even though they are mentioned in the will as not sharing in the estate? 2. Can clear title be given to the property if some of the heirs will not sign or can some other way be found so the property can be disposed of?

1. The signatures of the heirs who were not mentioned in the will would be unnecessary. 2. Yes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, I HOPE TO TELL YOU—

the worst thing about prohibition is that it takes up all our time talking about it. Columns in the papers every day about congress and all about wet speeches and dry speeches. People on buses and street cars and in theater and hotel lobbies waste hours telling each other a surefire recipe they've got for making beer or how to fix up hair tonic with lemon extract and make a champagne you couldn't tell from the kind you get in Paris. And at an evening party the guests talk so loud of what a fine thing prohibition is for shop workers and the white collar boys that sometimes it almost drowns out the sound of the cocktail shaker. And in the old days people had a pretty custom of saying "Good morning" when they met. Now they say, "D'yuh know a good bootlegger?" But it's worse in congress. Think of the time they could put in down there on the tariff and income taxes and rivers and harbors if they didn't have to talk for or against prohibition. Something ought to be done about this.

ELSIE McCORMICK in the w. k. New York World tells a good story that came to her from the Far East. A man in the commercial set who had invited several missionaries to dinner told his cook to prepare an unusually good repast for them. The well intentioned servant worked very hard to make a good impression on the reverend gentlemen. For dessert he brought in a beautiful cake, which, however, caused a good deal of surprise among the guests. Worked out in elaborate white frosting was an inscription reading, "Hooray for God."

MAYBE THAT'S WHERE THEY LOST THE BASS DRUM.

Our old friend, Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, has just been taken to the hospital out in Manila for another operation. As they were carrying him in he said to one of his nurses, "I hope they don't forget anything this time," referring to the time when he was operated on for appendicitis and the surgeons carelessly mislaid several yards of surgical gauze and sewed it up in Mr. Aguinaldo. Which reminds us of the story the laughing blue-eyed nurse told us one time in the hospital when we had a few stitches taken. The merry nurse said that a patient who had been operated on for appendicitis had come out from under the chloroform and was being cheered up by the other patients in the ward. One of them said that when he was sewed up after an appendicitis job the surgeons sewed up quite a lot of gauze in him, and this reminded another cheerful patient that the surgeons had sewed up a small pair of scissors in his inside. And another cutup said that in his case the doctor had mislaid a spool of thread, and, sure enough, it had been sewed up in the patient. Just as the last mirthful tale had been told, the doctor who had performed the operation for the man who was being cheered up stuck his head in the door and said, "Say, I've lost my hat. Did anybody—" But the patient had fainted away. When we heard that story we didn't laugh near as much as the nurse did. We had just been sewed up, too. But for hours we watched the door, expecting the doctor to stick his head in and say, "Hello, I've lost my new fur overcoat." If he had said that we were all ready to jump right through the window.

"HOW NICE to see Bernard back in the Line again," said half a dozen people to us yesterday. "I clipped so many of his poems years ago, and when he wrote his 'good-by' poem two or three years ago I was so sorry." And each time we had to explain that the Bernard who wrote "Dead Love" in Friday's Line was not the same Bernard who is still remembered for such lovely poems as "Go On, Remembering" and "Distance" and "Stars" and dozens of others. When the old Bernard said good-by to that name in the column (for under other names he has contributed many beautiful things since) we put it on the For Sale, Rent, or Exchange shelf, and when the new Bernard came along yesterday and asked for it he got it. It's all very complicated, and maybe we'd better ask the new Bernard to add an initial or a number of something to his name to simplify matters. Yes? No?

AND, SPEAKING of Aguinaldo, we remember about the only poem that George Ade ever wrote. George always denied it and said Jawn McCutcheon wrote it, but Jawn said it was George, and we always believed Jawn. Anyhow, the poem was at a time when they put people in jail out in the Philippines for lese majesty against Gen. Otis, the governor general who wasn't getting on so well with his job. Gen. Aguinaldo was running loose with quite a busy lot of insurrectos and giving Gen. Otis a lot of sleepless nights. Here is part of the poem as we remember it after these many years:

Three men to every gun;
I say the war is over,
They say it's just begun.
My men go out to have a fight,
The rebels run away;
I cable home the trouble's o'er,
But to myself I say—

CHORUS:

Oh, am I a boss, or am I a tool?
Am I a governor general or a hobo?
Now I would like to know,
Who is running this show?
Is it me or Emilio Aguinaldo?

Not a great poem, but it made the army mad, for armies are not renowned for having a sense of humor.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 11, 1865.

WASHINGTON. — In compliance with the request of the loyal citizens of Savannah, the city probably will be declared a port of entry and thrown open to commerce as soon as the obstructions in the waters and approaches are removed.

WASHINGTON.—During the last five days 387 deserters from Gen. Lee's rebel army have come into Gen. Grant's lines. Eighteen men were executed at Petersburg in one day last week for attempting to desert. Cases of attempted desertion are tried by a drum head court martial and instant death is the punishment inflicted.

SPRINGFIELD.—The inauguration of Gen. Oglesby as governor was postponed until Jan. 16 because of the death of his little son.

CINCINNATI.—E. G. Asay and Judge Wilson of Chicago arrived here as counsel for Charles Walsh and G. St. Leger Grenfell, two of those charged with conspiracy to release rebel prisoners at Camp Douglas and sack Chicago last November. The case was adjourned until tomorrow to obtain a better room for the trial.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's City Point correspondent says that Gen. Butler has been removed by President Lincoln from command of the Army of the James and ordered to report at Lowell, Mass. Gen. Ord has succeeded temporarily to the position.

CHICAGO.—C. S. Harris and Miss Cleo Belle Hall were married on Jan. 5 at the First Congregational church by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Patton. Micajah Noyes and Miss Katie Spellman were married on Jan. 10 by the Rev. Dr. O. H. Tiffany. Samuel B. Martin and Miss Harriet C. Smith were married on Jan. 8 by the Rev. Robert Laird Collier. Daniel A. Hewes and Miss Sarah J. Olds were married on Jan. 10 at the home of Albert Danks by the Rev. Dr. T. M. Eddy.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 11, 1900.

LONDON.—Lieut. Gen. Lord Methuen, commanding the column advancing to the relief of Kimberley, is to be relieved of his command within two weeks. Later he will be sent to Cape Town and eventually ordered home, where he will be retired.

LONDON.—Gen. Lord Roberts, the new commander of the British forces in South Africa, and his chief of staff, Gen. Lord Kitchener, have arrived at Cape Town.

WASHINGTON. — Miss Cecelia Sherman Miles, daughter of Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, was married to her second cousin, Capt. Samuel Reber of the signal corps of the army, by the Rev. Dr. McKay Smith.

NEW YORK.—Terry McGovern, the new featherweight champion, received $9,416 for defeating George Dixon, the colored champion, considered the most scientific fighter in the ring. McGovern is 20 years old, married, and a father. He does not drink, smoke or swear, is religious and devoted to his family.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 11, 1920.

PARIS.—The allies and Germany are at peace. The world war ended formally this afternoon when representatives of the powers which had approved the Versailles treaty deposited their certificates of ratification and signed the process verbal which put the treaty into effect. The United States took no part in the proceedings and remains in "a state of war" with Germany. The signing was accomplished without pomp or ceremony.

CHICAGO.—In a series of city-wide raids directed by Chief of Police John J. Garrity nearly 600 gunmen, burglars, highwaymen, thieves, and others were rounded up. Two men were killed by police during the drive. They were John Chuckalowski, known as "Chuck," and Frank Prate.

CHICAGO.—William Jennings Bryan came to Chicago and established the entente cordiale with Roger Sullivan and other Illinois Democrats whom he read out of the party in 1906. He let it be known that he has no intention of becoming an "active" candidate for the presidential nomination next year.

A PROPOSITION.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The administration seemingly having arrived at a financial impasse and the public being extremely critical of the whole situation, why not put the shoe on the other foot and see what will happen?

Let the public adopt the police department, the fire department, or the public school system, finance it by popular subscription, take it out of politics, administer it by a board of commissioners, plan a five year program, and make it the best in the world.

Public subscription for general financing would be prosaic, while specializing in one department would be entrancing. Leaders in civic movements, successful business men, and a small element with political experience would make up a governing body that could function successfully and public pride and interest would make it ideal.

Taxation is vexatious; the taxpayer always feels himself more or less without representation, while a movement of this kind would engender a spirit of ownership that would sparkle with push and energy. What we need is more policemen, more firemen, and more teachers—and all better paid.

AL BRUCKNER.

A RESOLUTION INDORSING.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The Club Furdek, composed of students and professional men of Slovak descent, discussed the series of articles written by Mr. Robert Sage in THE TRIBUNE on Czecho-Slovakia and its present day problems at the regular monthly meeting.

After thorough discussion of these articles the president and the undersigned committee were delegated to send THE TRIBUNE this letter of appreciation. After sensing the feeling of the majority of the 50,000 Slovaks living in this city and the 1,000,000 Slovaks living in this country, it is our belief that we voice the sentiments of these people when we say that Mr. Sage has presented the subject from an unbiased standpoint, and has brought to the front the very ideas that the Slovaks have been struggling for.

Trusting that we may have the opportunity of reading more of Mr. Sage's articles in the very near future on present day Czecho-Slovakia, particularly the conditions of the Slovaks,

NOTICE TO HUNTERS.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—To those who are hunting rabbits in the neighborhood of Whipple street and Virginia avenue, near Peterson, will you please make sure of your target?

Our cat has come home for the second time with buckshot in him and as sick as he can be. He is not a prowler; he goes out only for a little while and then returns. Thank Heaven he has a home and some one to care for him.

It's a pity grown persons can't be more careful, or are they completely devoid of intelligence when carrying firearms?

It will be a case for the authorities if this continues. MISS C. K. O.

MEDIOCRITIES IN HIGH SCHOOL.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Mr. John Gallaud Grand Haven, Mich., in his article, "Freedom in the Schoolroom," has inspired my greatest sympathy. He has told the absolute truth. The Japanese delegation was quite right when they said that "your children do not learn anything."

There are many boys and girls attending our high schools who have no business there. They should be put to work, if possible. They are so immature mentally that it is an impossibility to interest them in anything. They cannot and will not be motivated. I do not believe in compulsory school attendance over fifteen years of age. There is no first class country in the world, to my knowledge, that compels secondary school attendance, outside of the many states in the United States. It simply does not work, and the vast sums of money expended to keep such pupils in school are absolutely wasted. They are taught neither the content of the curriculum nor character, and when there is a feeling among the teachers that their pupil failures will be taken into consideration in being rated by their principals—who are no better teachers themselves—there inevitably results very mediocre and often poor scholarship.

I believe I am fairly well conversant with most of the material written by theoretical professors on secondary school teaching; yet there are from sixty to eighty per cent of failures in first class universities today. If the college professor cannot motivate the boy at twenty, who is practically mature mentally, how can the high school teacher do it at fifteen?

Dr. William McDougall states that the main bulk of the American population is below C plus; that the army tests indicate that about seventy-five per cent of the population has not sufficient innate capacity for intellectual development to enable it to complete the usual high school course. Is America safe for democracy?

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER.

EDUCATIONAL FADS.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 5.—I suppose it is presumptuous for any one from one of the "backward" states to dare express an opinion on educational methods, but as a teacher of more than ten years' experience I wish to express my appreciation of John Galland's "Freedom in the Schoolroom," which appeared in Sunday's issue.

The only saving aspect of the situation is that a great many teachers have common sense enough to carry these foolish fads in education only far enough to pass muster during the visits of the supervisor who is advocating them, and, like Br'er Rabbit, "lay low and say nothin'" about the rest of the time.

Thank the Lord, I teach in the benighted south, where supervisors are not so numerous but what we can teach without much interference. However, I received my normal training in northern schools, not because of your superior schools but because of your superior summer climate. Here I met young teachers who were thoroughly confused by results obtained after having tried to carry out such theories as Mr. Galland complained of. VIRGINIA COPES.

CUSTOM BUILT

By SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Jones who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and with John Andrew at the wheel have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,890. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an inspiration without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated Studio where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans, and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

CAR FOR SALE.

John Andrew paused until the waiter had set fresh plates, cups [with shields in yellow and red blazoned on the china], rolls and sweet butter before them. "I'll not fool you any more, Anne. Now, while you're eating all the nice hot soup, I'm going to tell you the story of a young man, who ——"

"Only promise me one thing," Anne asked fervently. "Please, dear, don't try to be something you aren't."

"I'll do the best I can."

They were both silent, John Andrew stopped from his notion of explanation, Anne because she was thinking of a dozen things; around them the hum of voices, the odor of perfect food, and, at intervals, the hiss-twang-boom of the orchestra.

"There is one thing I want to ask," said the girl [and John Andrew shivered], "do you think Mr. Armstrong, the director, will let me have a day off next week, when we . . . are married?"

Kellogg, recalling Carey's conversation about Anne's future, and the actor's fears for it, said only, "Be temper'mental. Get an attack of nerves."

"When I think about things I'm almost that way without making it up."

"You didn't feel that way when we are drivin' around."

"That's the strange part of it. When you've got your arms around me I don't think at all. Sit down, John Andrew!"

"Don't see how I came to order so much food," grumbled Kellogg. "If I used some sense, we'd be out of here by now. And then ——"

"I didn't say we were not interested if the price is not too high."

Anne smiled at him; pain, happiness, tenderness, misery, were all in her

And at the next table: "He looks, this John Andrew, dark enough to be of Spanish descent, doesn't he? There're a lot of dark people here. Maybe they like so much pepper—every one told us to be sure to eat here if we wanted Spanish cooking—but I'd rather have good American cooking." [The kids were French and Swiss, the menu polyglot.] "I don't see how bootleggers can eat nothing but tamales and red pepper. Going to eat at a factory lunch tomorrow."

But the Spanish room served its purpose. Every guest was given either a small black fan [made in Japan] or a package of brown paperrd cigarets [made in Porto Rico] and left happily enough. So, when the dinner was over, did John Andrew and Anne, both of whom [like conquistadores and the other argonauts] had—each in a different way—come to make their fortune.

It was Anne who said, "I'll telephone you, but you mustn't see me until next week," although John Andrew, difficult as it would have been, was going to propose the same thing. Otherwise, he would need excuses, need to explain what had happened to the Mercury, which, in the morning—Friday—must be sold.

"It's a dream of a car," Anne said, as the custom built roadster leaped out after being stopped by a red light. "I know we can't afford it, but ——"

The telephone book showed a Mercury airdrome, Mercury bakery, Mercury cafeteria, Mercury pharmacy, but no Mercury motors; Kellogg finally headed toward the automobile district, after asking where it was located, intending to go to one of the finer salesroom, where high priced cars were sold, and there turn the custom built roadster into what he needed. With practically all of his troubles behind him, John Andrew was brilliant; he was already, in mind, wording the telegram he would send to Craig; he wished he might see the old attorney's face when the message arrived. He had been shaved carefully; his cravat was knotted to his taste; his coffee had been perfect, and the day was going to be the same. John Andrew almost had bought a flower for his buttonhole.

The day's business was [a] sell the Mercury, [b] wire $500 to San Francisco, [c] pay the hotel bill, and [d] wait for the answer to his telegraphed acquiescence to Blake's demand, after which ——

"You're the cream in my coffee," John Andrew whistled as he stopped the jade green machine before a neo-Castilian automobile showroom.

He had slept well; the world was about to be completely his oyster, and he was well known to have an excellent appetite. If Anne's voice didn't register properly, she would be tremendously downcast, but John Andrew believed that there would be enough of a shock and surprise coming to her that she'd forget all about sound pictures, and about her disappointment. "I'll keep her so busy that she won't have time to be unhappy," thought John Andrew. What, however, if her voice, through some magic of the engineering staff, did manage to be correctly recorded? John Andrew wondered if he would be justified in asking Fitzgerald, who was a decent chap, not to work too hard on the problem; this idea he dismissed before it was fully conceived. Not fair to Anne.

Considering the perplexities which had already been Kellogg's, he gave little thought to this one. Luck, his luck, had changed. There had been loans. More, he had been repaid a loan!

He strode into the automobile showroom much the same John Andrew who hailed his friends in New York hotels, head up [although it had never been down far], well groomed, completely assured.

It took considerable explanation before he was able to convince the first salesman that he neither wanted to buy a car, nor to turn in his Mercury for the sort sold here—the Mercury [the salesman said] was fast enough, but would it stand up? And could you get parts for it anywhere? And was it all made in the same factory? And did it have a non-shattering windshield, and where was its resale value?

Here John Andrew stopped him, saying that he trusted that the resale value was fairly high, as he wanted to sell the roadster, outright. Rather doubtfully, the salesman directed him to one of the assistant managers.

"Why don't you turn it in on a Bradstreet?" the assistant manager asked John Andrew. "We can give you a good allowance and——"

"I want to sell the car," said Kellogg briefly. "If you can't see your way clear to make me an offer, who would you suggest?"

"We aren't in the used car trade."

"I realize that. But the Mercury's less than a week old, and, frankly, I expect you to offer me an amount which will allow you to make a profit on selling it."

"Less than a week old? You didn't buy it here?"

"If I had," said Kellogg, "I'd have gone to the agency I bought it from, but there isn't a Mercury place in Los Angeles. I bought it in San Francisco."

"Less than a week ago? And drove down?"

"That's right," said John Andrew. "And I want to sell it—now—this morning." He felt the snappy business man, who could even sell corner lots. "How about it?"

"How much did you pay for it?"

"Forty-nine hundred and eighty," Kellogg told him.

"The usual price of a Mercury?"

"This is a custom built job. You ought to find some movie star who'll want it from you. The car's in perfect condition; I wouldn't sell it, but I am going to do so."

"Might I ask—this is unusual, you know—why you are so anxious to sell it?"

"Yes," said John Andrew, "you can ask, but I'm afraid I don't see any reason for telling you."

A pause, and then the automobile man said, "Naturally, if you don't care to say—I suppose the car is registered in your name?"

"And paid for. According to the Mercury people in San Francisco, I own it. In other words, it belongs to me. Now, if you aren't interested, I might be?"

"I didn't say we were not interested. If the price is not too high—what would you say to—two thousand, even?"

Good Morning!

You've been hearing a lot about "Hallelujah" lately, haven't you? Well, the film's right here in town now where you can take a look at it. I would, too, if I were you.

The picture, with its all-Negro cast, is one of the important productions of the day. It is original unto itself, imitative of nothing. Detailing as it does the life of the southern Negro, it has drama, swing, rhythm, gayety and a brooding tragic note that are all its own. It is realism presented by a southerner who knows his subject and also his theater and his camera. The man? Mr. King Vidor, who produced "The Big Parade" and "The Crowd," which was not so good, and whose "Hallelujah" establishes him as a master director.

For ten years Mr. Vidor yearned to make such a picture. For three years he has been wistfully woofing at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to let him. The company, leary as to the reception of an all-Negro film, at last capitulated. Production was started with the victor joyously shouldering part of the financial responsibility and, I am told, directing free of charge.

One great beauty of this piece, as I see it, lies in the fact that it is offensive to no one. The Negro stays strictly on his own stamping ground and his activities are entirely indigenous to the black race, while they have been chronicled with an understanding and sympathy that make "Hallelujah" as engrossing and stingless for him as for his white brother. An achievement!

The story starts in the cotton fields, where you meet a happy colored family, Mammy, Pappy [a preacher], Zeke, the oldest son, several younger ones and Missy Rose, who is expected to marry Zeke.

Zeke goes to town to sell his cotton and falls into the hands of a high brown siren who loves him and sees to it that her paramour, Hot Shot, loots him. In a fray that follows, Zeke's brother is killed.

Repentance wafts the fine-looking Zeke into the ministry, where he is enormously successful until Chick again crosses his path. She gets religion too, and becomes ten times more dangerous than she was before. Finally, with an agonized backward look at heaven, Zeke starts for hell with long strides. The picture ends where it began, in the cotton fields, where a prodigal son, newly arrived from the rock pile, is welcomed again unto his own.

Memorable incidents are a funeral, a wedding, a baptism, jubilees with their attendant hysteria. A sight never to be forgotten is that of the Prophet Zeke, robed in flowing white, riding upon a mule. He is preceded by a cloud of solemn-faced pickaninnies singing "It's a Great Day" in about eight different keys, white from among the horrified devout by the wayside comes the shrill, gibing voice of Chick, spilling the beans, being egged on by Hot Shot to tell all she knows, which is plenty. An episode of interest occurs when the holy brother on the mule gets tired of hearing the voice that once had charmed him.

The cast, hand-picked with fastidious care by Mr. Vidor, is a dandy. Sets and scenery are picturesque and beautifully lighted and photographed. The singing alone is worth the price of admission. "The End of the Road" and "Swanee Shuffle" were written by Irving Berlin.

It seemed to me that entirely too much footage was given a certain pursuit through a swamp—but this is my only criticism of "Hallelujah," which is a work of art, and if it isn't art, why, then, I think it is just the same.

See you tomorrow!

PURPLE, RED SHOES NEW FASHIONS FOR WOMEN, TANNERS SAY

Lighter shoes for women in shades of antique purple, navy blue, beige clair, hampton blue, conida red and lip stick red were decreed yesterday by the Calf Tanners' association at its meeting at the Hotel Sherman. The tanners announced that glace calf, recently perfected, has enabled the manufacturers to reduce the weight of the average street shoe from ten ounces to eight ounces, about one-third the weight of the average man's shoe.

Hospital Care Given to Florence Crane Brings New Building

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Nearly two years ago, when Miss Florence Crane of Chicago, daughter of the president of the Crane company, was a first year student at Miss Porter's school in Farmington, she was stricken with mastoiditis in a serious form and removed immediately to the Hartford hospital. For nearly eight weeks she was a patient there, convalescing from the operation. The excellent care she received was rewarded directly today.

Miss Crane, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., dedicated the new $300,000 Florence Crane building, a unit added to the hospital exclusively for treatment of eye, ear, nose and throat cases.

Its furnishings, in soft colors, were selected by Mrs. Crane. At the dedication this afternoon one of the guests was Dr. William Holland Wilmer, head of the Wilmer Ophthalmological institute of Johns Hopkins university, an eye specialist.

Freiburg Version of 'Passion Play' Likely to Be Given Here

Plans for presenting in Chicago next May "The Passion Play" by the Freiburg Players, as given in Freiburg for the last 170 years, were discussed yesterday. Representatives from various organizations had luncheon at the Congress hotel. The players, it is planned, will give a series of 30 performances over a period of fifteen days, probably in the Chicago Stadium.

Proceeds of the performances are to be applied on the building fund of the General Foot hospital which is seeking $800,000. The initial meeting was called by Dr. Frank Furch, chairman of the board of directors of the hospital.

Parochial Pupils Will Learn to Write for the Blind

Miss Madeleine Loomis, volunteer director of Braille for the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, arrived in Chicago yesterday to conduct a two weeks' course in writing Braille among twenty parochial high schools. Each school has agreed to organize a group of students to learn to write Braille under the direction of the Red Cross so that current fiction and other literature suitable for boys and girls of high school age could be transcribed and distributed among the public libraries and schools for the blind. Providence High school, with a class of fifty, was the first group to receive preparatory instruction this week.

Iturbi Soloist; Stock Is Given Honor Fanfare

Gala Night at the Opera Thrills Visitors.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Jose Iturbi, soloist yesterday afternoon with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is due to go quite a distance in his specialty as professional pianist. He has all the accomplishments and developments that a first class pianist should have, the fine tone—a little finer in his case than in that of a good many others — technique that makes light of any obstacle, great good sense in matters musical, and in addition a distinctive personality of his own that makes all the other qualities worth while.

In fact he is so excellent a performer that one almost doubts the wisdom of his making his first appearance as soloist with the orchestra in Beethoven's concerto in G major. Not that this, Beethoven's fourth, is not one of the great concertos of the world. It is. The trouble is that its qualities have always put it into the repertoires of all the famous pianists, and for Mr. Iturbi to use it on this occasion becomes something akin to La Argentina making her debut in a Russian ballet.

Suppose that he, a distinctive Spanish pianist, had appeared in a distinctive Spanish work for piano and orchestra. There are such in the world. There is reason to believe that such an event would have been decidedly colorful, instead of being just another fine performance of a fine work.

Mr. Stock got what appeared to be a complete surprise at the beginning of the concert. This is the week which marks his twenty-fifth anniversary as conductor. So when he appeared at the front of the stage the orchestra suddenly rose and the brass section gave vent to a vociferous fanfare in his direction. The audience rose and cheered, too, while Mr. Stock, modestly blushing, bowed and bowed again and tried to wave them into their seats. Then the concert began, and with a little extra urge of enthusiasm in the playing.

It began with Busoni's "Comedy Overture," continued with Brahms' Third Symphony, and finally went into the "Háry János" suite by Zoltán Kodály. Hungarian pronunciations are not guaranteed by this department, but there was at least one in the audience who was deeply grateful for having the chance to hear this work again. It is one of the most sprightly and entertaining novelties of recent seasons. Here is a composer not disposed to annoy his soul by thinking about solemn things.

Last night's opera performance had as guests about 800 delegates of the Civic Music Associations of America.

The program was of the kind usually termed gala, which means that individual acts from four different operas were presented with four different casts from the forces of the Civic Opera company. The Triumph scene from "Aïda" began the evening, sung by Eva Turner, Cyrena Van Gordon, Charles Marshall, Giacomo Rimini, Chase Baromeo and Virgilio Lazzari, conducted by Giorgio Polacco, and augmented by the opera's elaborate ballet, the stage band, the host of supernumeraries, and the rest of the pomp and circumstance of this scene.

Then came the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." Here Hallie Stiles was to have sung Juliet to the Romeo of Charles Hackett, but illness intervened and her part was taken at short notice by Hilda Burke. Emil Cooper conducted.

The garden scene from "Rigoletto" came next, with Cesare Formichi in the name part, Margherita Salvi as Gilda, Giovanni Manuritta as the duke, Constance Eberhart as Giovanna, Mr. Lazzari as Sparafucile, and Frank St. Leger at the baton.

The two scenes of the fourth act of "Il Trovatore" concluded the program. The cast included Claudia Muzio, Miss Van Gordon, Antonio Cortis, and Giovanni Inghilleri, with Mr. Polacco again conducting. Thus a good part of the opera company's leading singers appeared on one bill. Incidentally there was more applause than there had been any night this season. It sounded rather good, particularly as the artists were disposed to give excellent performances, no better, however, than has frequently been the case on previous occasions. But this time the audience was more responsive.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. N. Allen, 7331 Wabash avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should our aldermen spend $35,000 of public money for the upkeep of their automobiles?

The Answers.

Robert Perlman, 3854 Gladys avenue, salesman—The aldermen are not entitled to that money at this time. The money could be applied to the city's educational program. Money is badly needed for the upkeep of the public schools. The school teachers are worrying about their next pay check; playground instructors are laid off.

Mrs. Anna Rovell, 4538 North Racine avenue, widow—I say No." Our aldermen should consider themselves lucky to get their pay checks regularly. They seem to be reinstating police and firemen—that's not a surprise. But how about the reduction of the number of milk inspectors?—that's something that hits the city's health.

Louis E. Katz, 6038 North Mozart street, retired — The money could be used to better advantage for many another purpose. I noticed the statement that some aldermen are not collecting this money. That's admirable of them. If it is a sacrifice on their part the city should appreciate it. The city is in hard straights financially.

Mme. Zudella, 917 North State street, psychoanalyst—In order for an alderman to do the amount of good to the city that is expected of him it is necessary that he use a car. Aldermen should be reimbursed to a reasonable extent for expenditures resulting from the use of their cars. An alderman's duty is important.

John M. Anderson, 5834 South May street, electrician—Not to the tune of $35,000. For some especially heavy expense, yes. But the city can apply the most of these thousands of dollars to better public benefit. For instance, all pay checks to city employés ought to be paid on the date they are due.

Mme. Schumann-Heink Here for Dinner in Frederick Stock Honor

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, world famous singer, forsook the mild climate of her California home for Chicago's snowy streets to attend two events today and tomorrow. At noon today she will be the guest of Miss Dema Harshbarger at the luncheon of the Civic Music association at the Palmer house. Tomorrow night she will attend the dinner given by the Bohemians for Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

"It is lovely to be in Chicago again," she said yesterday as she took possession of a suite in the Auditorium hotel. "You know, California is all right, but Chicago I feel is home. I sang first in Chicago in the old Auditorium, as Ortrud in Lohengrin, in November, 1898. I love the old Auditorium.

"After I pay my respects tomorrow to Conductor Stock, then I go to see my great grandson who is also my godson. Do I look like a great grandmother? No—no! I look like I did twenty-five years ago. Anyway I go to see my daughter's baby. His father is Capt. Ferdinand Hirzy at Stevens Point, Wis., and he is eight months old and I have not seen him. Now you know all my secrets."

Hutchins and Wife to Be Guests of Rockefeller Jr.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Hutchins will leave Chicago on Wednesday for New York to spend the week-end as the guests of John D. Rockefeller Jr. at his New York home. They will return to Chicago on Jan. 20. On Thursday President Hutchins will address the Bible class of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Mr. Rockefeller is a member, following a banquet at the Commodore hotel. On Friday he will celebrate his 31st birthday anniversary.

Romans Finish Fetes to Honor Royal Wedding

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 10.—Marie-José and her prince will say "Alone at last" tomorrow morning in the special train which will take them away from Rome and its week of festivities, to the Racconigi castle, their wedding present from King Victor. There they will spend a week long honeymoon and then go on to Turin to occupy the palace there, which Prince Humbert has always made his home.

The final spectacle for the bridal couple was given tonight in the form of a gala performance at the Royal Opera house where the comic opera, "Don Pasquale," was performed.

The prince and princess left the theater early to go to the station to bid good-by to Marie-José's parents, the king and queen of Belgium, who are returning to Brussels tonight. The members of the government, the diplomatic corps, and the royal princes still in Rome, attended tonight's performance.

Early this morning 6,000 Roman school children, carrying flowers, paraded before the prince and princess at the Villa Borghese. As the children passed they raised their arms in the Fascist salute and threw flowers at the princess.

Later in the afternoon, under a drizzling rain, the first bad weather during the nuptial week, a parade of 10,000 Fascist civil authorities and black shirts defiled before the prince and his bride and the Italian and Belgian sovereigns in front of the Quirinal. Four thousand podestas and prefects of provinces headed by Secretary Augusto Turati of the Fascist party, took part in the parade which rounded out the week's pageantry. At the same time Italian aviators staged an aerial showing, writing the couples initials in the sky with smoke.

Europe is hailing Marie-José's wedding as a symbol of revived world interest in kings and royalty, pointing out that the event has provided monarchy with floods of good publicity.

The curtain on the festivities will be rung down tonight on Rome's nightly electric paradise, and every one will go back to work Monday morning, if the disrupted transportation system of the city, due to the abandonment of street cars and the substitutions of motor busses, can be made to function. All economic activities in Rome have practically been suspended since Jan. 1.

Belgo-Italian Service Here.

The Italian and Belgian consuls and their staffs will attend a service Sunday at the Belgian church, St. John Berchmans, Logan boulevard and North Maplewood avenue. The service will be in honor of the marriage Wednesday of Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy. Solemn high mass will be sung and "Te Deum Laudamus" offered in thanksgiving.

At a reception honoring Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general, following in the parish house, Armand J. Van Thielen, captain of the military intelligence reserve and secretary of the Belgian consulate in Chicago, will be presented the cross of Knight of the Order of Leopold II., by Dr. C. Vermeren, Belgian consul. The award is in recognition of his services during the world war as secretary of the Belgian consulate. Mr. Thielen is said to have been the first Belgian volunteer in the American army at the French front.

Tennessee Anderson's Fine Sculpture Now Is on Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There appeared a story yesterday in the press which it gives me the greatest pleasure to refute. The story suggested ill feeling between the No-Jury Society of Artists and the Chicago Society of Artists and stated that there was some argument concerning the exhibiting of sculpture by Tennessee Mitchell Anderson. There is not a scrap of truth in the report.

Yesterday I found Emile J. Grumieaux, president of the Chicago Society of Artists, and V. M. S. Hannell, president of the Chicago No-Jury society, hanging the no-jury show, which opens today at 211 West Wacker drive, and both men wer eager to deny the story.

The No-Jury exhibition this year is a fascinating puzzle. There are conservative paintings and modern paintings, some in each class good, and others weak. The division of sculpture is small but very fine, looked at in the light of the group of beautifully modeled figures by Tennessee Anderson, who lately met her tragic death. Tud Kempf keeps alive the flame of his humor with a capital portrait, "The Academician," a symbolic foot, heavy, chained to a ball.

Weisenborn shatters whatever calm may have been induced by the charm of the paintings by Mrs. Hannell (two lovely paintings) and the gorgeously honest, generously handled "Sun Flowers," by Minne Harms Neebe, with two figure studies, the one a portrait of a man and the other a nude female figure seated. He attacks and snorts defiance in each angle and violent color. Emil Arnim is clever and picturesque with the portrait, "Neighbors," and his "The Village" is decorative, high keyed and amusing.

"Creation," by Helen West Heller, is a weird and ghastly conception, sending thrills shooting down a sensitive spine. "Crooked Path" and "Three Trees," by Emile Grumieaux are as stirring as a roll of drums. The artist here has engaged himself chiefly with form and movement and with color only as far as values are concerned. "Morning," by Gilbert Rocke, is a prize canvas, were there prizes to be awarded. It shows a thin and naked maiden milking a thin cow while thin hens and thin kittens and a general air of unclothed distress sits around on the picture forcing every one's attention and every one's sympathy to work overtime concealing uncalled for mirth.

Fred Biesel shows a stunning "Dancer"; Frances Strain a vivid "In Gypsy Dress"; George Josimovich submits a magnificent nude, "Resting"; Felix Russman offers a beautiful canvas in "Autumn Labors." Among the other artists are Bella Hermont Schnee, A. S. Baylinson, Ethel Louise Padock, Rowena C. Lung, Macena Barton, A. H. Haugseth, and Agnes Schaeffer. The exhibition will continue through Jan. 25.

Secret of a Lovely Skin Often Lies in the Daily Diet

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

On the subject of complexions, by which we have come to mean not the color tone of the skin so much as the texture of it, a learned specialist opines after years and years of experience, that there is rarely to be found a perfectly normal skin. Too much oil or not enough is the usual cry.

The dry skinned have to depend on creams and greases to make up the deficit in their oil glands. The oily skinned must keep their fat excess cleaned down with soaps and alcoholic lotions, or as this authority, already referred to, says, "They may even have to dry clean themselves with benzine or ether."

As first step toward correcting excessive skin oiliness you have to go back to your diet. I know it is boring to talk diet when what every woman hopes for is some magic lotion by which her beauty troubles, no matter what they are, may be gotten rid of over night. But there is nothing more magic than the food we take into our system, if it is the proper kind. The minimum of fats and fatty foods is all that is allowed the person with oily skin. Cream had better be substituted with milk; fried foods eliminated entirely; oils eliminated from salad dressings. Simply stick to plain fare until your skin shows improvement.

Then faulty bowel action is often responsible for this skin ailment. It must be cleared up. And sunlight is recognized universally by skin specialists as a particularly glorious boon to the oily skinned. If you can't get a tanning right now, make up your mind you will get it next summer.

In the meantime, there are good lotions on the market for oily skins. Use one of them religiously. And make use frequently of astringents. Add a few drops of benzoin to the last cold rinsing water. Wipe your face frequently during the day with witch hazel. Don't use creams for cleansing purposes. There are specially prepared cleansing lotions for this type of skin that may be used, but the thing to avoid is adding grease to a skin already surcharged with it.

A facial mask treatment once a week is good. White of egg applied after the face is washed thoroughly with soap and water, may be left to dry on, removed and then the face wiped with astringent. Or a mask may be made with Fuller's earth to which witch hazel and a couple of drops of benzoin are added to make a paste which is another good mask for oily skin.

Women Urged to Seek Skyscraper Era Plants

Pointing to the depleted and dying vegetation in Chicago's congested areas, and that these changing conditions called for new types of parks and gardens, James H. Burdett, director of the national garden bureau, told the Women's Chicago Beautiful association meeting in Channing hall, People's church, yesterday that Chicagoans must find plant materials which will endure the conditions found in its "skyscraper environment."

Flu Germ Eludes Doctors Still, Says Dr. Frank Billings

"If all peoples were intelligent enough and knew the truth, if there were no politicians and the money was available, there would today be no smallpox, no diphtheria, no typhoid and similar diseases in the world, because people would know how to live to prevent them," Dr. Frank Billings yesterday told the students at the Chicago Latin School for Boys. His talk, one of a series to acquaint the boys with various professions and lines of business, as an aid to choice of a vocation, stressed the value of preventive medicine.

"We have not yet," he added, "found the cause of influenza, of pneumonia and other diseases, but we're on the track, and probably by the time you boys are grown, you and your families will not suffer with influenza. In the fifty years of my own practice—I began the study of medicine in 1876—medicine has entirely changed. It is now based solidly on the sciences, and I have lived to see the life expectation of the average man raised from 37 years to 58. Every doctor who really is interested in medicine, is interested in preventive medicine, which has done more for the world in the last fifty years than any other one thing."

BEBE DANIELS in "LOVE COMES ALONG"

Radio PICTURES

Take "L", street cars, or be a thinking fellow and grab a taxi. Make straight for the Woods and you'll find out in the fast moving humor photoplay newly... opened there, some snappy lines and situations will double your enjoyment... As for black-eyed Bebe, she is gorgeous all the way through this and a darn clever actress...Sparkling dialogue helps Bebe and the other characters... The perfectly ripping ditty called "Love Comes Along" remains with you after you bustle into Randolph Street, etc.

YOU LOVED BEBE'S VOICE in "RIO RITA"

What impresarios dream of discovering in a star, what directors pray for, and the public raves about Bebe delivers in this song triumph with LLOYD HUGHES.

Jean Purcell, J. W. Valentine are Engaged

BY THALIA

The old superstition about "catching the bride's bouquet" is being proved out in one current romance. When the former Betty Borden cast her lovely spray of lilies of the valley into the arms of her attendants, there were three catchers, and one of them is likely to be the next bride.

At least, her engagement is coming to light first. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daniel Purcell of 1320 North State street are announcing the engagement of their daughter Jean to John Wadsworth Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine of 1322 Ritchie court. Miss Purcell was one of Betty Borden's bridesmaids, and she, Eleanor McCormick, and Laura Sprague were the recipients of the bouquet.

Miss Borden and Beatrice Clow, whose marriage to Lloyd A. Laflin took place a week ago, were the first of the group of last year's debutantes to marry, and Jean is the third of the group that includes Bertha Palmer, Barbara King, Dorothy Ranney, Miss Sprague, and Miss McCormick, to become engaged. Since her debut, she has proved to be an able and popular worker in the Service club and Junior league activities. Her dance was graduated from Harvard last spring, and there are as yet no plans for the wedding.

The Huntington Henrys are to give a large dinner dance at the Casino for many of the same crowd who were to make merry late last night at the Twelfth Night ball.

The Needlework and Textile guild announces an informal talk this morning by Miss Mynors of the Royal School of Needlework, London, on "Stitches Useful in Embroidery."

Warren Wright Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright of 209 Lake Shore drive, is to have a birthday party this afternoon at the Lake Shore Drive hotel to celebrate his 10th birthday. There will be vaudeville performers to entertain the birthday child and about 50 of his contemporaries who are asked to the party.

The Romany club, which has been "dark" as far as theatricals are concerned this last fall, is having a program this evening of two one-act plays, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's "The Desk of Simeon Dark," and "Making Rosie a Cook," by Mrs. Franklin Miller.

Mrs. Doris Russell Barnitz and Robert M. Curtis are to be married at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Barnitz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Russell of 1444 Astor street. Only members of the immediate family of the bride and groom are to be present, and there will be no reception following the service.

Miss Herma N. Clark is to give her talk on "When Illinois Was Young," under the auspices of a group of prominent matrons, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Cordon. The women who are interested include Mrs. Charles Adding, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. Henry A. Blair, Mrs William McCormick Blair, Mrs. John J. Borland, Miss Helen Drake, Mrs. Abby Farwell Ferry, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Solomon A. Smith, and Mrs. W. Ernest Walker.

Walter H. Wilson of 202 Lake Shore drive is taking a family party with him when he leaves today for St. Augustine. Miss Irene Wilson, Mrs. Lawrence O. Wilson of Lake Forest and Walter O. Wilson of Winnetka are accompanying him.

Mrs. Bertram Sippy of 5615 Woodlawn avenue has visiting her her daughter, Mrs. T. Clemen Hill. Mrs. Hill was Miss Maude Sippy before her marriage last June. She and Dr. Hill are residing in Louisville, Ky.

Miss Winifred Smith, daughter of Walter B. Smith, leaves on Jan. 22 for a session of visits in the east. First, she will go to New York City, and later to Pinehurst, N. C.

Chicagoans sailing yesterday on the S. S. Duchess of Bedford for a West Indies cruise that includes stops at Bermuda, Porto Rico, South America, Panama, Jamaica, Haiti, Cuba, and Nassau, include Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hurlbut of Evanston.

New Chinese Secretary of State Visiting Here

Frank W. Lee, new Chinese secretary of state, was the principal guest last night at a banquet given by the Chinese National league at 2110 Wentworth avenue. Lee arrived in Chicago from Washington yesterday with his family on his way to China to assume the secretaryship.

He was welcomed by a committee of more than 100 Chinese business men, headed by Willie Lee, mayor of Chinatown, who is a cousin of the secretary. He will remain in Chicago for several days as the guest of the Chinese National league.

Until recently Mr. Lee was minister to Mexico from China. He has been in Washington conferring with officials of the United States department of state and the Chinese minister.

The Chicago Society of Romance Language Teachers is to have a luncheon at the Palmer house today, Miss Dorothy Miller is chairman of the arrangements.

Society Plays This Is Time of Cleopatra

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

Society played at being characters of the era of Cleopatra at the Twelfth Night ball last night. Gaudy regalia of every hue and material disguised Chicago's fashionables to dance and make merry in a setting created to simulate an epoch some 2,000 years ago.

The lobby of the new Michigan Square building at Ohio street and Michigan avenue was converted into a scene of sumptuous revelry for the occasion. Midnight blue background drapes obscured the businesslike aspects of the building, and streamers of vermilion sateen and gold cloth enhanced the festive Alexandrian spirit.

A throne with two Sphinxes was piled high with gold cushions at one side of the semi-circular lobby, and opposite were primitive arrangements of meats and vegetables backed with peacocks. Thin clouds of steam gave the appearance of incense issuing from golden bowls on tall gold standards.

There were garlands of gold leaves hung between the tall pillars of the hall. Cerise side lights and colored spots were placed at strategic intervals to play over the colorful throng as it danced and made merry. Supper tables were laid on various balconies and the musicians were garbed in vermilion blouses and Egyptian headgear.

Among the first to arrive at the party, which began close on to midnight, were the Joseph T. Ryersons. Mrs. Ryerson wore a flowing costume of gold cloth veiled with tangerine chiffon and Mr. Ryerson was an Antony or a Cæsar with a scarlet tunic, white cape, and wreath of gold leaves.

Miss Betty Scriven as the Goddess Isis; Margaret James in pink silk and gold cloth Egyptian frock, with many serpentine gracelets, and Miss Isabel Greenlee in a green wig, vari-colored robe, and red sandals, arrived together. Mrs. Alex Kirk in a Grecian robe with an elaborate Psyche coiffure, and Mrs. Charles F. Clarke in a silver spangled Egyptian dancer costume and headdress were other early arrivals.

There were other Cleopatras, Mark Antonys, Cæsars, Roman centurions, Greek philosophers, Egyptian whatnots, etc.

Among such impersonators were Mrs. J. Russell Forgan in blue chiffon pantaloons and gold headdress; Mrs. John W. Root, in dark green taffeta with a typical gold headdress; Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, who ignored the costume regulations and wore red shorts, a white blouse, and a small red, beplumed tam; Miss Angela Johnston, as a Roman lady, with a gold wig and flowing peach colored robe.

Still others were: Mrs. James B. Forgan, in gold trouserettes and green batik blouse; Mrs. Ronald Boardman, as a Grecian damsel; Mrs. Boyd Hill, in blue and silver; Richard Henry Little, as the mummy of Rameses III., and Mrs. Little, in green and gold Egyptian costume; Mrs. Harold Strotz, as another Goddess Isis, in crimson bejeweled outfit, with a jeweled headdress.

There also were: Mrs. Carl Stibolt, who had given a dinner dance before, in gold cloth; Mrs. Walter Wolf, in a brilliantly striped satin garment; Mrs. Stuart Templeton, in red chiffon pantalettes and blouse; and Mrs. Thomas Wheelock, in green and gold. Her husband appeared as a slave driver, wearing a leopard skin and carrying a big leather whip. Mrs. Arthur Burrows was dressed as a powder puff (not Egyptian).

Others who attended the annual affair given by the Twelve Knights included Mr. and Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Covington, the Hibbard Casselberrys, the William E. Casselberrys Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ferguson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mead, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Loring Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Max McGraw of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Maxine Ruth, to Donald Stearns Elrod, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Elrod of Kansas City, Mo. Miss McGraw was graduated from National Park seminary in Washington, D. C., later attending Northwestern university. Mr. Elrod is a graduate of the University of Illinois. The wedding is to take place in the spring.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur gave a dinner tonight at the Mayflower. Among their guests were the attorney general and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, the acting secretary of the navy, Ernest Lee Jahneke, and Mrs. Jahncke, the solicitor general and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Casper Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan.

Mrs. Walter F. Brown, wife of the postmaster general, has returned from her visit to Florida, where she was called by the illness of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Harrison, III., are guests of Mr. Harrison's mother, Mrs. Russell B. Harrison, in her apartment at the Broadmoor. They motored to Washington with their two children, William Henry Harrison, IV., and Mary Beth Harrison, from their home in Indianapolis. Mrs. Harrison will give a dinner and a dance tomorrow evening at the Chevy Chase club for them.

Miss Sally Lewis, daughter of the president of Lafayette college, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. William Mather Lewis, formerly of Chicago, is spending the week-end here as the guest of Miss Helen Clifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clifford, formerly of Chicago, in their Georgetown home. William Betts, fiancé of Miss Lewis, will join them tomorrow, in time for the dinner Miss Clifford will give at the Chevy Chase club tomorrow evening for them. She will have a tea for them Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dewey of Chicago and Washington are in New York. There they went to meet their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who arrived yesterday from Poland for a visit home. Charles S. Dewey, former assistant secretary of the treasury, is financial adviser to Poland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, formerly of Chicago, have sailed for a Mediterranean trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Barber of Chicago are spending a few days at the Mayflower, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Barber.

Gest's 'Miracle' Properties Attached for Organ Rental

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Writs of attachment on properties of Morris Gest's "Miracle," now showing here, were issued today on an application by Kilgen & Son, St. Louis. The St. Louis firm alleged failure to pay $1,170 rental on a pipe organ installed in Milwaukee, Wis., for production of the spectacle there. Gest left several days ago for New York.

There's More than One Method of Gaining Results

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Play Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans for mothers of pre-school children will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I wish to proffer a scheme by which I have been able to obtain substantial results in our home without the usual 'home rule word'—must!

"If, upon suggesting a task that I wish performed, I allow my 7 year old daughter time to formulate in her own mind the possibility of using a great share of her own creative ability in completing that task, the process from then on is simple.

"For example, if the front porch needs cleaning, I do not say, 'Betty, you must clean the porch this morning and don't change the furniture all around, either, as you do sometimes. Leave it just as it is.'

"Instead, I use this method: 'Betty, that front porch is a disgrace. The cover is off the swing, the chairs and table aren't arranged to suit me, and——'

"'O, mother, let me go out on the porch and close the front door and you stay away until I call you. I have an idea all my own about fixing it up.' Of course, I say 'All right.'

"In a few minutes she may come in and say, 'Mother, I don't want to sweep the porch; it's too big. I only want to straighten it and put fresh flowers out there.' This declaration is my cue for answering, 'All right, Betty; do as you like. I'm discouraged, too, trying to keep that old porch looking nice. I don't know why, but it never looks clean and comfy like Mrs. So and So's, does it? Go ahead and do whatever you think it needs most.'

"Out she goes, after which I take an occasional peek through the window. Such toiling and sweating, as she sweeps and hauls the chairs and table around at different angles, also replacing the cushions on the swing.

"The child had worked twice as long as I had expected or wanted her to before she called me to visit her out on our front porch. Why? I think because she had been her own little boss, working out a few of her personal ideas."

Pretty good, isn't it? It may not be just your method of avoiding bare and uninteresting commands—each mother uses her own device. But the principle is sound and one that could well be taken to heart by many mothers and fathers, too.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Winter or spring is the best time to apply straw mulch to the orchard, says C. L. Burkholder of the Purdue university horticultural department. He states that orchardists have found that the cheapest and most satisfactory system of handling an orchard, particularly a small one, is to keep the orchard land in sod and apply mulch around the trees.

A good mulch will conserve as much moisture as cultivation, and it adds some plant food in addition, particularly if strawy manure is used as the mulching material. It may be applied in winter or spring, the period of slack work on the farm and so releases more time for spraying and thinning operations in summer, when cultivation ordinarily is practiced.

Of the materials suitable for mulching, Mr. Burkholder names any kind of straw, strawy manure, corn stalks, and clover chaff. The mulch should be placed under the drip of the trees for the most part. On large trees, a ring eight to ten feet should be left in the center without mulch, and the mulched area should extend out beyond the edge of the branches, as most of the feeding roots of the tree will be found in this region. Where mulch is found around small trees, as a substitute for cultivation, Mr. Burkholder recommends piling up dirt about twelve inches around the trunk, to prevent mouse injury to the trunk and gnaw roots.

Once started, the practice should be followed regularly, about every other year. Under a mulch, a large number of fine roots develop near the surface of the ground, and a large portion of these will be killed out unless the mulching material is kept deep enough at all times to smother all growth of weeds and grass.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Billy's baby brother cried a great deal at night, but was usually good natured during the day. However, one day he cried so much that the family remarked about it.

"O, I know why," said Billy, speaking up suddenly. "He's rehearsing for tonight."

ALWAYS DEAD TIRED?

How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? Chances are you're poisoned by clogged bowels and inactive liver. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 30 years — Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients. They act easily upon the bowels, help tone the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up the liver.

Rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The length of your street and sports clothes date their newness, and this dress is cut the popular four inches below the knee length. Snug fitting hips, a raised waist line, and low placed skirt fullness are also essential details. Tweed in a plum shade is used for this dress, with the vestee of faille silk crêpe in a fuchsia shade. Grosgrain ribbon in a plum shade is used to bind the edge of the collar and sleeves, and also arims the belt.

The pattern, No. 3031, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 20 inch lace.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Scalloped Cod Fish.

When we have cooked a piece of salt codfish we are then ready to prepare a great number of dishes with it as a foundation. One dish will be creamed codfish, a small family portion of which may be made with one cup of the boiled and shredded fish, and one cup of white sauce, the whole to be served on slices of toast.

In making scalloped codfish we make the start just as though we were to have creamed codfish. The ingredients for a six portion serving of scalloped codfish will be one cup boiled and shredded fish, one cup white sauce, one raw egg well beaten, some fine bread crumbs, seasonings and six buttered scallop shells. Shred the codfish with the fingers or with two forks. The fingers are best because they discover the bones quickly, though these can be tossed up with a fork.

Prepare the white sauce by cooking one tablespoon of flour with one of butter and then adding one cup of milk and stirring until well cooked. Add the codfish to this and cook gently until the two are entirely blended, then add the beaten egg and after that cook gently and only until all bubbles disappear. Then fill the buttered scallop shells, sprinkle with grated crumbs and either brown in the oven or under the boiler. Serve very hot.

With the scallop shells, this preparation, and additional seasoning, we may make something like the famous "Coquilles St. Jacques." In the old days we added one teaspoon of sherry wine to the above preparation and now we may add the sherry flavor, procurable in various non-alcoholic forms. The true "Coquilles St. Jacques" consists of real scallops, and real muscles cooked in wine. In addition there may be shrimps and mushrooms.

We may rub the scallop shells with garlic and use nothing but the preparation described, or instead of the shells we can use little individual baking dishes. With this preparation the individual dish or shell is daintier.

"Demosthenes'" Idea of a Swell Time Is a Monologue Fest

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Hark ye to Demosthenes. He can't seem to meet a girl who wouldn't rather be kissed than told about the fourth dimension.

Think of that, now, in an age that boasts the high educational attainments of its women! What's the matter with you, girls? What are we sending you to college for?

What is the use of our young Demosthenes' burning up oil over theories of dimension, and relativity if they can't get a fair young ear to tell it all into? The reason our Demosthenes doesn't like to kiss a girl is, according to him, because if you once get started she wants to be kissed all the time. Five years ago the young intelligentsia decided to confine his interest in the fair sex to those individuals who seemed disinclined to petting and more excited about being intelligent than about being kissed.

He was then a senior in college and thought he had a big field from which to choose. But he found, to his amazement, that it was impossible to invite the same girl out more than five times and have her maintain interest as a conversationalist. She wanted to be kissed.

So he compromised with his system (and this is his own true story confession, remember). If the girl insisted, she was kissed, but she was never invited out again.

The last five years, as Demosthenes looks back on them now, have not yielded him the rich harvest of minds hoped for. The other harvest, it is assumed, is scant, too. Thus poor Demosthenes walks alone and talks alone. Indeed, it is a sad plight, if he isn't spoofing us all.

But we do know Demosthenes has certain little brothers whose idea of conversational evenings hits wide of the mark. They have enthusiasms for studies just as exciting to the normal girl as the fourth dimension. If the girl yawns she is dumb. He may give her another chance—that is, if the girl is not quick enough to think up another engagement to save her from an evening's boredom.

Be learned, if you must, young men. Have your serious studies, and your serious moments, too, in the course of the evening. But don't forget that the hour spent by the young lady prettying up for your evening's entry deserves a bit of appreciation, too. Lay off your Einstein theory long enough to tell her how pretty she is.

Hostess Frocks Are Delightfully Simple

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is, at this moment, making clothes for home and mother. The lady of the house may make herself a treat to the eyes in the French creations specially designed for her.

There is a dignity about the new fashions—a quality long absent—that makes them particularly charming for the hostess at home. The woman who does not wear long skirts in her own home is missing the chance of a lifetime to be in fashion and beautiful as to line and proportion at the same time. The Paris hostess frock makes a point of length of skirt line, right down to the floor, or at shortest to the instep.

It makes another point of simplicity and the kind of softness that is restful and unpretentious. Such dresses are rarely given evening decolleté, and when they are, Paris immediately covers up the arm and shoulder expanse with some sort of filmy wrap or scarf. They are appropriate for the quietest menage, and are being worn in Paris by the grandest ladies in the land.

A particularly smart and attractive home evening ensemble from Lucien Lelong is shown in the accompanying sketch. This frock and its little jacket of black chiffon are youthful enough for the young matron and not too juvenile for the older woman. Lelong proves, in this model, that the best styles are appropriate for all ages. It is a favorite belief of his, which he demonstrates by showing his clothes on heavy and slim figures, old and young, without loss of an iota of charm.

The black chiffon jacket of this indoor ensemble has elbow length sleeves with circular ruffles below, and it has a circular ruffle below the waistline. The frock beneath is a real evening dress with a simple bloused waist, a hip yoke shirred vertically to two bands at front and back, a narrow circular ruffle below that and a skirt made of wide chiffon panels gathered at the top and trailing in the back. Every point is carefully studied, so that this dress may be adapted to the greatest variety of figures and ages of women.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Son Only One at Ease.

At the dinner table there had been a heated discussion about intelligence tests, so I was not surprised when, a little later, my host asked me to read a certain poem and guess the author. He handed the book to me open at the poem mentioned. I read it aloud and said:

"That is just doggerel. Your young son, 14, writes better poetry than that!" The host turned back to the flyleaf and showed me the autograph of the author, a fellow guest at the dinner, who had been introduced earlier as a speculator in the stockyards.

UTILITY DEFENSE IS TURNED DOWN BY TRADE BOARD

Rules Out Approval of Professors' Activities.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Undertaking a general defense of public utility associations in their relations with educational institutions, B. F. Weadock, counsel for the joint committee of national utility associations, sought unsuccessfully today to enter into the federal trade commission's record resolutions of various groups approving the conduct of college professors who had been employed.

Ruling that opinions of outside bodies had no place in the commission's investigation of utility publicity methods, Commissioner McCulloch excluded a resolution of the state senate of Nebraska and another adopted by the board of trustees of the University of Alabama clearing two professors of impropriety in their employment by utility companies or associations while connected with the universities of the two states.

Relates to Code of Ethics.

A document relating to a plan of the Association of University Professors for adoption of a code of ethics to govern the relation of professors with industrial concerns was rejected on the same ground.

The hearing was continued until next Tuesday. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company and a former president of the National Electric Light association, then will take the stand as the first witness presented by the utilities.

In Pay of Utilities.

Weadock introduced a survey of public utility relations with universities made by a committee headed by C. O. Ruggles, formerly of the Ohio State university and now connected with the Harvard School of Business. Ruggles' committee had been the subject of considerable investigation and it was shown that he was in the pay of utilities.

The professors in whose behalf Weadock sought to introduce the resolution were V. L. Hollister, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Nebraska, and Dr. Thomas of the bureau of research, University of Alabama. Only a few of the 501 college professors named in the hearing, Weadock said, had been employed in other than professional capacities.

SMOOT, AT 68, DRAWS DIVIDENDS ON GOOD LIFE AND HARD WORK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Reed Smoot of Utah, dean of Republicans in the senate and indefatigable worker, celebrated his 68th birthday today with these words:

REED SMOOT. [Photograms.]

"I am drawing dividends on the life I have lived since boyhood. I've never drunk liquor in my life. I've never smoked. I've always eaten good plain food and loved work. I never was lazy and never saw a time when I didn't have plenty to do.

"I've wronged nobody. I was fortunate in marrying. My children have had a marvelous mother, a superb homemaker. Of all the blessings I have received she was the greatest."

Senator Smoot added the last with a touch of feeling. His wife, who was Alpha May Endredge, died Nov. 7, 1928.

ater raised $300. Pontiac High sent its basketball team to El Paso for a game, and $500 was added to the fund. Pontiac High staged a benefit show. Schools in neighboring towns contributed. The fund finally passed the $1,000 mark.

Operated Upon Here.

An operation was performed immediately upon the youth's arrival at the hospital here. The operation came too late to relieve the paralysis which has affected Hunt's entire body. The surgeons found that during the weeks at the Pontiac hospital the dislocated vertebra had locked, causing such great pressure on the spinal cord that death is believed certain.

The boy athlete has wasted away from 138 to 80 pounds. The buoyant spirit which marked his early confinement has vanished and his only wish now is to be taken back to Pontiac where he will be near friends. He hears from them and of them daily in the form of a news letter sent by the school commercial department. At Christmas the town folks showered him with candy and cards. A radio arrived. More than a hundred friends from El Paso and Pontiac have journeyed here to see him.

Massey Faces Inquest Today.

At the inquest this morning Massey will tell a story he believes will clear himself of blame for the death of the street car lines inspector, William Vobruba. Vobruba jumped on the truck's running board to request the driver, Fred Dergil, to get off the tracks. Dergil's companion, Cal Henderson, reached over to open the door, and as he did so, according to Massey, Vobruba either jumped or fell and the rear wheels passed over him.

Massey's explanation is that neither he nor his companions knew what Vobruba wanted or that the truck had run over him until they were overtaken and arrested.

JANITORS FIGHT OVER MISSING TOOLS; ONE SLAIN

A quarrel of two janitors over missing tools culminated last night in the death of Edmond von Glabeke, 41 years old, 3462 Jackson boulevard, in a fight with Ernest Tyson McClanahan, 42 years old, 3525 Adams street, in the areaway of an apartment building at 3509 Adams street. McClanahan confessed that he shot Von Glabeke and was held at the Fillmore police station on a charge of murder.

McClanahan said Von Glabeke approached him yesterday morning and accused him of stealing tools from a building at 3527 Adams street, where Von Glabeke was employed. McClanahan denied the theft and in the afternoon met his accuser as he was leaving the building at 3509 Adams street. He struck Von Glabeke over the head with an iron bar and then went home to get a revolver.

McClanahan said he returned to the building later and met Von Glabeke in the alley, where the latter attacked him. He asserted that when Von Glabeke grabbed him by the throat he fired two shots, both of them striking Von Glabeke in the head.

10,000 DENTISTS HERE NEXT WEEK FOR 66TH CLINIC

Ten thousand dentists from all parts of the United States and Canada will start arriving in Chicago tomorrow for the sixty-sixth annual meeting and clinic of the Chicago Dental society, which opens on Monday in the Stevens hotel. The Monday morning and Wednesday afternoon sessions will be devoted to clinics, the other sessions being given over to formal discussions of the various phases of dental practice with 242 dental and medical authorities presenting scientific programs.

A feature of the program will be the presentation of results of experiments in determining the relation of diet to dental conditions.

Dental supplies and equipment worth $1,000,000 will be on display during the three day convention. Officers in charge of the meeting are Dr. Hugo G. Fisher, president; Dr. H. W. Welch, vice president; Dr. H. C. Miller, secretary; Dr. Joseph E. Schaefer, treasurer; Dr. Stanley D. Tylman, program chairman; Dr. G. E. Cartwright, in charge of clinics; Dr. Ashley M. Hewett, general arrangements; and Dr. C. Davidson, chairman of exhibits.

MORAN AND HIS HENCHMAN SET FREE BY COURT

George [Bugs] Moran, whose north side bootleg gang was all but wiped out last year in the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven men, was dismissed yesterday in Municipal Judge Joseph Schulman's court when he was arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct and vagrancy. Leo Mongoven, his chief lieutenant, arrested with him in the lobby of the Hotel Sherman, also was freed.

"What were these men doing?" Judge Schulman asked detectives when the prisoners faced him.

"That may be," ruled the court, "but there's nothing to do but let them go."

LEAGUE 10 YEARS OLD; POINTS WITH PRIDE TO WORKS

Officials Review Chief Yearly Achievements.

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Celebrating today its tenth legal birthday, the league of nations through its officials reviewed the milestones which marked its course since it was born on Jan. 10, 1919. The league was born with 24 members. They now number 54.

In counting the achievements of the league's first decade, authorities at the secretariat regarded the following as significant and progressive steps, year by year:

1920—The assembly of the league decided to meet annually, thus recording a notable stage in the evolution of international conference.

Saves Austria from Collapse.

1923—Nearly a million and a half Greek refugees were assisted to establish themselves in Macedonia; league advocates regarded this as a piece of social reconstruction perhaps not equaled in previous world history.

1924—Attendance of two prime ministers of great powers, MacDonald and Herriot, at the assembly advanced this body's use and prestige as a meeting place of world statesmen.

1925—The league acted to put a stop to hostilities between Greece and Bulgaria, preventing another Balkan crisis and improving its own technique for effecting peaceable adjustment of disputes.

Germany Is Admitted.

1926—Germany was admitted to league membership. Thus the league became more than a conference of victorious powers.

1927—The international economic conference of this year started the movement toward freer trade and the scientific approach to commercial and economic questions.

1928—The league employed its good offices in intervening in the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay, cooperating with other agencies to bring this trouble to a happy conclusion.

1929—The principle of compulsory arbitration for settlement of differences between nations gained strength through the adhesion of almost a score of nations to the "optional clause" of the permanent international court of justice.

A. F. OF L. CONSIDERS UNEMPLOYMENT AS RAILROADS MERGE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Possibility of unemployment in the ranks of 1,600,000 transportation workers, in the event proposed railway consolidation plans are carried out, came before the council of the American Federation of Labor today.

William Green, president of the federation, said labor would seek the protection of contractual relations between railroads and employés, which might be jeopardized in the possible merger of large railway systems. He said that if legislation was necessary to consolidation plans, organized labor would oppose any move that did not fully protect the human element.

PATENT LAWYER SUED BY WIFE FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Elsie Carpenter of Bryn Athyn, Pa., yesterday brought a suit for separate maintenance in the Circuit court against her husband, Paul Carpenter, patent attorney with offices at 14 West Jackson boulevard. The bill charges that Carpenter left his wife and family in Bryn Athyn last April 27 and has refused to contribute to their support since he came to Chicago.

The Carpenters were married Oct. 10, 1906. They have four children—Philip, 22 years old, a student at the University of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Carol C. Groves, 20 years old, of Philadelphia; Nathalia, 18 years old, and Mary, 7. Mrs. Carpenter avers that she is unable to assign a reason for her husband's desertion. She fixes his annual income at $18,000 and values their Bryn Athyn home at $50,000.

SENATE FACING NEW ROW OVER COMMITTEE JOB

McMaster Demands Place Given Hastings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Senate radicals today stirred up a new row over committee assignments. Approval by a Republican conference of assignments as worked out by the committee on committees was blocked temporarily by demands that Senator W. H. McMaster [Rep., S. D.] be given a place on the interstate commerce committee, which had been assigned to Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.].

Senator George W. Norris and Senator R. B. Howell [Rep., Neb.] led the demand for the placing of Senator McMaster on this committee. They contended that the South Dakota senator was entitled to it under seniority rules.

Seniority Rule Proposed.

Senator Howell moved that the matter be referred back to the committee on committees with instructions to give the assignment to Senator McMaster. Senator L. C. Phipps [Rep., Colo.] countered with a substitute motion that the committee on committees follow seniority rules in all cases which would have the effect of barring Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] from membership on the finance committee, inasmuch as both Senator J. H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.] and Senator Guy Goff [Rep., W. Va.], who outranked him in seniority, applied for the place. No action was taken on either motion.

Compromise Possible.

It was regarded as probable that a compromise would be reached under which the radicals would accept the Hastings selection, with an understanding that Senator McMaster would be given the next vacancy which occurs on the interstate commerce committee.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST BURIAL ALIVE TAKEN AS DECREED BY WILL

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Apparently obsessed with the fear that he might be buried alive, the late Henry Solomon provided in his will for extraordinary precautions to have it determined beyond any doubt that he was dead.

This was revealed today when the will, together with a tax appraisal showing that his fortune was almost $300,00, was filed in Manhattan Surrogate's court.

Solomon, who died Dec. 18, 1928, stipulated that after his supposed death adrenalin he injected into his heart. Should that fail to revive him, he ordered that his body remain untouched and unconfined for three days, with proper guards to make sure nothing be done which might "hurt" him.

These unusual requirements were faithfully carried out.

SEEK GAS LEVY CASH FOR OGDEN AVENUE BRIDGE

Members of the Greater Ogden Avenue-Ontario Highway association, in conference yesterday at 220 South State street, made plans to ask Gov. Emmerson to set aside appropriations from state gasoline tax money to aid in two proposed public improvements. One project is to provide a bridge for Ogden avenue over the north branch of the river at Goose island. The other is the widening of Ogden avenue to a 40 foot highway from Naperville to Aurora.

H. B. Bushnell of Aurora was chosen chairman of a good roads committee, which hopes soon to confer with Gov. Emmerson in regard to the projects. State Senator Harold Kessinger and State Representative John Peffers, both of Aurora, are members of the committee.

Harry Auspitz of Chicago was elected president of the association. Other new officers are: Mayor Charles H. Green of Aurora, vice president; Frank A. Bielek, Chicago, secretary; Howard N. Yates, Aurora, executive secretary.

BRITISH BANKERS AGREE TO FINANCE INDUSTRY REVIVAL

Old Methods Out of Date; Will Be Modernized.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Government money is not a cure for unemployment. That can only be cured by revival of trade. British trade cannot be revived unless industry is reorganized, old methods and machinery scrapped, and new methods and machinery installed.

This was the keynote of a speech made to the Manchester chamber of commerce today by J. T. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister in charge of unemployment.

In every line of his speech the Socialist minister enunciated a doctrine which seemed diametrically opposed to classic socialism, and should have delighted any of the adherents of the old Manchester school of economics who happened to be listening to him.

Must Have New Methods.

Mr. Thomas emphasized the necessity of new methods. He told his hearers that he had been in conference with the great bankers and financiers of London, and that they agreed with him and were willing to go a long way in helping the industries and firms which are willing to reorganize.

Mr. Thomas also strongly deprecated the spirit of pessimism. The employment situation is bad enough in England, he said, but it is just as bad in many other countries which are not pessimistic. America, which announced after the Wall street crash that the country was as well off as ever, he said, had a minimum of 3,000,000 unemployed, against Great Britain's 1,500,000, while Germany is just as bad off, but is not despairing.

The only country without unemployment, he declared, was France, and she had adopted methods which would not be suitable to Great Britain.

"In considering the steps which may be taken to produce a better employment situation," Mr. Thomas said, "I have been told that the feeling exists that the manufacturers are handicapped in bringing about the necessary reorganization and reëquipment by the fact that the long continued trade depression has pushed them to limits of credit which they cannot reasonably expect from bankers, or which bankers be reasonably expected to provide.

"As a result of these discussions I am in a position to state that the London bankers are deeply interested in putting industry on a broad and sound basis, and are ready to support any plans which, in their opinion, will lead to this end.

Willing to Extend Aid.

"The London financiers who have been studying the matter are convinced that a number of our important industries might be fundamentally reorganized and modernized in order to produce at prices which will enable them to compete in the world. The industries which propose such schemes will receive the most sympathetic consideration and coöperation in working out their plans and finding the necessary finance.

"The problem is, how are we going to tackle export trade? I say frankly that if it is left to the government, there is no hope. This country never prospered and attained the position it holds today through relying on government help. There is too much desire today to be spoon fed. All the government can do is infinitesimal compared to what business can do for itself.

"There are certain things the government can do. It can direct foreign policy. It can realize that a peace mind is better for trade than a war mind. It can direct efforts to persuade the nation that money spent upon the necessities of life is far more productive than money spent on armaments and implements of war."

Mr. Thomas also anounced that the government has decided to restore the abandoned commercial and diplomatic representation in Colombia, Persia, Switzerland, Brazil, and Argentina and create new posts in Finland, Egypt, China, Canada, South Africa, East Africa, and the West Indies.

ARMY AND NAVY PLEDGE AID TO FAIR FOR 1933

The coöperation of the army and navy forces in the Chicago area in promoting the success of the Century of Progress exposition was pledged yesterday by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, and Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval station. Gen. Parker and Admiral Crosley were guests of honor at a luncheon given by Rufus C. Dawes, head of the fair organization, at the Burnham studio.

It was announced during the luncheon that both the war and the navy departments would be invited to have exhibits at the fair. Admiral Crosley expressed himself as being especially interested in the development of the plans for the exposition because of his connection with the world's fair at St. Louis in 1904.

Attending the luncheon were Lieut. F. H. Gilmer, aide to Admiral Crosley; Lieut. G. S. Smith, aid to Gen. Parker; Daniel H. Burnham, secretary of the world's fair; Maj. L. R. Lohr, manager of the exposition; Dr. F. R. Moulton, chairman of the exposition committee on astronomy, and Col. F. C. Boggs of the world's fair staff.

Fireman Vanishes; Drag River in Hunt for Body

The Chicago river in the vicinity of the Franklin street bridge was dragged yesterday by coast guardsmen, firemen and the police in search of the body of Edward Schmeck, 2027 Grace street, a fireman, who was believed to have fallen into the water on Thursday during the storm. Schmeck left the fireboat Graeme Stewart at the height of the blizzard to board the fire tug Joseph Medill. When nothing had been heard from him several hours later, Capt. John Julian notified the coast guard and asked that they search for the body.

PAULINO, FIELDS, SHIRES, WIN; 40,000 SEE BOUTS

DENVER PRO'S 70 LEADS $10,000 GOLF TOURNEY

Al Espinosa, Seaver Tie with 72.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Crouched behind a bulwark of sodden fairways, distressingly slow greens, and high winds on the Riviera course, Old Man Par resisted all but one attack on his stronghold today in the first round of the annual 72 hole $10,000 Los Angeles open golf championship.

To a rank outsider—Johnny Rogers of Denver—went the honors today of turning in a sub par card of 71, one under standard figures.

Al Espinoza Has 72.

The Denver entrant's feat silenced the thunder of the big guns of golf. His nearest rivals, Al Espinoza of Chicago and Charley Seaver, 18 year old amateur of Los Angeles, chalked up 72s. Each turned in 36s for the two nines.

Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, P. G. A. champion, and Denny Shute of Columbus, O., worked their way around the course in 73 strokes each.

Macdonald Smith, winner of this event for the last two years and a favorite to repeat, faltered in his putting game and took 39-38-77. Far behind, Walter Hagen of Detroit soared up to an 81.

Former national open title holders, Tommy Armour of Detroit, and Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., and first rounds of 74-40-74, and 38-38-76. Armour's outgoing nine was one under par, but his game went to pieces coming in. Two other veteran campaigners, Bobby Cruickshank of New York and Abe Espinosa of Chicago, finished the first day in the 74 class.

Seaver's 72 Leads Amateurs.

Young Seaver led the way for the amateurs with his 72, while George Von Elm of Detroit, former champion, turned the layout in 37-39-76. Johnny Dawson, simon pure from Chicago, had a 39-38-77.

Rogers' card:

Par—out	544	343	444—35
Rogers—out	544	342	343—34
Par—in	454	434	354—36—71
Rogers—in	454	424	355—36—70

Today's first round was the most disastrous to the field since the Los Angeles open was established in 1926.

Cold weather throughout the day and drizzling rain in the forenoon provided a hazard that only one out of the 130 starters could overcome.

Hall Clinches Third Place by Win Over Augie Kieckhefer.

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—In a game marked by many dramatic points Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., successfully defended his title as world's three cushion billiard champion before a capacity crowd by defeating the former title holder, Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 32, in 43 innings.

It is the fifth time Layton has won the crown. With it goes a prize of $1,200 in cash and a yearly salary of $6,000 as well as a diamond and ruby studded gold metal bestowed upon the champion by the National Billiard association.

Layton wound up the match with a flourish, getting a run of eight, best of the evening, in the forty-second inning and then compiling three in the forty-third to triumph. The inning in which the match turned was in the thirty-sixth. In the thirty-fifth Layton miscued and then ran four. Two innings later he clustered five and four innings farther along collected eight to clinch the crown.

After the match, Layton was presented with the medal which remains his permanent property.

Allen Hall of St. Louis assured himself of finishing no worse than third in the three cushion title competition at the Palm Garden when he defeated Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago southpaw, in the penultimate contest of the tourney this afternoon, 50 to 31.

Hall can finish second by taking the measure of Reiselt, while Kieckhefer, whose third defeat dropped him into a tie with Tiff Denton for fourth place, can cinch that position only by beating the veteran and former champion in the playoff.

The two playoffs will be held at Dwyer's billiard academy, with Denton and Kieckhefer ending the fourth place deadlock on Monday evening and Hall and Reiselt meeting Tuesday night to decide the second and third place positions.

Mary Browne Reinstated as Golf Amateur

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Miss Mary K. Browne, former women's tennis champion of the United States and in 1924 runnerup in the women's golf championship, today was reinstated as an amateur golfer by the executive committee of the United States Golf association. Miss Browne, formerly of Los Angeles, but now resident of Cleveland, was declared a professional when she became a member of C. C. Pyle's touring tennis party in 1926. Her three years of probation as an amateur golfer will expire Feb. 12.

She won the tennis championship in 1912, 1913, and 1914, and was defeated by Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd for the golf championship at Providence, R. I., in 1924. The executive committee, through Prescott S. Bush, secretary, also announced the reinstatement of Phil Carter of Los Angeles.

Robert T. Jones Jr. was named captain of the Walker cup team to play international matches in England in the spring.

Caddies now may "carry clubs for hire" until their 18th birthdays and be prepared to qualify thereafter as amateur golfers. The executive committee raised the age limit two years.

Larry Bevan, Noted Ohio Prep Gridiron Coach, Dies

Toledo, O., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Larry Bevan, prominent Toledo attorney and noted Ohio football coach, died today. Under Bevan's leadership Waite High won the mythical national prep school football championship in 1924. He also had success with Toledo university and St. John's school teams.

Basketball Team Wins, 2-1; Claim Low Score Record

Albion, Mich., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Albion High school seniors and juniors set what is believed a record for low scores in a basketball game today in the inter-class competition. The seniors won, 2-1, on a basket by Everett Cleveland, Max McConnell's free throw gave the juniors their point.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, punched aggressively to win over Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, in a 10 round bout here tonight.

A Golfing Query: Do Mole Crickets Like Their Poison?

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Mole cricket, deadly enemy of the golf courses, may or may not like poison, Bob White, well known golf architect, told the greens section of the United States Golf association today that the tenacious little pest has him baffled.

"I have been trying to poison mole crickets for years and the answer is you can't do it," said White, in addressing greens keepers and greens chairmen from all over the country. "I cannot say that I ever did poison one. Certainly you will grow very tired before you finish pouring poison of any variety down all the holes you can find."

YANKEE STADIUM GETS ILLINOIS GAME WITH ARMY

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The West Point-Illinois football game, scheduled to be played at the Polo grounds early in November, will take place in the Yankee stadium, it was authoritatively learned today. The New York university-Georgia game, to be played the same day, at the American league field has been shifted to the Polo grounds. It is understood this move was made by mutual consent of all concerned in order to accommodate the large number of persons who desire to see the middle western elevens in action in New York City.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Many years ago the two Freiberg brothers gave violin lessons to wealthy boys of the south side. They also gave excellent concerts at their music hall on 22d street, between State and Wabash. It was patronized by the best people, a very respectable place of amusement. The South Side Turners' society had its headquarters there.

Then came the transformation. A brilliant grand march was led by various characters of the underworld, Evening attire and costly evening gowns predominated. Many timid or bashful people sat in the balconies masked. This function was known as "Lame Johnny's Annual Dance." Johnny was a popular pianist at a downtown resort. All brands of champagne were represented by their agents and there was great rivalry among the agents as to the best seller. Bottles filled all tables and many filled patrons were under the tables.

He evidently had dined well but not wisely, for he appeared uncertain which foot should be used first in descent. After several attempts to balance himself he collapsed and bumped the bumps to the floor of the lobby. Several gentlemen rushed to his assistance, set him on his feet, handed him his gloves, cane, and hat, and inquired solicitously if he was hurt.

The gentleman regained his gloves, cane, and poise, tapped his silk hat to the correct angle, and, squaring his shoulders, replied with great dignity: "Hell... no; I always come downstairs that way."

It requires considerable optimism to become steamed up over the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott contest, or what is it, chosen for the entertainment of winter tourists at Miami Feb. 27. Tuffy Griffith, whom Sharkey disdained to meet, probably would have furnished better opposition. The Boston boxer expects to get the "big money" for a title bout next summer in New York and his $75,000 at Miami will be "expense money" in the meantime.

Of aeroplanes or roller skates,
My Persian carpet or the star
That nightly at my window waits.
Nor yet the nimble incubator,
Just one weakness I avow—
A percolator!

The magic urn that nightly brews
Incense to my jaded soul,
To cheer me when I'm in the blues,
To hearten me—that is its rôle!
The guardian of my sanity,
My household god, my regulator,
The theme of this insanity—
My percolator!

Frosting the Carnegie Report.

Mister Woodruff: That Carnegie Bulletin Such-and-Such is, I am now firmly convinced, a lot of ballyhoo and the result of much thumb-twiddling and idle brain-meandering because I have just learned of the sad case of a destitute college athlete who didn't even own a pair of gloves to wear while driving his twin eight So-and-So. Does not that more poignantly illustrate the lack of subsidies than possession of only one pair of pants?

So sweet a girl as Phoebe Shaw?
Echo—. . . Pshaw!
Lover—Say what will win that frisky Coney
Into the toils of matrimony?
Echo—. . . Money!

GREAT ONE STOPS BOSTON CATCHER IN FOURTH; TUT AND FLOWERS IN DRAW; WALLACE IS VICTOR

Stadium Crowd Boos the Headline Fight Decision.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Bruce Flowers, New York Negro lightweight, and King Tut fought ten rounds to a draw in the feature of the boxing show at the Chicago Stadium last night. In a special match, Welterweight Champion Jackie Fields won by a two round technical knockout over Jimmy Owens.

Decision of the judges and referees in the Flowers-Tut bout did not meet with the approval of the 6,000 fans, who paid about $18,000 for the entertainment. Some cheered; others booed. Dan Devereaux, one of the judges, called it a draw. L. E. Osborne, the other judge, ruled in favor of Flowers, while Referee Dave Barry favored Tut.

In the third round Tut caught Flowers on the jaw with a right cross, the Negro taking a nine count. It was a clean hard punch. Flowers fell into a clinch to weather the round. Bruce later clipped Tut on the chin with a long right, staggering King just as the final bell rang. Tut appeared hurt.

Owens Easy for Champ.

Tut had the best of the infighting while Flowers had the advantage at long range. King suffered a bruised left eye. Flowers' nose bled from the fourth round until the finish. Tut weighed 137½ pounds and Flowers 137¾.

Fields had little trouble winning from Owens. Early in the first round, Jackie cut Jimmy's lower lip. The flow of blood resulting could not be stopped. Near the close of the round, Fields punched his opponent around the ring at will. After the second session was two minutes old, Referee Barry stopped the fight with Owens hopelessly beaten. Fields scaled 146¾ pounds and Owens 146.

Ross Beats New.

In the other schedulde ten rounder, Billy Wallace of Cleveland won from Danny Delmont of Chicago by a technical knockout in the ninth round. Delmont was badly punished, causing Referee Joe McNamara to stop the bout near the close of the round. They met at 135 pounds.

Barney Ross of Chicago, a TRIBUNE Golden Gloves winner, was given the decision over Louie New of Milwaukee in the six round preliminary. Ross showed vast improvement. They met at 133 pounds.

Jack Barry, local light heavyweight, won the decision over Billy Gabriel, also of Chicago, in the four round opener.

FREEMAN BEATS THOMPSON.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Tommy Freeman of Cleveland outpointed Young Jack Thompson, Chicago Negro, in a ten round bout at Olympia tonight. Under Referee Al Day's scoring system Freeman was awarded seven rounds, one was even, and two went to Thompson.

Mandell Bout Off

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The fight between Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion of Rockford, Ill., and Manuel Quintero, Cuban cavalier, was called off before the first preliminary bout tonight on account of inclement weather. The fight will be held in the outdoor arena of the Miami Kennel club Jan. 17, according to announcement from the office of G. P. K. Carter, promoter of the bout.

A drizzling rain which started shortly after 8 o'clock brought the postponement. Comparatively few spectators were in the arena at the time the bout was called off. The Kennel grandstand, where many of the fight fans were planning to sit, was well filled.

Horan Team of 48 Largest in Tribune Meet

Park Meet Today

THE eighth annual skating championships of the west parks will be held this afternoon at Garfield park. More than 500 entries, the largest in the history of the event, have been received. The first event will start at 2 o'clock under the direction of William Schultz, superintendent of small parks and playgrounds.

Paul Staff, director of Horan playground, has nominated 48 skaters for THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park, Jan. 25 and 26. This is the largest team entry received so far.

The Horan playground director is a brother of Art Staff, who won THE TRIBUNE'S first Silver Skates Derby. At that time only one race was held, but so much interest was shown by the growing boys and girls that six races now make up the program. There are four events for boys of various ages and two for girls.

Paul Staff is the official surveyor for the Western Skating association, under whose auspices TRIBUNE races are held. Staff will lay out the tracks for this year's races, which will be decided over either a six or eight lap course, depending upon weather conditions.

Sattler Seeks Junior Skates.

The Horan playground entry is topped by Francis Sattler, who won the Boys' Juvenile Derby last year. This year Francis ill race in the boys' junior event and expects to win his second pair of skates. According to Staff, his ace is skating faster and is stronger.

Staff has nominated 12 for the boys' juvenile and as many for the boy's junior. Six will face the starter in the boys' intermediate and two in the men's senior. Fourteen were listed for the girls' junior and two for the girls' senior, open to those 16 years of age and over. The Horan skaters are practicing every day and are taking a keen interest in the Derbies.

Nearly 1,000 entries have been received and when the lists close on Jan. 19 at midnight more than 3,000 nominations are expected. A feature of the entry thus far is that interest evinced by the smaller boys and girls. This is the aim of TRIBUNE events. After skaters are developed and enter class A divisions, they join clubs which enter them in city, state, national and international championships.

Gives Future Champs Start.

During the 13 years TRIBUNE Derbies have been held, many champions received their start by racing in these events. Some of them have won national and international titles, but all give credit to THE TRIBUNE for encouraging them to maintain interest in the sport which resulted in their attaining the goal of their ambitions.

Aside from the Horan playground entry, the usual number of individual nominations were received yesterday. Many were enlisted from out of town, which indicates local racers will have to be at their best to win the prizes.

Art Registers His Third Successive K. O. Triumph.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Arthur [The Great] Shires chalked up his fourth ring victory in five starts here tonight by gaining a four round technical knockout over bald headed Al Spohrer, Boston Braves catcher. Spohrer struck a defensive pose in the second minute of the opening round and held it to the end.

Spohrer Down for Count.

After Spohrer was dropped for nine by a right hook to the head in the second, he ceased trying and was content to remain in a neutral corner with his arms protecting his face and bald head. The relaxation lasted for more than a minute.

Spohrer became aggressive enough to cut Shire's lower lip with a light left jab in the third and they rested again, after the Great Arthur had pelted him with a few harmless rights. Shires continued his wild right swings in the fourth and so many of them landed that Spohrer's advisers threw in the towel.

Art Lands 87 Hooks.

Ringside statisticians announced that Shires landed 87 right hooks during the brief bout and had 39 misses. Spohrer's score was 27 hits, none of them heavy, and 20 misses.

The capacity crowd of 18,000 jeered Shires before, during and after the performance, but he finally waved it into silence long enough to announce: "I didn't want Al Spohrer. I want Hack Wilson."

MADDEN WILLS BULK OF $2,000,000 ESTATE TO SONS

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The will of John E. Madden, millionaire horseman, who died in New York City Nov. 3, 1929, was filed for probate here today.

Mr. Madden left the bulk of his estate, estimated at approximately $2,000,000, to two sons, John E. Madden Jr. and Joseph M. Madden, who qualified as executors and trustees. He left $125,000 in trust for two nieces, Cecilia and Catherine McTearn, his secretary, Miss Daisy Proctor, and a number of his friends, particularly horsemen.

The will expressly stated that Sir Martin, thoroughbred sire and an especial favorite of Mr. Madden, should not be sold but retained on his estate, Hamburg Place. Sir Martin is the only American horse ever made a favorite in the English Derby and was leading in that event until it fell on the stretch turn.

16,730 WATCH HEAVYWEIGHTS IN GARDEN GO

Von Porat Fails to Show Title Caliber.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Old Paulino Uzcudun, the most bunged up relic of Tex Rickard's last heavyweight elimination tournament, disarranged all the current arrangements for the selection of a new heavyweight champion when he came to life for a hot half-hour in the garden this evening and gave Otto Von Porat an emphatic larruping.

Paulino won seven of the ten rounds, two were about evenly waged and Von Porat's only round was the first, in which he renewed old acquaintance by leathering Paulino's chin with a fire of far-fetched rights straight to the jaw. In this round it looked as though Von Porat might equal or excel the execution done by Max Schmeling, the ostracized German who met Paulino last summer and left him looking like something found in Kishinieff after a Cossack charge.

But in round two Paulino, who is several inches shorter of arm and height than Von Porat, began leaping up with a playful left hook to the ear and chin, which brought Otto edging toward him to a clinch. And when Otto gathered close against Paulino, the clumsy railsplitter from the onion groves of old Seville ripped up curious rights and uppercuts which started so low that it looked as though it would soon have Otto bleeding at the knees, and raked Von Porat's ribs and chin and nose.

In the third, Paulino's gay impudence so unsettled Von Porat that he began to fall back to reflect and as he did so Uzcudun bore in upon him, still fanning his ear with that left and stirring his vitals with the right. Von Porat fought a one handed bout, using his left only for clutching and prying purposes and from the start of the second until the end of the tenth he didn't find lodgment for half a dozen of the right hand shots with which he had lacerated the old chap's mouth and nose in the first few minutes.

How the Spaniard Fought.

Paulino fought a bothersome, fussy sort of fight and whenever Von Porat planned something really stratgetic and bright, the Spaniard was crawling up his long, gaunt frame and annoying him most fearfully before he could go into action.

Inasmuch as Schmeling massacred Paulino and Von Porat made Fainting Phil quit only a few weeks ago, this evening's business accentuates the unimportance of the impending amenities between Jack Sharkey and Fainting Phil in Miami. Perhaps it all means that Paulino is back in the championship flight again. Or maybe it merely means that a couple of boys had a fight on a Friday night in the Garden and drew a throng of 16,730, who paid about $51,500 for amusement.

Carnera Is Introduced.

The steel ribbed ring structure stretched and sagged under the pressure as Primo Carnera, the vast Italian, and Victorio Campolo of the Argentine stepped within the ropes to be introduced as a moment of ballyhoo for their fight here later in the month. Primo and Campolo placed their left feet alongside one another to show the patrons the tremendous displacement of Carnera's gondolas. It was a very graphic comparison, Campolo's No. 18 pump looked like a bumboat alongside a man o' war in a Chinese port, and the customers not only laughed but began feeling for their money.

GLASSGOW, IOWA GRID STAR, SIGNS WITH BROWNS

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Willis A. Glassgow, University of Iowa football star, signed today with the St. Louis baseball club in the American league for a tryout on its 1930 spring training tour.

Glassgow, who completed his college competition at the end of the last football season, won three letters in baseball, playing shortstop. He will report to the Browns immediately after graduation Feb. 4.

Mace Brown, Hawkeye pitcher who was recently declared ineligible for playing with the Marshall, Minn., semi-pro team, has received offers from the Browns and from the Terre Haute team in the Three I league, it also was revealed today.

200 Hunters Prepare for Coon Chase on Dewey Bald

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—A new sports classic will be staged Sunday at Branson by sportsmen of the Missouri and Arkansas Ozarks. The first annual "coon trails" will be staged in the Shepherd of the Hills country under the direction of B. W. Eiserman, Branson postmaster. The coons will be released on Dewey Bald mentioned in Harold Bell Wright's book and after getting a half hour's start the coon dogs will be freed. More than a score of dogs have been entered and more than 200 hunters will follow the chase.

GAMES TONIGHT.

Indiana at Chicago.
Michigan at Purdue.
Northwestern at Minnesota.
Wisconsin at Ohio State.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Eight of the Western conference basketball teams play tonight in the first full evening's schedule of the year. Only Illinois will be idle.

Indiana, which has held over last year's habit of losing games by a point or two, sends its veteran quintet to open the season against Chicago at Bartlett gymnasium. Though the Hoosiers have lost four practice games, all have been by narrow margins to strong teams, and the lineup of McCracken, Strickland, Zeller, Veller and Blagrave is formidable. The Maroons have won three and lost two practice games, and though the teams they've beaten were hardly of Big Nine calibre, they have been improving rapidly and have an excellent chance to upset the Hoosiers.

Michigan, Purdue Clash.

The outstanding game of the night, of course, is between the co-champion Michigan team of last year and Purdue. The Wolverines got off to an excellent start by easily downing Minnesota, but the Boilermakers are a different kind of ball club with Murphy, Harmeson, Boots and Wooden in the lineup. The game may easily be the one that decides the championship, even if it does come at the start of the season.

Northwestern, with one hard fought victory to its credit, plays Minnesota at Minneapolis with an excellent chance of making it two in succession. Bob McCarnes, the guard who was ill when the Purple opened the season, will be back in the lineup.

Badgers Meet Buckeyes.

Wisconsin, unexpectedly upset by the Wildcats, moves to Columbus to play Ohio. Both teams lost their opening games, but neither is likely to be near the bottom at the end of the season. Despite the fact the Badgers have only one tall man, they are a good team, while the Buckeyes have four of last year's fast scoring veterans back in the lineup and the hole at center seems to have been plugged by Wrigley.

Ideal Game Refuges Made from Barrens

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ogemaw county, Mich., Jan. 10.—A deer hunter, grouse hunter, trapper, fisherman, or conservationist who visits scrub oak and jack pine lands in this section above Bay City may take one look at the miles of young trees, dense cover, lakes, swamps, and abandoned acreage and give three cheers.

He sees what 80 years ago was heavily and beautifully forested plains and hills, and later logged and burned over. The wild deer, red fox, and other animals are moving in to take over lands quite unfit for agriculture. The deer have increased. They are finding food and cover in these waste lands of low grade soil. Rabbits also are plentiful. The grouse are coming back. Hence the glee of the Michigan sportsmen.

Other States Might Copy.

And here is the story behind this vast acreage of scrub oak and jack pine country. Gradually the division of game of the state department of conservation and the forestry department are picking up these lands on which many owners will not pay a nickel of tax, turning them into refuges, public shooting grounds, and state forests, and sportsmen are the winners. It's a story that other states may well read with profit.

And can these desolate old scrub oak and pine barrens raise game? This morning we checked over some of the records here in the headquarters of the Ogemaw game refuge over which Blaine Brannon has charge.

Three years ago when he moved in here to groom 6,000 acres for a refuge, build fire lines, and trap out the vermin, he made a track count around the refuge. The average in and out count on the 16½ miles around the refuge was 40 to 70.

Tracks Show Deer Increase.

This year on Oct. 25 (before the opening of the deer season) the track count showed 382 in and 423 out. These figures represent, of course, many duplications on individual deer but nevertheless they give an indication of the increase in the deer population on these barrens. So there is a future for these silent, lonely barrens. They can be turned back to nature for the growth of new forest and the preservation of wild life.

LEADERSHIP

AGAIN IN 1929, as for fourteen consecutive years, Goodyear's annual production of pneumatic tires for motor vehicles was the largest in the world. Goodyear now builds annually almost twice as many tires as any other rubber company.

LANE, SCHURZ, ROOSEVELT WIN PREP THRILLERS

Englewood, Phillips Take Double Headers.

The north section of the City league began play yesterday with the heavyweight quintets of Lane, Schurz, and Roosevelt scoring last minute victories over Waller, Lake View, and Senn. In each case the victors' lightweight teams also took decisions. Morgan Park opened its south section schedule with a 16 to 11 win over Calumet, but the latter's lights defeated the Morgan Park ponies, 30 to 15. Wendell Phillips' heavies and lights won a double header from Hyde Park, as did Englewood from Lindblom.

Lane Noses Out Waller.

Waller put its first heavyweight team in years on the floor against Lane yesterday, and Coach Umbright's team was forced to come from behind in the last four minutes to win, 20 to 17. Stunbeck starred for the losers with 10 points, while Anderson's two baskets near the end featured for Lane. Krajacic, with 15 points, led the Lane lights to a 30 to 17 victory.

Berkolski's basket in the last few minutes gave Schurz its 13 to 12 victory over Lake View's heavies. Schurz's lights made it a pair by trimming the Lake View juniors, 25 to 11. Bergbom and Harris featured in the Roosevelt heavies' 25 to 21 victory over Senn, both counting in the rally which overtook Senn in the last quarter. Hunt led the Roosevelt lights to a 30 to 11 win.

Bray Leads Phillips.

Agin Bray, with seven baskets and five free throws, was the big factor in Phillips' 34 to 21 defeat of Hyde Park, while George Darden's six field goals stood out in the lightweights' 23 to 13 victory. Jimmy Custard's basket in the last minute gave Englewood a 24 to 22 decision over Lindblom. Englewood lightweights won easily, 22 to 8.

EVANSTON BEATS OAK PARK, 23-22

Chuck Munson's free throw in the extra period gave Evanston High a 24 to 22 victory over Oak Park in an overtime Suburban league battle on the winners' floor yesterday. Evanston led at the half, 15 to 11, but the Villagers rallied and took a 19 to 18 lead at the third quarter. A basket by Arado and a free throw by Houston increased it to four points. Munson made good on a pair of free tosses and Leaf dropped one in to tie the score. The Oak Park lights took a 23 to 19 decision over Evanston.

Palo Alto, Cal., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Charles "Chuck" Smalling, star full back of last year's Stanford football team, has accepted the position of assistant grid coach at the University of Mississippi.

De La Salle, St. Ignatius Split; St. Mel and St. George Win

De La Salle heavyweights, national Catholic champions, opened their schedule in the south section of the Catholic league last night with a 27 to 14 victory over St. Ignatius on the home court. Ed Krause headed the champions' attack, scoring five times from the floor and adding three free throws, while his brother Phil contributed three field goals. De La Salle led at the half, 20 to 9. Capt. Tom Fay and Citro starred for St. Ignatius.

St. Ignatius lights divided the evening's honors by trimming De La Salle, 10 to 8. The winners lagged at the half, 7 to 0, but came back in the second half. It was a one handed toss by Bill Lange, who made three baskets, which brought the west siders victory in the last quarter. Heavyweight lineup:

Prep Swim Stars Set 4 New Marks

Cook county prep swimmers set four new records last night as they paddled through the preliminaries of the sixth annual interscholastic meet of the University of Chicago in the Bartlett gymnasium tank. Finals in all events will start at 2:30 p. m. today.

Jim Bowman of Evanston sprang a decided upset when he bested Hines of Tilden in the 100 yard backstroke with the exceptional time of 1:05 7-10, cracking the mark set by Rosen of Roosevelt last year by 2 and 1-10 seconds.

Valentine of Lane swept past Highland of Schurz to set the best time in the 100 yard free style and establish a new record by 2 full seconds. Valentine's time was 55 and Highland negotiated the distance in :55 8-10.

However, Highland entered the record breaking himself when he flashed through the 40 yard free style in :18 7-10 seconds, breaking the mark set by Peterson of Lane in 1925 by 9-10 of a second.

Evanston set the other new mark in the medley relay with 2:03 7-10. Bowman, McCurdy, Taylor and Holmes making up the team.

The qualifiers:

QUALIFIERS—160 yard relay—Evanston [McCurdy, Mertz, Holmes, Eisner]. Schurz, Maine, Englewood, and Tilden qualified. Best time, 1:20 4-10, made by Evanston.

100 YARD BREAST STROKE—Degraaff, Tilden; Horn, La Grange; Stolar, Englewood; Taylor, Evanston; Hanson, Schurz, qualified. Best time, :1:14 8-10, made by Degraaff.

40 YARD SWIM—Highland, Schurz; Valentine, Lane; Tischler, Schurz; McCurdy and Eisener, Evanston, qualified. Best time :18 7-10, made by Highland. New meet record.

220 YARD SWIM—Lima, Waukegan; Brown, Englewood; Kerber, Maine; Polovon, Crane; Hussey, Waukegan. Best time, 2:28, made by Lima.

100 YARD BACK STROKE — Bowman, Evanston; Hines, Tilden; Geersaria, Englewood; Brown, Maine; Scheringa, Schurz, qualified. Best time, 1:05 7-10, made by Bowman—new meet record.

100 YARD SWIM—Valentine, Lane; Highland, Schurz; Lima and Hussey, Waukegan; Fish Schurz, qualified. Best time, 0:55 1-10, made by Valentine. New meet record.

FANCY DIVING—Erienbaugh, Holstens, Roosevelt; Miller, Laughborough, Tilden; Hurcey, Waukegan; Pattle, Maine, qualified.

Medley relay—Evanston [Bowman, McCurdy, Taylor, Holmes]. Maine, Schurz, Englewood, Tilden qualified. Best time, 2:03 7-10, made by Evanston. New meet record.

Big Nine Starts Probe of Iowa Ineligibles

BULLETIN.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 10—The Big Nine committee late tonight said action on Iowa's ineligible athletes would have to be decided by the conference as a whole.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Secretive in plans and powers, Western conference faculty representatives investigating the status of eleven suspended University of Iowa athletes, arrived here late this afternoon, and immediately went into conference with the Hawkeye eligibility committee.

Prof. Thomas French of Ohio State, Prof. W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana, and Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of Wisconsin comprised the investigating committee. Prof. French, chairman of the group, declined to discuss whether the committee had power to reinstate the Hawkeye athletes or merely to recommend such action to the conference in event of a favorable decision. He said the committee probably would remain here tomorrow to continue its activities.

Dean C. C. Williams, Prof. F. G. Higbee, and Prof. Louis Pelzer were Iowa representatives conferring with the Big Nine officials. Disqualified Iowa athletes had received no word whether they would be given opportunity to appear before the investigators on charges of borrowing from the "trust fund," which figured in the Iowa ouster.

The original list of 14 disqualified athletes has dwindled to eleven, Iowa athletic officials said this afternoon. Three men on the original list, F. L. Wilcox, C. M. Stewart, and Marvin Schmidt, have either concluded their competition or left school.

LOYOLA CAGERS WIN 29TH FROM S. DAKOTA AGGIES

Loyola's high powered basketball team swept aside South Dakota State, 1929 North Central conference champions, 37 to 11, last night, to account for its 29th consecutive triumph.

The South Dakota State offense was almost powerless against the Ramblers, getting a total of two field goals, one in each period. Loyola started poorly, outscoring the Jackrabbits only 14 to 6 in the first period, but opened up with a terrific offensive in the final session.

Peterson Assigned to Fight Carnera in N. Y. Jan. 24

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The New York state athletic commission has not stopped playing jokes on their public. It today designated Big Boy Peterson, springboard artist, to bare his brittle chin to the offside slants of Primo Carnera, newcomer from Italy, at Madison Square Garden Jan. 24.

Ostensibly to soften the blow, the boxing fathers decreed that not more than $5.74 shall be exacted from any credulous person for this particular fight.

The boxing commissioners also announced that the winner of the Jimmy Slattery-Lou Scozza 15 round fight in Buffalo, Feb. 10, must fight Maxie Rosenbloom within sixty days of that date in Buffalo.

Approving the Slattery-Scozza bout the commission ruled that the winner will be recognized as world's light heavyweight champion only on condition he agrees to meet Rosenbloom within the stipulated time with the tentative title at stake.

SOUTH BEND HIGH WINS CHANCE TO LEAD CAGE LOOP

Plymouth, Ind., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—South Bend Central High basketball team will have a chance to obtain first place in the Northern Indiana High school conference tomorrow night when the Bears meet La Porte. FESSENDEN BEATS ELMSLIE; RETAINS BALK LINE TITLE

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Ray Fessenden of Madison still wears the national amateur 18-2 balk line billiard crown. He vanquished Alex Elmslie, Milwaukee challenger, in the third and final block of their match here tonight, running the score to 900 to 464.

The score for tonight's block alone was Fessenden, 300; Elmslie, 188. The match went 25 innings. The players played 73 innings in three evenings. Fessenden made his best run of the series, an 87, which put him safely out in front tonight. Elmslie's high run was a mediocre 17. The score by innings:

FESSENDEN—0, 3, 6, 16, 2, 27, 4, 13, 4, 3, 3, 2, 5, 87, 20, 1, 8, 2, 5, 18, 42, 0, 4, 1, 2, 1, 21. Unfinished—300.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

There is but little to be said this morning—the radio audience knows why.

There was dance music, lots of it, some attempts at comedy, but not much of it, and entertainment of a light, effervescent character, lots of that.

And there was "The Concert" by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, Gaston du Moulin conducting, 8 to 8:30. Apparently this new concert program is introduced for all of us, but for the special benefit of those who love high grade music and music which is not overly familiar. Also, it is one of the few programs of quality that is free from advertising. During this concert the "Sakuntala" overture of Goldmark was played, this being a standard symphony orchestra work, also of large proportions, and the orchestra made it sound like the glorious thing it is.

The Mozart characterization by Pat Barnes "as Misther Kelly," with a musical setting in the last scene in the program, W-G-N, 9 to 9:30, was such as to cast over the radio audience a magic spell that will be far more lasting than its mere thirty minute period. The instructive oral content (in this instance the life story of Mozart) was done effectively, the rather awe creating introduction of the composer makes for realism, and the final musical numbers climax the program.

FIGHT FOR SAVIN RICHES STARTED BY ADOPTED SON

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The fight over the Savin millions left to the eccentric broker's fourth wife was begun today in White Plains Surrogate court. Charles Edy Monroe, 51 years old, adopted son and brother-in-law of the late Frank W. Savin, served notice of official objection to the will which left the $10,000,000 to Mrs. Mary Savin, Czecho-Slovakian housekeeper at Winchester and Savin's last wife.

Mrs. Savin, who has been living the life of a recluse in the $1,000,000 mansion at Port Chester since the death of her husband, had expressed confidence the will would not be attacked.

Mr. Monroe is a brother of the late broker's third wife and was adopted by Mr. Savin ten years ago. For almost eight years he made his home in Winchester hall and was treated as a favored son. He is at present without work or money, he says.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Problem Solved

M. P. HAGGENJOS, POLICE HERO, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Funeral services for Michael P. Haggenjos, 67 years old, for forty-one years a member of the Chicago police department, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday at the chapel at Lincoln and Sheffield avenues, with burial at St. Joseph's cemetery. Mr. Haggenjos died suddenly of a heart attack on Thursday afternoon while shoveling snow in front of his home at 2136 Addison street.

He had retired M. P. HAGGENJOS. from the police force two and a half years ago. Prior to that time he had been assigned to the city collector's office for twenty-nine years. He was a veteran of the Haymarket riot and was one of the heroes of the Iroquois theater fire. He was stationed in the loop at the time of the fire and was one of the first policemen to reach the burning building and take part in the rescue work. He also assisted in the rescue of passengers from the steamer Eastland when it capsized in the river.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mabel Haggenjos; two sons, Arthur and Victor C., and a daughter, Miss Florence Haggenjos.

PROF. H. J. COX IS BURIED WITH SIMPLE RITES

Prof. Henry J. Cox, for many years head of the United States weather bureau in Chicago, who died on Tuesday after a long illness, was buried in Holy Sepulchre cemetery yesterday after services in St. Thomas the Apostle Roman Catholic church.

The rites were simple as the scientist had requested. The mass was read by Msgr. T. V. Shannon. Msgr. Shannon was assisted by the Rev. Father Edward J. Mullaly, a close friend of Prof. Cox, who preached a short sermon.

"Prof. Cox did not fear death," Father Mullaly said. "He looked upon it as inevitable, and looked upon his body as a house for his soul. Death to him was an open door to greater things beyond life. When dying he repeated the words of Cecil Rhodes: 'I have done so little and there is so much to be done.'"

Thirty-five honorary pall bearers, named by Prof. Cox himself a month before he died, attended the body to the grave.

FALL ON STAIRS FATAL.

Announcement is made by Wilk, Clarke & Co., Inc., that J. V. Barnd has been named resident associate manager of Wilk, Clarke's Lima, O., office.

LARD TRADE HEALTHY

Lard trade is in better shape than it has been for a long time. The market has been well liquidated by tired holders and there is a better demand from abroad, with liberal sales to Germany of late and week's exports are expected to be large. The market yesterday showed strength early, but later, with grains and hogs declining, profit taking by recent buyers more than satisfied new investment purchasers, and prices closed 12½ to 20 cents lower.

Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d higher, while bellies were up 1s and backs 2s. Exports of lard were 124,654 lbs and of bellies 175,000 lbs. January bellies were 12½c higher, but May showed a net gain of only 2½c. Hog receipts from the west exceeded those of a week ago, but were less than a year ago. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Reaction from previous bullish sentiment in on the Chicago Mercantile exchange with losses in futures reaching $1@8 a car February butter and $210 a car in January refrigerator cars. Inactive storage movements in the four markets were the principal depressing factors. January butter was ¾c lower, February off ¾c, and March eased ¼c. Sales were 100 cars and receipts 8,330 tubs. January refrigerator egg futures declined 1¾c. January fresh were ¾c lower and February ¼c lower. Sales were 380 cars and receipts 8,038 cases.

Annual dinner and meeting of the Chicago Mercantile exchange will be held Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the Morrison hotel. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

"Yesterday was Jan. 10, which is almost always the calendar day for selling wheat," said a leading trader in explaining the weakness and decline, with a close around the inside prices. "It is also the time for Argentine to begin offering new wheat for shipment and it did not fail to appear with offerings for shipment at lower prices than other countries. The farm board's statement, while telling us nothing strikingly new, also had its influence. The trade at the close seemed impressed with the idea that liquidation is getting under way."

That country holders of corn are not disposed to sell freely on breaks was indicated yesterday by their light offerings, while on Thursday's bulge they sold freely. Local traders who construed the latest government crop figures as bullish were taking profits yesterday, or limiting their losses. So far country speculators have not enthused over the government report. The technical situation was considered weaker at the close.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 675,000 bu during the week; corn increased 95,000 bu, and oats 35,000 bu, while rye increased 20,000 bu.

WHEAT FUTURES BREAK 3 CTS. ON BOARD OF TRADE

Put McKelvie Address in Bearish Light.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A bearish construction placed yesterday on an address by S. R. McKelvie, a member of the federal farm board, at Topeka, Kas., in which mention was made of a possible 900,000,000 bu domestic crop this year, combined with the sale of over 1,000,000 bu rye to Norway by Russia sent futures crashing downward.

Prices at the inside showed as much as 3⅛c under the finish of the previous day, May touching $1.29, the lowest since Dec. 21. Stop loss orders were caught on the way down, and the close was about the bottom, with net losses of 3@3¼c.

At no time were wheat values as high as the finish of the previous day, and the lack of foreign demand for both American and Canadian grain attracted considerable attention. Winnipeg was weak and closed at 2⅞@3½c lower, while Buenos Aires was off 1¼c, and Rosario, 1⅝@1¾c. Liverpool closed ⅛@¼d higher, the strength in North America on Thursday having little effect.

Longs Sell Wheat Freely.

For several days the trade have had an impression that long wheat had been coming out in a persistent manner, and Winnipeg showed more weakness than Chicago during the early trading, with intimations that part of the selling orders in the former market originated with Chicago houses. Market support of late has come mainly from shorts and from holders of bids.

Present price of No. 1 northern spring wheat of $1.25 at Minneapolis applies only to the 1929 crop, according to Mr. McKelvie, and the price for the 1930 crop will be determined by the yield. Spring wheat farmers, he says, are planning to increase their acreage.

Cables mentioned further offers of wheat from Russia and the Danube. The Russian winter wheat acreage is estimated at 15,600,000 acres, or the same as in 1929.

Corn Weakens with Wheat.

Scattered buying caused a fractional advance in corn at the opening, but the weakness in wheat led to selling, and prices declined 1½c from top with the finish at net losses of 1⅛@1¾c.

There was some selling of futures by cash interests, presumably against purchases of cash corn to arrive over night, but the recession checked offerings. Shipping sales were 46,000 bu, with the spot basis steady to ½c higher. Buenos Aires futures closed ½@1¾c lower, with May there about 30c under Chicago.

Trade in oats was light, but prices were lower in sympathy with wheat and on selling by houses with northwestern connections. The finish was at net losses of ⅝c. The spot basis was ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

Sales of 1,000,000 bu or more Russian rye to Norway will take care of that country's requirements for January, February, March, and April. Canadian rye at the seaboard was quoted at 10c under American. Futures were easy and 1⅛@1⅜c lower.

UNFILLED STEEL ORDERS SHOW RISING DEMAND

BY O. A. MATHER.

How closely the steel industry is gearing production to actual demand is shown in the monthly report on forward business issued by the United States Steel corporation yesterday. In fact, it would appear that the demand for steel last month was better than the production figures indicated and that the mills deliberately increased back-logs.

So the U. S. Steel corporation's report shows an increase of 291,848 tons in unfilled orders for December, bringing total forward business up to 4,417,193 tons. This total is 440,481 tons larger than a year before and is only 10,570 tons below the record for 1929, which was established on April 30. Moreover, the current increase marked fourth consecutive monthly gain.

In view of the fact that operations of the U. S. Steel plants fell below 47 per cent of capacity last month, it is estimated that shipments did not exceed 750,000 tons, and this would indicate that incoming orders exceeded 1,000,000 tons, which would be about 10 per cent above orders received in November. Demand has improved further this month and the plants now are operating around 65 per cent of capacity. The Bethlehem Steel corporation also is reported to be operating above 70 per cent of capacity.

Plans of Grigsby-Grunow.

Despite the many recent fearsome predictions for the future of the radio industry, the big factors in the field are optimistic and are going ahead. Plans of the Grigsby-Grunow company were set forth last night by President E. J. Grigsby in his semi-annual report to the stockholders. And the report reveals that the six months ended Nov. 30, which was the first half of the company's fiscal year, proved the most prosperous in its history.

"The company will enter the electric refrigeration field in 1930," Mr. Grigsby said. "Because of the fact that this field is the opposite in its seasonal aspect to radio and the adaptability of our equipment to its manufacture, we are very optimistic as to results. In addition to a tremendous potential market, large economies should result due to lessened labor turnover and a leveled sales curve.

"Under a contract with Radio Corporation of America, General Electric and associated companies our radio tube business shortly will be transferred to a separate corporation, of which stock representing our company's interest therein will be distributed to the stockholders. With this program before us, we have every confidence that 1930 will be a banner year for our company."

Six Months' Net Is $3,989,717.

Net income of Grigsby-Grunow for the six months ended Nov. 30 was $3,989,717, equivalent to $1.99 a share on 1,997,897 shares of stock outstanding, including 249,737 shares which were issued on Nov. 21 and sold to bankers. For the corresponding period in 1928 net income was $2,642,646, equivalent to $1.94 a share on a comparable basis.

Sales for the six months last year totaled $41,565,659, compared with $22,678,649 in the corresponding period in 1928. The current report shows current assets of $26,037,313 and current liabilities of $10,067,227. Surplus stands at $7,105,729.

Foreign trade of the United States was less active in November than a year before and also was more favorable to other countries. Our exports totaled $442,281,995, compared with $544,912,294 in November, 1928; while imports were $338,552,833, compared with $326,565,183. As a result of the drop in exports and increase in imports, our favorable balance was $103,729,162, compared with $218,347,111 a year before.

Department store sales for last month were 2 per cent smaller than in December, 1928, according to the federal reserve board. The largest decline was in the Minneapolis district, with 8.3 per cent; and Chicago came next with a decrease of 7 per cent.

M'KELVIE SAYS HE'LL BE GLAD TO QUIT BOARD

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Kansas City Star today quotes Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the federal farm board, as warning farmers who contemplate increasing their wheat acreage that present prices set by the farm board for wheat are only for the present crop.

In view of prospects of a big crop next summer, McKelvie was quoted as saying he was glad he had accepted the place on the farm board only until June.

The former Nebraska governor said he had been informed that farmers of the northwest, cheered by the $1.25 price established by the board at Minneapolis, planned to put in even more spring wheat this coming season.

In warning that the present price would hold good merely for the present crop, McKelvie said:

"What price shall be established on the coming crop will be decided when the crop comes on.

"When I look at the prospects for a Kansas wheat crop, never better, with a 4 per cent increase in the acreage in Kansas and a 2 per cent increase for the whole winter wheat belt, I'm glad I told President Hoover I would serve on the farm board only until June. With your prospects out here and a big acreage in the northwest, with the possibility of a 900,000,000 bushel crop next summer, it won't be a very good thing to be a member of the farm board then."

OPEN QUIZ INTO UNITED CIGAR STORES AFFAIRS

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The confused affairs of the United Cigar Stores company, as reported by its new management, has resulted in an investigation by the state bureau of securities into the activities of the previous officials of the company, who represented the interests headed by George J. Whelan, founder of the 3,200 unit chain.

Watson Washburn, assistant attorney general and head of the securities bureau, announced today that "transactions of the United Cigar Stores company under its former management are under investigation" by his office. He said several of the former officers had consented to appear voluntarily at the bureau for questioning next Tuesday.

The most startling development in the United Cigar situation appeared yesterday, when auditors employed by the Morrow group reported that the company earned in 1928 only $4,525,609, and not $8,352,762, as had been reported by the Whelan management. Further, an adjustment of the accounts by the new management completely wiped out a surplus of nearly $22,000,000, as reported in the annual statement of Dec. 31, 1928, and replaced the item with a deficit of $776,286, as of June 30, 1929.

The company's earnings have suffered during the last two years from a widespread cigaret price cutting war and declining sales of cigars.

BAIN INFLUENCE IS EXTENDED TO ANOTHER BANK

The group of Chicago banks controlled by John Bain and associates received a new addition yesterday. Mr. Bain was elected chairman of the Elston State bank and John H. Bain was elected president to succeed Charles A. Sistek, who was named vice president. New directors elected were John H. Bain, L. W. Ferguson, V. M. Herrman, Theodore W. Zillman, and C. C. H. Zillman Theodore W. Zillman also was made cashier, and Walter F. Walsh was made assistant cashiere and manager of the real estate loan department.

Changes in personnel were announced by other banks as follows:

PRAIRIE STATE—D. L. McWeeney and A. J. Kennedy, directors.

The Division State bank reported 1929 net earnings of $129,463, equivalent to $32.82 a share on the capital stock and $13.83 a share on the invested capital.

Assoc. Gas & Electric Co. Plans 30 Million Financing

New York, Jan. 10.—The Associated Gas and Electric company is planning additional financing, in the amount of $30,000,000 in connection with the retirement of indebtedness of the company and its subsidiaries and for the acquisition of additional properties, it was announced today. It is proposed to undertake this financing in the form of an issue of convertible 5 per cent gold debentures due in 1950. The new debentures will be used in part for the retirement of preferred stocks of subsidiary companies ranking on an equality with or senior to the new issue of debentures.

Carson Pirie (Wholesale) Expands N.Y. Headquarters

An expansion of business in the New York eastern wholesale market was announced yesterday by Carson Pirie Scott & Co., wholesale, following the signing of leases for the entire first floor, balcony and basement of the building at 404 4th avenue, corner of 28th street. The firm's underwear and hosiery division will maintain displays, keeping large open stocks for quick shipment to the eastern territory. A substantial increase during 1929 in the New York City and eastern business in hosiery and underwear of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., wholesale, has necessitated the expansion of their New York headquarters, according to J. T. Pirie, president.

Business Failures for Week Reach Total of 732

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States this week totaled 732, R. G. Dun & Co. reports, a more marked increased than usual for this time of the year, and 97 above the 635 insolvencies reported for the corresponding period last year.

Workers' Aid Seen in Stable Construction

BY SCRUTATOR.

Stabilization in the construction industry is being attempted conscientiously by the federal government and in a lesser degree by the states and municipalities.

In the fiscal year 1929 a compilation shows that federal works of permanent nature cost 232 million dollars, and if construction for the army and navy departments is included, 251 millions. In the face of fears of unemployment, the administration has on hand plans that call for an increase in the amount by something between twenty-five and seventy-five millions. Lack of certainty as to the fate of legislation prevents a closer estimate.

Even with the larger increase, Washington would control for the present annual period less than 5 per cent, and probably nearer 4 per cent, of all construction expected in the country. It is of course illogical to suppose that a 5 per cent tail could wag a 95 per cent dog.

May Reach Two Billions.

But the states and municipalities have been lined up with the government, and their construction program this year may in total reach two billions. As far back as 1927, census figures showed that they spent $1,500,000,000 for improvements, and numerous state governments have assured the President of intentions to go ahead as rapidly as possible in 1930.

A fairly good guess is that the states and the federal government together with the cities will pay for about 30 per cent of all construction work to be done this year. The governmental agencies, for a variety of reasons, are better equipped to fit their programs to employment conditions than are private persons.

In March, 1923, it may be recalled that Secretary of Commerce Hoover recommended that all government construction be deferred unless the facilities were needed at once. At the time there was evidence that inflationary practices were growing. Now the attempt is to turn the program around and to encourage rather than to retard.

Needs for new improvements by government are apparent on all sides. They always are. But seldom do they have to be made immediately, nor is the problem of getting money often so pressing in lean times as it is for the private citizen.

Sees Powerful Weapon.

If this year's construction program is to reach nine billion dollars, as an estimate of Copper and Brass Research institute states, and 30 per cent is by governments, the latter have a powerful weapon for stabilization.

It would be more easy to stabilize this industry if it were not overmanned. In the boom that followed the war it attracted many thousands of workmen for whom there is no adequate work in normal times. Even this handicap may be overcome to some extent. A larger proportion of building is being accomplished by nonspeculating owners, including utility companies. If these follow governments in a program of leveling the peaks and valleys in construction, a great deal of distress among the industry's workers can be done away with.

CITIES SERVICE CO. SETTLES TEST CASE OUTSIDE OF COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 10.—The test case filed by Mrs. Anne Fisher against the Cities Service company, was settled out of court today when the company admitted its debt to Mrs. Fisher and paid her in full. The suit originally was brought about through a technicality in the contract which Cities Services insisted each customer sign when he purchases Cities Service stock on the installment plan.

As a result this technicality has apparently twisted losses in the recent stock market crash to big gains for those who defaulted payments on Oct. 1, 1929. Mrs. Fisher purchased fifty shares at $42.50 a share or $2,125. When she purchased the stock she paid $350 down and agreed to pay $175 on the first of every month starting Sept. 1. In the contract a stipulation stated that should the customer default payments the company would refund her payment plus or minus the difference in the market bid price of the fifteenth of the month preceding the default and the price which she had bought. After making the September payments of $175, Mrs. Fisher didn't pay on either Oct. 1 or Nov. 1. Thus, according to the terms of the contract she was in default on Oct 15, or just a few days before the first major stock crash.

On Oct. 15 the market bid price was $62.50 and the fifty shares were worth $3,337.50. However the company tried to pay her the price of the stock on Nov. 1 when it was selling at $26 a share. Mrs. Fisher refused to accept payment on this basis and the suit was the outgrowth. However, today the company forwarded her a check for $1,490.12, which was the full amount of her claim although she had only $525 invested at the time of the crash. Attorneys for Mrs. Fisher said that there were hundreds in Nebraska in the same fix as Mrs. Fisher but were awaiting the outcome of this trial.

Japan Lifts Embargo on Gold, Silver

BY ST. CLAIR M'KELWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 10.—Representing the triumph of the Hamaguchi government and calling the world's attention to Japan's increasingly sound financial condition, the embargo on gold and silver, which was established in 1917, was lifted this afternoon to become fully effective with the opening of banks on Monday morning.

Premier Yuko Hamaguchi, through the American owned Japan advertiser, yesterday expressed thanks for the cooperation of the United States and Great Britain for extending credits and general coöperation with Japan's recent policy, which he said that "while partly due to bankers' recognition of the effect the lifting of the ban has on world finance, it is also due to special good will toward Japan."

As the momentous long delayed step was taken the gold coverage of currency circulating in this country is the highest in the world, 83 per cent of all currency and 94 per cent for bank of Japan notes. Great Britain's is estimated at 29 per cent, while America's is 68 per cent.

The government is sincerely optimistic over future results of the lifting, although there is some doubt in business circles. Prepared for unfavorable reaction the Bank of Japan has a gold reserve of $536,500,000 against a note issue of $527,500,000, in addition to $152,000,000 deposited abroad. Credits arranged in New York and London total $50,000,000. The total gold protection for the yen standard, counting the government deposit of bureau funds in foreign currency, totals $797,000,000, or 125 per cent of the present bank of Japan note issue.

The embargo became effective Sept. 12, 1917 in the war years when the world's finance was far below normal. Japan was the last of the powers to recover its equilibrium; though the trouble was not due so much to war as internal peace time problems.

PENNSY RY. TO REVIVE AN OLD MERGER PROJECT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—The old project of the Pennsylvania railroad to merge the West Jersey and Seashore railroad is to be revived, it was disclosed today. This was made known in an announcement by directors of the controlled road that it had appointed a committee to consider the lease of its property and franchises to the Pennsylvania railroad.

The committee comprises W. J. Sewell Jr., J. W. Cooper, A. C. Middleton and David Blair Jr., all directors of the short line. The Pennsylvania owns $45,350 of the $98,250 guaranteed stock and $6,745,500 of the $11,586,450 common stock of the West Jersey outstanding.

Radio Victor Corp. Reports 1929 Sales of $121,000,000

Radio Victor corporation of America reports 1929 retail sales of Victor Radio instruments, records and reproducing instruments, amounted to $121,000,000. This exceeds Victor's 1928 business by $22,600,000.

REVIEWS POINT OUT IMPROVED TRADE ASPECTS

Find Strong Basis for Progress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—While recuperation of business in the retail department is being handicapped by unseasonal warm weather in the east and unstable weather conditions in the middle west, the general outlook is in the direction of betterment, the weekly trade reviews of Bradstreet and Dun & Co. point out.

The Bradstreet summation of conditions in trade and industry emphasizes better buying of steel and an air of cheerfulness reported at the New York automobile show as the principal favorable features of the week.

Dun & Co. notes that a rapid revival of business was scarcely to be look for, but adds that there is a strong basis for further progress. It counts the better tone in the steel industry as one sign that the tide has set in toward better times.

Post-Holiday Sales.

"Post-holiday 'sales' at retail to clear stocks, a rather deliberate getting to work of industry following shutdowns for inventory and a gradual stepping up of wholesale and jobbing trade for spring, this interspersed with some fill-in orders to round out depleted stocks, contribute the large visible features in a week that is rarely an active one, and which this year sees a rather leisurely return to normal conditions of midwinter," says Bradstreet's.

"The automobile trade has been a center of attention with cheerful reports as to the interest shown at the New York show in the majority.

"Perhaps the chief outstanding feature of the week in the matter of new operations has been the better buying of steel, this mainly on account of automobile manufacturers who had been stepping up operations in December and a like raising of steel productive operations from the low points of last year, with from 50 to 60 in some few instances, 75 per cent of capacity at work. Accompanying this had been some irregularity of prices in sheets, bars and strips of automobile manufacturers, but with rather marked strength reported in the steel scrap market.

Constructive Influences.

"Such minor alterations as have occurred in business thus far in the new year has been mainly in the direction of betterment," says Dun's.

"There have been, moreover, certain movements with a constructive influence and prominent among these trends is the further easing of money markets. The passing of the unbridled speculation in stocks has definitely relieved the acute credit tension while permitting the release of funds into other channels where their employment will be helpful to commercial advancement."

"BREVOORT" IS REPORTED SOLD TO E. L. WENZEL

A report current yesterday that the Brevoort hotel had been sold to E. L. Wenzel, owner of a string of Chicago hostelries, was partly confirmed last night by Richard E. Kelliher, manager of the Brevoort.

"Negotiations have been under way for six months and we'll probably make an announcement of some sort on Monday," he said.

E. N. Matthews, president and secretary of the Brevoort Hotel company, however, refused to confirm the report. In fact, he denied that a deal had been closed. Repeated calls for Mr. Wenzel at the Berkshire hotel, where he has his headquarters and which he operates, failed to get an answer from him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—Stocks bogged down anew today. While the turnover was a trifle below that of yesterday, there was lots of wind in the market and the close found most of the recognized leaders, including American and Foreign Power, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Columbia Gas, Radio, Johns-Manville, Anaconda Copper, and New York Central registering losses for the day. Transactions totaled 2,386,190 shares.

Price movements again were generally narrow and meaningless. Money ruled a shade firmer today with the 4½ per cent renewal rate holding for new loans throughout the session and concessions less frequent in the outside market. The stronger tone in the funds market was ascribed to brisk demand for call money against acceptances, which, however, was considered a temporary influence.

Steel Loses Early Gain.

Profit taking appeared in United States Steel on publication of the monthly report on unfilled tonnage and kept up until an early gain of some 2 points had been all but wiped out. Bethlehem, Crucible, and other steel shares which had been rather brisk in sympathy with the bellwether during the forenoon also eased off during the late trading.

The profit taking spread to other issues which had followed the steels into higher ground, including American Can, which was conspicuously active and strong in the early trading, and caused recessions throughout the stronger spots of the list. Utilities spurted in the first hour, but profit taking cut them down and they folded up as a group.

Motor stocks were inclined to heaviness with some large blocks changing hands in General Motors at scattered intervals.

Food shares and a number of electrical equipment issues were in demand, but few of them got very far in face of the profit taking.

Rail Group Strong.

The Van Sweringen rail group was outstandingly strong as strength goes in present market parlance. Recent

H.O. Stone Arrived in Chicago

H. O. Stone's confidence in the future of the village of 1835 which became the city of Chicago has proved amply justified.

From log huts to skyscrapers; from the Sauganash hotel, pictured above, to The Stevens; from a pioneer village to a city nearing the four million mark—Chicago's progress within a century seems well-nigh miraculous.

Today, due to unusual conditions, sound H. O. Stone First Mortgage Bonds secured by the highest grade Chicago income-earning property can be bought on a basis to yield 7% with safety. For conservative investors, this is an opportunity which may not recur in years.

CHICAGO STOCKS START BRAVELY, SOON RETREAT

Insull Preferred Issue Up 2½ Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks started out bravely enough in yesterday's session, but profit taking which followed the rally proved fatal to most of the modest gains which were made. With the sounding of the closing gong the list had retreated to about the same position in which it started the day.

More than 165,000 shares changed hands. The volume represented an increase of about 42,000 shares over the previous day.

Insull Utility preferred, second series, though not the most active issue, was a feature of the day with a rise of 2½ points following the announcement that rights on the stock had been made more favorable to the holders.

The stock had carried warrants entitling holders to exchange each share held for four-fifths of a share of common stock. With the common stock selling considerably cheaper than the preferred, the rights had lost their attractiveness.

New Exchange Rate.

Directors provided for a new exchange rate whereby holders may turn in their preferred, second series, any time during 1931 and receive common stock at the ratio of one and one-half shares for each share of preferred or three shares of common for two shares of preferred. It was also decided that if the company increased its common stock the shares deliverable upon the exercise of warrant shall be proportionately increased.

Automotives were mostly lower at the close, with Auburn setting the stride with a loss of five points. Investment issues were ragged, with gains about matching the losses. Manhattan Dearborn improved a point. In the general list Cities Service advanced a fraction and closed at 30, Iron Fireman was up 1⅞ and North American Car improved 2.

It was announced yesterday that Erwin R. Brigham has been named president of the North American Car corporation to succeed his father, who died last week. The new head has been vice president and director of the firm for a number of years. Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has also been elected a director.

Leads Radio Group.

Directors of the Utah Radio company failed to take any action on the dividends due at this time. The stock of the company finished unchanged at 5¾ yesterday.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Shows Nervousness.

Western Union is showing its usual nervousness around dividend meeting day. Directors are scheduled to meet next week and the usual talk is heard of a split up and a higher dividend. However, the street is doubtful whether anything will be done. The floating supply of Western Union is small and good buying from time to time when the price is in the lower ranges.

New Revenue Sources.

Mullins Manufacturing is perhaps better able to withstand any depression in the automobile industry than other body makers. Although the greatest part of its business still is derived from the automobile trade, it has developed several new and valuable sources of additional revenue in the last few years. It has expanded into the motorboat and yacht field and is said to have received large contracts from companies in this business in the last few months. Earnings for the initial nine months of 1929 were in excess of $3 a share.

Stages Comeback.

International Nickel's comeback of the last few days appears the result of a well planned constructive campaign on the part of large Canadian holders. It is rumored that Frood mine developments have been favorable. Shorts were evidently alarmed over the report that "puts" were obtainable "at the market," but it seems that only a few of these were available.

Ability to Improve.

Among the independent steels Vanadium has shown decided ability to improve its position in the last two weeks, and today enjoyed a fair sized gain. Speculators like Vanadium because of its simple capital structure. The capital stock is a direct lien on earnings and shares in all earnings, as there is no preferred or funded debt.

EXPECT TERMS OF CEMENT MERGER TO BE ON 5 FOR 1 BASIS

Formal announcement is expected today in New York of the consummation of the huge merger of the Universal Portland Cement company, U. S. Steel subsidiary, and the Atlas Portland Cement company, one of the country's largest cement producers. Completion of the combine, it is understood, was made at a meeting in Chicago, with B. F. Affleck, president of Universal Portland Cement, departing afterward for New York.

Terms of the merger are said to be an exchange of five shares of Atlas stock for one of U. S. Steel common, of which, about 180,000 shares were involved in the transaction. The new corporation will be known as the Universal Atlas Cement company. The combine makes U. S. Steel corporation the largest production interest in the Portland cement industry in this country with an annual capacity of about 37,000,000 barrels, or about one-The 180,000 shares of U. S. Steel common involved in the merger is worth about $31,000,000.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep.

The trend of the hog market was reversed abruptly yesterday and 10@ 15c of the recent sharp advance was erased. Arrivals at 28,000 were augmented by nearly 8,000 over from Thursday, which exceeded requirements of the trade at present price levels.

The general average was carried down 25c to $9.60, lowest since Tuesday and 10c under the average at the close of last week. The practical top dropped to $10.00, although a load of closely sorted 170 lb averages reached $10.10.

Leave 6,000 in Pens.

Most local buyers filled orders at the low point late in the day and left 6,000 in the pens for today's market. Advance estimates placed today's fresh receipts at 14,000.

Yesterday's 2,000 cattle, consisting mostly of plain quality steers, were picked up at little change in quotations. Few were good enough to pass $13,000, although one lot of 12 yearlings averaging 1,060 lbs brought $15.00, while the top for full carloads stopped at $14.50.

Most cattle are 25@50c above the close of last week, cows and heifers sharing in the week's full strength. Calves were steady yesterday, at the week's $1.00 advance. Stockers and feeders were scare and quiet.

Lambs Reach $14.75.

A bulge in the lamb market at the opening yesterday boosted the top sales to $14.75, a new high mark for the season, which is $1.50 above the low spot early last week. Many local buyers withdrew from the trade following the additional gain and most of the 15@25c advance was lost at the close.

Some good grades were still in the pens, held on weaker bids. Bulk of fat lambs sold at $14.00@14.50. Aged sheep advanced 25@50c, ewes at $8.25 establishing a top that goes back to May of last year for an equal. Mixed yearlings and two year old wethers sold at $12.25. Feeding lambs are in demand at $12.50@12.75.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 336 cattle, 9,201 hogs, and 1,073 sheep the previous Saturday, and 207 cattle, 12,630 hogs, and 5,631 sheep a year ago.

FAVORS REMOVAL OF TREASURY HEAD FROM U. S. RESERVE POST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Removal of the secretary of the treasury from the chairmanship of the federal reserve board in favor of the governor of the board was advocated today in a committee report accompanying a referendum submitted to its membership by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The questions upon which 1,700 business organizations were asked to vote also included recommendations that the flow of bank credit into speculative channels be restricted, but without prescription by congress of precise methods to be followed, and that a uniform rate of rediscount for all reserve banks is "unsuited to our regional system and to the diversity of business conditions."

The report said that the results, which are to be made public on Feb. 24, would, in effect, "determine the policies of organized business towards the reserve system."

Urging removal of the treasury head from the dominant place on the board, the committee said the position of governor should be enhanced, and added that "the board cannot possibly be expected to meet the anticipation of the framers of the reserve act while it continues to include the secretary of the treasury as its chairman, overshadowing the governor."

Recommendations also were made that the feasibility of divorcing the office of the controller of the currency from the treasury department and bringing it under the purview of the federal reserve board be considered.

Entering into the widespread discussion of brokers' loans, which the reserve board moved to curb last year when they were at their peak, the committee urged that in determining the system's credit policies, federal reserve authorities, with cooperation of the member banks, should endeavor to restrict the flow of bank credit into speculative channels when such flow is likely to produce an immediate or prospective strain on the reserve of member banks in their effort to provide credit accommodation to commerce and industry.

JAN. 15 CLOSING DATE FOR NORTH CENTRAL CONTEST

Jury to Pick Year's Most Beautiful Edifices.

BY AL CHASE.

William S. Kline, president of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, announced last night that entries for the annual architectural competition for the most beautiful and most carefully planned building erected in the north central district during 1929 must be on hand by next Wednesday, Jan. 15. At that time complete plans, specifications and photographs of buildings completed during the last year must be in the hands of the jury of awards.

This will be the eighth annual competition sponsored by the bank in its effort to improve the architectural and building standards in the north central district.

The jury of awards will consist of Alfred Granger, president of the Illinois Society of Architects and also head of the Chicago Architectural club; Howard Cheney, president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and Earl H. Reed, head of the department of architecture at the Art institute.

Study Roof Treatment.

Since the inception of the competition the jurors have passed on more than $450,000,000 worth of buildings in the district. More than a score of structures, costing over $45,000,000, already have been entered for this last award.

Since the competition was inaugurated the consideration given entries has become much more exacting. For instance, with the erection of towering structure, many stories higher than the old 264 foot limit, thousands of north central building occupants can look down on the tops of the lower buildings. With this in mind the treatment of penthouses and other roof design will receive careful consideration in making awards.

Evanston 99 Year Lease.

Robert L. Leffingwell has leased to Helen May Dix for ninety-nine years the property at 815 Chicago avenue, Evanston. The ground, 25x175 feet, is improved with a two story building which has a women's apparel shop on the ground floor and offices on the second. The terms of the lease call for a $2,000 annual rental for the first five years, $2,500 for the second five years, and $3,000 for the balance of the term. The lease contains an option to purchase at any time prior to Jan. 1, 1940, for $40,000. John F. Hahn was broker.

Patrick Gartlan has purchased the vacant business property, 66x121 feet, at 2603-07 Wabash avenue from Irving C. and Essie J. Isaacs for an undisclosed consideration.

USED CARS AT WHOLESALE PRICES!

STUDEBAKER'S prices are so low that you owe it to yourself to purchase cars from us, then resell them at higher prices. If you want to make a substantial saving, investigate our values at once. Every used car is backed by the famous Studebaker Used Car Policy, that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.

STUDEBAKER COUPE. Spec. Six 4 pass. Finished in original finish. Mohair upholstery and many extras. $195.

CHRYSLER COACH. Model 70, 4 whl. brakes, spare tire, snubbers, seat covers, etc. The finish has not a mar on it and the tires look like new. $150.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN. We recommend this as one of our very best buys. It's a str. 8 cyl. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, winter front, spare tire, bumpers, etc. This Hupp is a beauty for the performance is exceptionally fine. $345.

HASE SEDAN. We believe this 1927 is the best buy in value in Chicago. It has a real running motor. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, spare tire, bumpers, etc. $240.

WILLS STE CLAIRE SEDAN. Late model with 4 whl. brakes, Westinghouse shock absorbers, spare tire, etc. Motor is A1. Interior and exterior appear new. $385.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. Spec. 6. Finish closely like a new dollar and the expensive mohair upholstery has not a worn spot. $125.

CHEVROLET COACH. 1928. Driven very little, so it will give new car satisfaction today. $295.

ELCAR SEDAN. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, trunk, spotlight, snubbers, heater, bumpers, etc. It's an ideal car for the winter. $195.

PACKARD SEDAN. This 7 pass. Six looks and runs better than many new cars selling for $800. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, spare tire, bumpers, driving light, etc. Attractive gray finish. $245. Also a PACKARD 7 pass. Sedan, in wonderful condition, for $125.

STUDEBAKERS THAT ARE SLIGHTLY USED are better buys than cheap new cars at the same price.

We have several Studebakers in our stock that are slightly used, selling at ridiculously low prices. Many of them have been reconditioned by expert mechanics and carry a 30 day free service guarantee. All of the cars have been carefully inspected and are backed by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER, 1928 5 pass. Regal sedan with very low mileage. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Unusually smart paint job with expensive mohair upholstery to match. Actually looks and runs like a new car. Will not remain long at our low price of $885.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR, 1928 sedan, with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Has a sweet running motor and the expensive upholstery has not a worn spot. Equipped with snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Mechanically perfect. Offered at $1,085.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. Late model Commander that's in exceptionally good condition throughout. The upholstery and tires are practically 100% and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $685.
